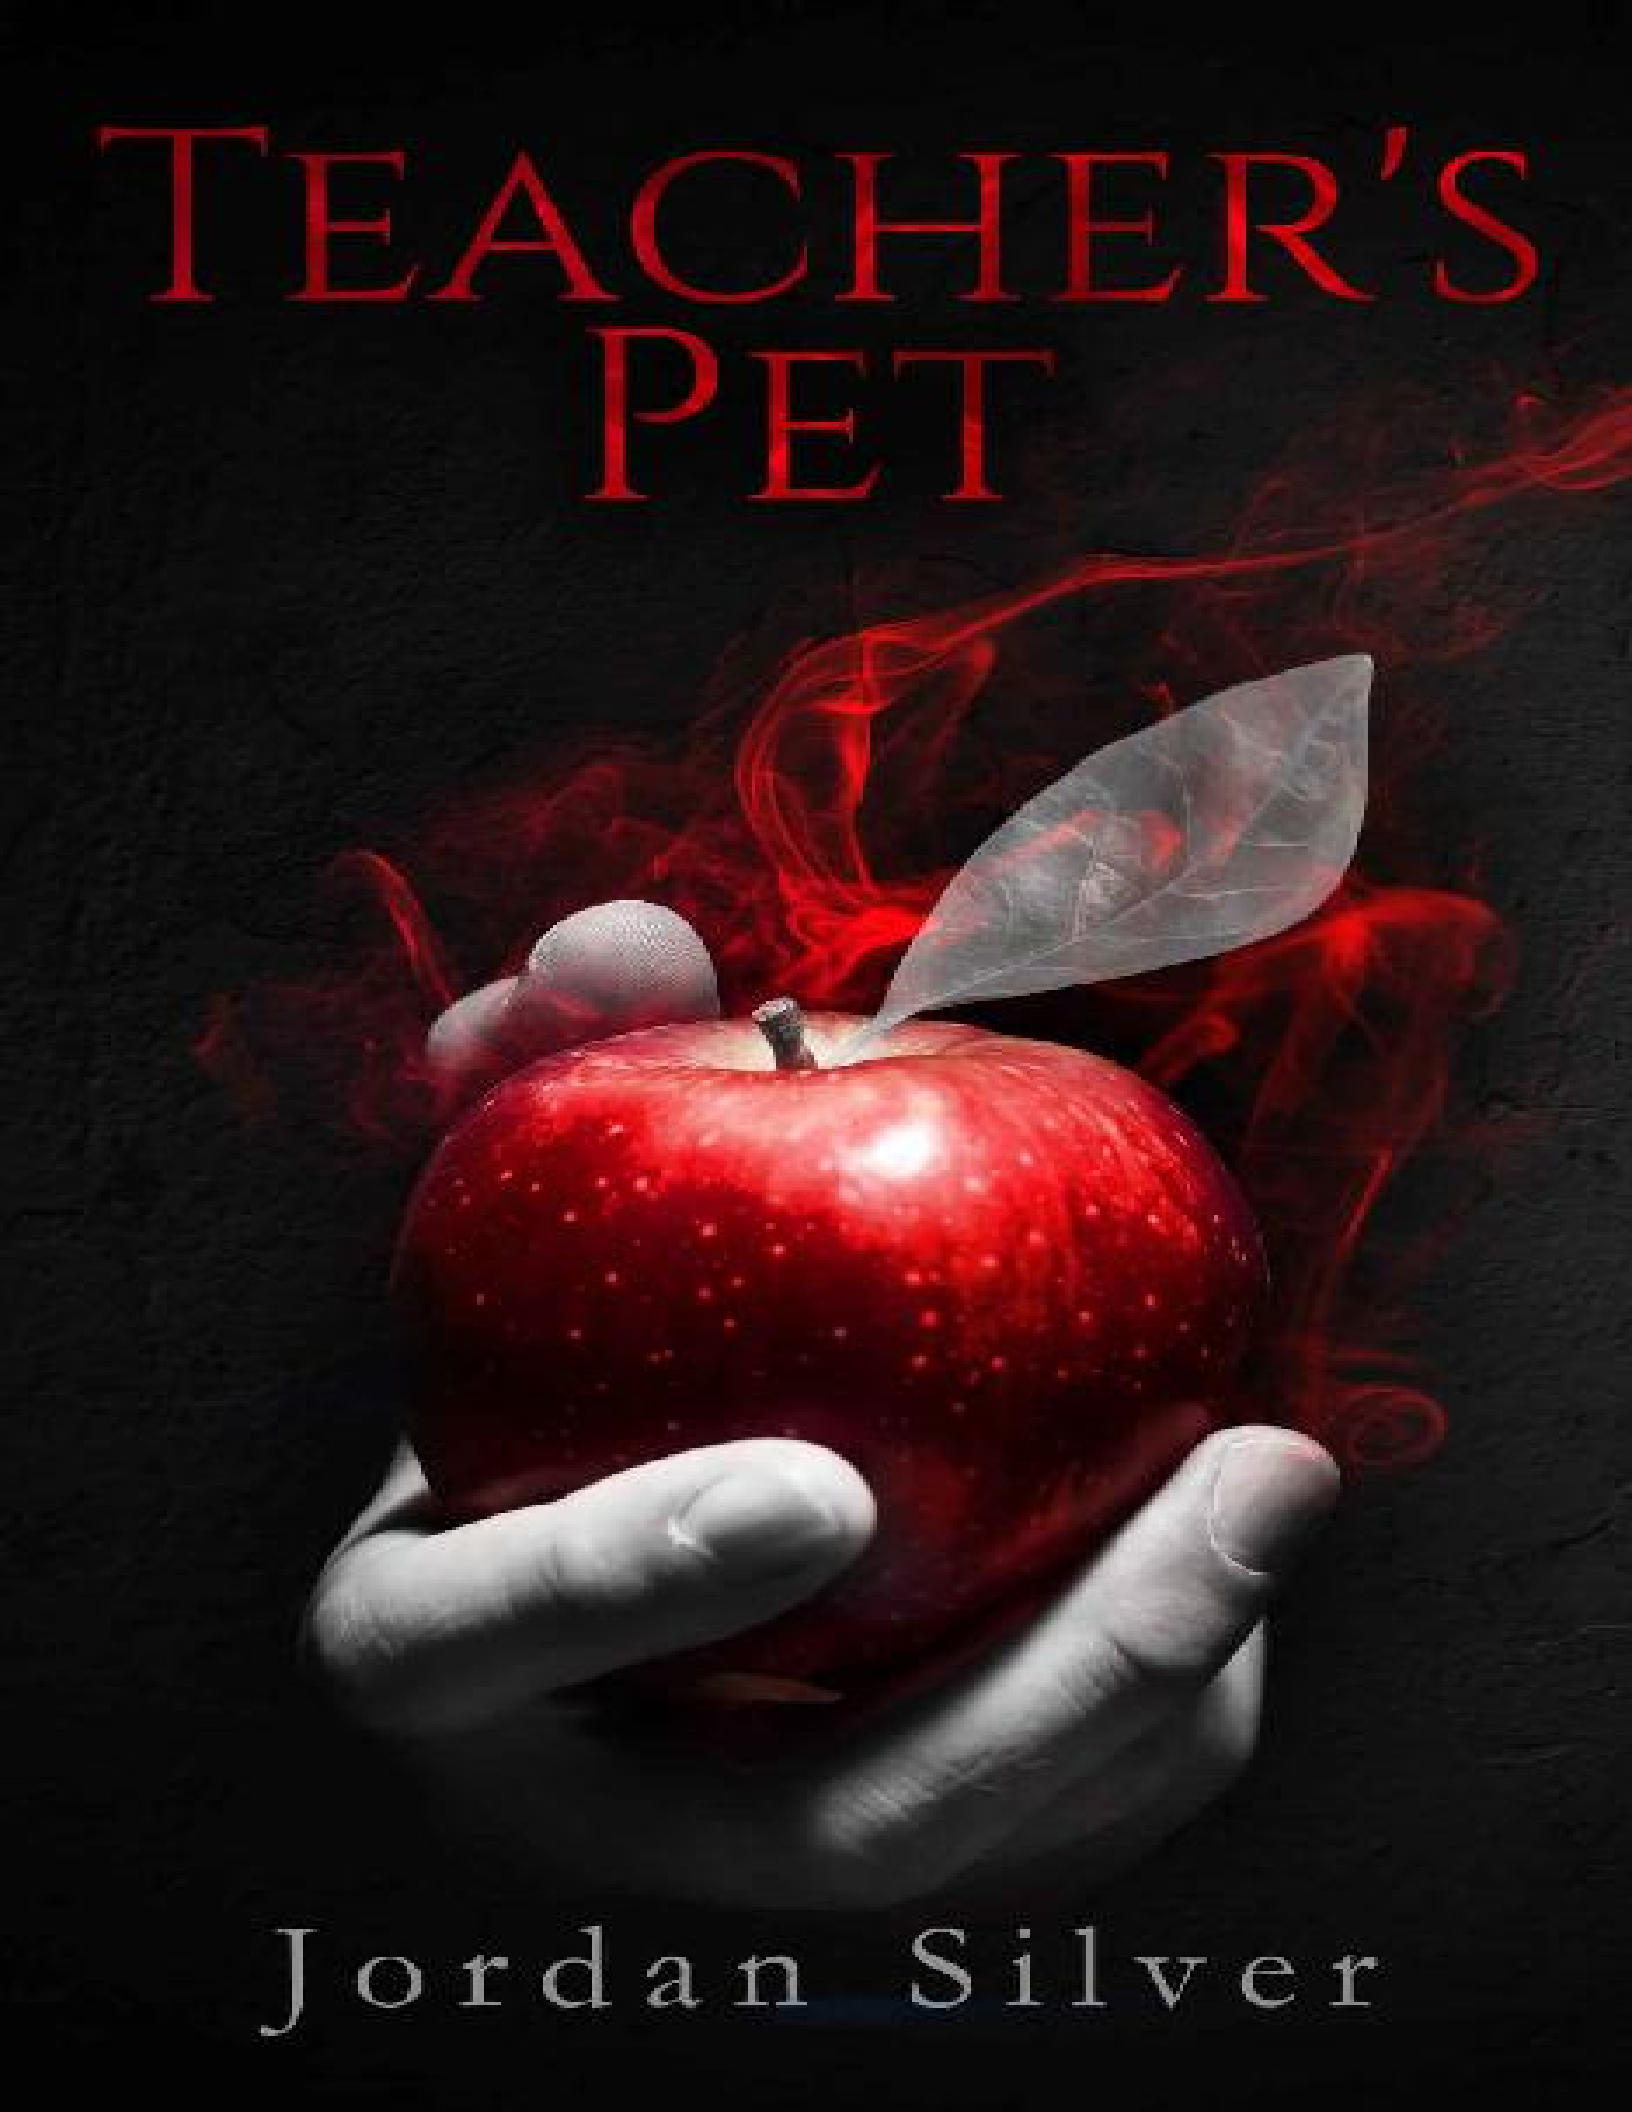
Teacher's Pet



Jordan Silver

TEACHER'S PET

OceanofPDF.com

JORDAN SILVER

OceanofPDF.com

Copyright © 2019 by Jordan Silver

All rights reserved.

No part of this book may be reproduced in any form or by any electronic or mechanical means, including information storage and retrieval systems, without written permission from the author, except for the use of brief quotations in a book review.

Created with Vellum

OceanofPDF.com

CONTENTS

1. The Introduction
2. First Meeting
3. Drake
4. Drake
5. Drake
6. Liz
7. Drake
8. Liz
9. Liz
10. Drake
11. Drake
12. Drake
13. Drake
14. Drake
15. Drake
16. Drake
17. Liz
18. Drake
19. Drake
20. Drake
21. Drake
22. Drake
23. Drake
24. Drake
25. Liz
26. Drake
27. Drake
28. Drake

29. Liz
30. Liz
31. Drake
32. Drake
33. Drake
34. Liz
35. Drake
36. Drake
37. Drake
38. Drake
39. Drake
40. Drake
41. Drake
Epilogue

OceanofPDF.com

THE INTRODUCTION

"I can't teach jocks." Elizabeth Parks dropped her bag onto the visitor's chair in the Principal's office before pacing back and forth in front of the other woman's desk

"Why not? It's not like they're delinquents. These kids are actually the brightest and the best of the senior class this year. They just happen to be football players."

"I think it's rather admirable what they're doing, I'm very proud of them." Her words were not having the desired effect on the younger woman. Not that she really expected things to be that easy. But she knew just what approach to take to get the result she wanted, so she kept at it.

"And that Drake kid deserves an award. It's been a long time since we've had one with his kind of spirit and drive around here if ever." Elizabeth had been hearing that same refrain in some form or another since moving to the small New England town.

Drake Davenport seems to be everybody's favorite pupil. He's the star quarterback of the local high school football team, an A plus student, and supposedly he has the manners of a gentleman; something rarely seen in this day and age, especially in someone with his many accolades and accomplishments.

And that was just the half of it. Apparently there was no end to the young man's good deeds. To hear the locals tell it, whatever there was that could be done, he's done it bigger and better than anyone else.

And he seemed to have an uncanny ability to excel at everything, so that it was almost impossible for anyone else to surpass him. It was hard to go anywhere in the small town and not hear his name mentioned at least once.

As a newcomer, Elizabeth had never had the honor of meeting him. She taught Grade school in another building on the other side of the school complex. And since she hates sports, she'd never attended a game. So there was no way for the two to ever cross paths.

Plus, she found it hard to believe half the stories that were told about the young man. In her experience, no one can be that perfect or even close to being half the person everyone else was making out this Drake kid to be.

She'd not cared one way or the other, until now. Since she'd seen no need for her to ever have any dealings with the boy, she'd let the stories go in one ear and out the other. But now the high school principal, her friend, seemed ready to throw her into the fray.

"Look at me, I'm five two and they're all… overgrown." That was her perception of all football players from what little she knew of them.

"Oh hogwash. You're more than qualified to teach those kids. Just because you chickened out and went to the grade school instead doesn't change that fact."

It's times likes this that she wished the principal didn't know her as well as she did. "It's going to be a breeze. These kids are taking their SAT subject tests this year and just want to be sure they have the right stuff. I think the fact that they're the ones who took the initiative should tell you that they're serious and won't give you any trouble."

Only a friend would put you in a position like this. She was having anxiety just thinking about it. At twenty-three she was in her first year of teaching. She'd excelled in school and had been offered a teaching post in some of the most well paying districts in the country.

She'd picked this little town not only because the offer was very good, but because she liked the look of the place. Since she had no real family to speak of and had spent the five years before moving here in a dorm, she had no real home to go back to either.

The aunt and uncle she'd lived with, after losing her mom when she was twelve, were only too happy to be rid of the unusual child who was so unlike their own offspring.

While her cousins were like your average teen, staying out all night with friends, getting into things they ought not to. Elizabeth was home in the attic bedroom which had been hers since she moved in, with her nose in a book.

She never felt like she was missing out on anything though, because she preferred walking through life unnoticed. Which wasn't too hard with her diminutive height and petite frame.

And because she escaped most of the unnecessary notice from the rest of the world, it was easy for her to breeze through life and excel in ways most of her peers could only dream of.

She wasn't aware of her beauty, or the fact that those who ever truly got a glimpse of that beauty were usually left stymied. But she was usually gone long before they recovered enough to make an approach.

Her best feature, and the ones she kept hidden at all times are her eyes. They're a blue so pale that in certain light they appear almost translucent. An anomaly that leaves all who see them wondering how such a thing were possible. Not even contacts could be found with the same hue.

She'd known since childhood that there was something wrong with her eyes. Not technically, like she had poor eyesight, but there was definitely something odd about them. It was evident in the way people reacted to them. They were always either staring or making strange comments when she was younger.

She'd learned to walk with her head down and never looked anyone in the eye because her unusual eyes always brought her trouble. As a child it was hard to understand, but she hasn't been faring much better on that score as an adult.

When she first moved in with the family her aunt had warned her not to look at people because it made them uncomfortable, making her even more self conscious about her odd eyes. Her cousins just told her that they were ugly.

So believing this, she'd taken to hanging her head whenever in the company of others. It had worked well enough and for a while she was spared the inconvenience of what she perceived to be a physical attribute that she couldn't readily change.

The one time she'd slipped up at sixteen her cousin's boyfriend had hit on her and she'd ended up with almost all the hair pulled out of her head. Of course no one believed that she hadn't enticed him, and once again she'd borne the brunt of her family's anger.

It was the first time she saw the effect her strange eyes had on the opposite sex and it scared her just a little bit. She didn't understand what the big deal was, it's not like she had any control over them.

She'd tried wearing contacts when she got older, but they were too irritating and glasses only seemed to enhance the color, making it even brighter. So, there was nothing to help her look up at the world.

Because of her cousins' constant bullying she'd become more and more withdrawn, so that by the time she left for college she had all but disappeared into the wallpaper.

In college she'd set a goal for herself, to get her B.A and Masters in five years, which meant constant studying with no let-up for those five years.

So that eliminated dating and anything else resembling a life. It was also in college where she learned about transitional glasses, which was the answer to everything as far as she was concerned.

Though she still had to keep her eyes down when indoors, it didn't matter as much, since she spent most of her time in a classroom where she wasn't in the habit of staring down her five and six year olds. But once outside, the world was her oyster. Hidden as she was behind the dark tint of the lenses.

And so she was able to get through college as the shy loner who kept to herself and was always the most excited to get the crappiest closet sized dorm room, because it meant no roommate.

She'd accepted the job and moved to town within a matter of weeks after graduation. She did meet someone not long after moving, quite by accident, but it didn't work out.

She wasn't ready for what he wanted, and wasn't even sure she even liked the man that had bombarded her for a date for weeks before she finally said yes out of desperation.

Once again it had been her eyes that had landed her in hot water. She'd taken her glasses off to read the fine print on a label in the grocery store and he just happened to be there when she looked up again.

She lived through two of his obnoxiously overbearing dates before telling him she wasn't interested and hoped to go back to her life. It was not meant to be.

Robert has been making a pest of himself ever since she turned him down the first time. Here lately he'd grown even worst, more persistent. Her naturally shy nature wasn't equipped to deal with something like that and she was still having a hard time getting the overbearing man to leave her alone in peace.

Now as if that wasn't enough, she had this added headache to deal with. The thought of being alone in a room full of jocks for any length of time was enough to give her heart palpitations.

Like every young girl, she knew all about the most popular boys in school. The kind every girl wants to get with. And though she knew the definition of jock, she'd never had any real dealings with one even as a teenager herself and her lack of confidence when it comes to the opposite sex made the idea of dealing with them now break her out in hives.

She was well aware that boys that age were a far cry from the little tykes she now taught and was much more comfortable with. But as much as she argued, she knew that she was going to do it in the end.

It's not like she had a choice really. The teacher who'd been slated to teach this particular class had fallen and fractured her back while rock climbing and will be out for quite a while, and no one else was available to take her place at such short notice.

"Well, will you do it? Or are you going to put me through the trouble of having to find someone else?" Principal Thorne grinned at the young woman knowing that she wouldn't be disappointed.

She knew the grit and determination in this particular teacher. Knew that she was one of the most intelligent people walking the halls of their local grade school, and was more well suited to the high school anyway, which is where she'd wanted her to teach in the first place.

But she also knew of the other woman's shyness and her tendency to stay away from anything male. They'd met years ago at a getaway for teachers and prospective teachers. And even with the thirty-year age difference, the two had hit it off and stayed in touch.

Mrs. Thorne didn't know why, but from the moment she first met the younger woman, she knew she belonged in her small town. And after hearing her story, no family to speak of and no real home to go back to, she'd offered her the job after graduation. She'd not regretted that choice once.

So far all the parents has been singing the younger woman's praise and thanking her for having the foresight to hire her away from the more prestigious establishments that had been seeking her out.

Elizabeth sighed once again as she picked up her bag. She checked her watch as she headed for the door. “You knew I was going to do it before you called me in here. I have to go, class starts in ten minutes.”

DRAKE DAVENPORT WAS INDEED everyone’s favorite pupil. He’s the kind of kid that all the other parents held up as the epitome of what they wished their own children to be. But it wasn’t just because of his prowess on the football field, or even his outstanding academic achievements. But because the kid is the whole package.

Smart, handsome, kind and rich, he had star quality all across the board, with a personality to match. Sure he got his financial start earlier than most at the age of sixteen when his paternal grandmother gave him part of his inheritance early on a whim.

But it’s what he did with that start-up cash that made him standout even more not only amongst his peers, but the adults in the community.

Unlike many young men his age, he didn’t run out and buy the hottest new car on the market, though he’d just got his license that year. Then again his maternal grandfather had already taken care of that with the brand new custom made Phantom he’d surprised his grandson with.

What Drake had done, in keeping with his entrepreneurial ancestors, was to open up a business, and not just one either, but two. The first thing he did was hire members of his team that he knew were less fortunate than he.

He bought lawnmowers and an old truck and all the equipment they would need for a lawn service that summer. Between his mom, his grandmas and their many groups, he had more than enough yards to cut to keep his guys in business.

And so that the girls didn’t feel left out, he’d opened up an ice cream shack in the perfect spot for motorists coming in and out of their small picturesque town in the summer. To no one’s surprise both businesses were successful, especially for one ran and owned by a teen.

Everyone got behind the young men and women who were doing something positive in the community and though they were all singing his praise, Drake never took all the credit, always bringing his crew into the conversation. He was that kind of guy.

And it was indeed his crew, since on any given day he could be seen working one of the riding mowers on somebody's lawn. The joke around town was that all the housewives hired him because of his good looks, and maybe there was some truth to it since by the middle of that first summer they'd had more business than they could handle.

Drake wasn't just about the money though. As a very socially conscious young man, he was into shit most people his age didn't even know about. His grandma is fond of calling him an old soul, someone who'd been here before, because of his tendencies and his general outlook on life.

Though he didn't share his innermost thoughts with anyone, he'd always been very observant and because of this was able to see the void that was evident amongst his peers. But it's the way he processes this information and what he does with it that puts him way ahead of his peers.

Not only did he start the summer job program, but since he knew that some of the guys playing with him won't make it to the big leagues, he'd come up with a plan to make them all study hard and get the grades they needed to get into good colleges or universities.

It was a simple plan really, though not many knew how it came about. He'd cornered the coach one day when he got wind of something. He'd been talking to his running back and had passed him something to read. It didn't take him long to realize what the embarrassment on the other kid's face meant.

The very next day he'd ran the coach to ground and threatened to quit the team if the coach didn't stop pressuring teachers to pass the kids even though they were failing. He knew the other man would have no choice.

Not only because of who Drake was, but because Drake had threatened to make his reasons for quitting known, which would've opened a whole rotten can of worms.

In the end Drake got his way and his team, a year later, was doing much better academically. He knew he couldn't save everyone, but thought he'd save as many as he could.

His grandparents were so proud of what he'd done with the money, which had been a test of sorts in actuality, that they decided to gift him a part of the family enterprise when he reached twenty-five instead of having to wait for his full inheritance at his father's passing. Something he hoped was a long time in coming.

"Just a few of the shops on the Drive. We'll see how you do with those. You're going to inherit the whole thing one day anyway, but this will be yours and yours alone when you inherit."

That meant it would no longer be part of the family portfolio, but his personal holdings. Drake was already drafting ideas for making them better once he took over.

So, the young man that everyone was hailing was indeed worthy of those kind words, but for a lot more reasons than he made known. Drake usually just laughed it off whenever someone talked him up to his face, but the truth is it made him very uncomfortable.

They acted in his eyes, as if they thought he was perfect and he knew that nothing could be farther from the truth. His last girlfriend wannabe could probably tell them why he wasn't perfect. But thankfully he never seriously dated anyone locally. He wouldn't have known what to do with the line of broken hearts left in his wake if he did.

Not because he was a bad guy or anything. He just hadn't met a girl that he wanted to get that serious with. Sex was one thing. He'd loved and enjoyed sex with anyone who offered, as long as he was interested from the age of fourteen.

He approached sex the same way he did everything else, like it was something to be conquered. He likes to take his time and do it right, which in the end only brings him more trouble. Because more often than not it made the girls he tangled with dick crazy and wanting more from him than he was ready to give.

It was all fun to the well-rounded teen, but he's never been in danger of falling for anyone that he'd met, because there was always something lacking in the girls who threw themselves at him.

Maybe it was because his intellect was light years ahead of theirs, he wasn't sure. He just knew that he needed more stimulation in a relationship if it was going to last for more than the hour or so it took to get them in and out of bed.

He wasn't worried about people liking him because of his wealth, he was confident enough in himself to know he had a lot more going for him and made no bones about it.

But he did worry on occasion that he would never fall in love. He just didn’t see it happening. His own parents had met and fallen in love in high school, but he wasn’t even close to achieving that goal.

Besides, at eighteen, he really wasn’t even thinking about anything serious right now. There was still a lot he wanted to do. Though he’d always believed that he’d know his woman when he sees her and it really didn’t matter to him if it was now or later.

And so it was that these two who’d never met, never even so much as glimpsed one another even though they both lived in a relatively small town, became fated to meet in a classroom at Spring Valley High later on that day.

OceanofPDF.com

FIRST MEETING

Liz couldn't believe just how nervous she was. She didn't remember being this nervous her first day in front of her first grade class. Then she'd been excited and rearing to go as she looked forward to shaping their young minds and having a lasting effect.

Okay she'd expected to be a bit jittery, but nothing to this extent. All day she'd been preparing herself but to no avail it seems. Now alone in the classroom where she'd shown up a little earlier than necessary, she wiped her sweaty palms on her skirt under the desk for the third or fourth time as she tried calming the nervous tremble in her knees.

She stood to her feet and wrote and erased her name from the chalkboard three times, not quite sure if this was the done thing these days. Are they still doing that in high school? She asked herself as she stood there with chalk in hand.

"Why didn't I ask someone for pointers? Like one of the other teachers maybe." She fretted in frustration as she replaced the chalk and walked back to her desk.

The reason she hadn't called anyone is because she didn't know anyone here as yet, other than a handful of teachers who taught at the grade school, and then of course there was principal Thorne who'd been the one to drag her into this mess in the first place.

She clapped her hand to her forehead, scolding herself for her oversight. Granted she didn't want to bother the other woman any more than she already had since moving to town. But it beat sitting her feeling like a duck out of water. Whatever the case, it was too late to do anything about it now.

As the time drew near she sat behind the desk and made herself busy going over the upcoming lessons. It was a very rigorous program, one that she wasn't sure many kids could tackle, let alone jocks.

Though not given to predisposed opinions about people she'd never met, the stuff they were about to study was pretty ambitious even for the top students of the year, let alone kids who also divided their attention with something as vigorous as a national sport.

But she looked it over, feeling a bit of excitement, as it was a vast difference from her grade school lessons and more in line with her intelligence. If she could help them with even half of it she'd be proud of herself and them.

She'd been top of her class ever since she reached first grade. It wasn't something she'd worked overly hard at, she just happened to be born with a brilliant mind. No matter the subject, it just seemed to come naturally for her.

If not for the fact that she was a borderline introvert, she could've done wonders on the world stage. But for as long as she could remember, teaching had been her only dream. Teaching young children anyway.

Tonight was going to be a whole new experience for the first time teacher who hadn't spent much time around teenagers let alone boys, not even when she was a teen herself.

That's part of what was worrying her as she sat there looking down at the same line for the last five minutes. She hadn't the first clue how to interact with them and was afraid of falling flat on her face and failing miserably.

That book smarts of hers had never quite made the jump over to street smarts, not even when she'd been on her own these past five years at university and her social awkwardness was very noticeable to anyone who took the time to see it. And just the memory of what teenage boys got up to when she herself was in high school was enough to make her want to run for it even if it meant disappointing her one and only friend.

As the kids started filing in, she could feel her nerves rise and fray. Just as she'd thought, they were all huge. They were noisy as well as they made their way to their seats, and not one of them had said hello, almost as though they hadn't seen her sitting there.

That didn’t last long though. “Oh shit, the new teach is here.” One of them stood to his feet with a wide grin and the most massive arms Elizabeth had ever seen on an eighteen year old.

That’s another thing. All the boys in this class were eighteen, adults. Which made her even more nervous for some odd reason. She was even worst with grown ups truth be told. And just as she’d suspected, these boys all towered over her petite frame like mountains next to an anthill.

Now the nerves really set in and she was kicking herself for not coming up with a good enough excuse to get out of doing the job. It was a little too late now though, to finally accept that she just wasn’t cut out for it.

She was having a hard enough time dealing with five and six year olds, let alone adult teens. School certainly isn’t like it used to be when she was younger. All the kids seem so much more mature, even the little ones. Something she only learned when she stepped in front of a classroom for the first time.

Now she watched as the students filed in one after the other talking boisterously with one another. Should I have them introduce themselves? She wondered to herself.

The big one with the arms had only grinned at her after bringing her to everyone’s attention before taking his seat again. No name given, and the others had only smiled as they took their seats.

Is that still cool or would I be starting off on the wrong foot? She had a feeling it would be the latter. They’d probably laugh me out of the room. She thought as she moved around the papers on her desk

All her old fears and anxiety threatened to return, and for a split second she was back there again; the lonely orphan afraid of her own shadow. But common sense prevailed in the end and she told herself to go with what felt right to her. She, was the teacher after all.

She counted heads and waited, all the while taking furtive looks at the players as she played a little game in her head, trying to figure out who was who.

She’d spent her lunch break reading up on the kids that were going to be taking the class, getting what information she could glean from their academic history.

But so far there were no faces to go with the names on the sheet of paper she held because she hadn’t had enough time to go digging that far.

She did know that there were two people missing though, and just then heard their footsteps coming towards the room.

Her heart thumped in her chest when the last one sat and she counted heads again. They were all here. She took a deep breath and willed her nerves to take a backseat as she opened her mouth to speak.

“Hello class, my name is Ms. Parks and I will be your teacher as the other has had a bit of an accident and will be gone for a while.” She congratulated herself for not sounding like a wounded kitten at least.

They let her know that they already knew and had in fact visited the other woman in the hospital over the weekend. “Oh that was nice of you, um, would you please tell me your names?” Her face was already burning and she hoped that no one noticed how gauche she was being.

There were ten of them and they went down the line from front to back telling her their names with a little ribald teasing of each other thrown in for good measure. She didn’t know why she was so nervous when it came to Drake’s turn. Maybe because she’d already picked him out from among the others.

She’d taken all that she’d learned about him so far and formed an idea in her head. That’s something she does a lot. But this was the first time maybe that the reality outshone the vision. And that he was, a vision.

His head was full of the thickest black hair, neither curly nor straight and it seemed to go all over the place at once when he ran his hands through it. And those eyes, a green as bright as the first grass of spring. Or was it the look in those eyes when he looked at her?

Okay Elizabeth, don’t be fanciful. It’s not like he’s looking at you any different to anyone else. But he did seem to have a rather intense stare for someone that young, almost as if he were trying to peer into her mind.

She relaxed once she remembered that she was wearing her tinted glasses and that he couldn’t read her after all. She still fumbled around a little with the stuff on the desk and cleared her throat at least twice as she strove to regain her composure.

No wonder he had the reputation he had. It was obvious that he was different from the rest of his peers even in attitude. There was just something about him that made him stand out and away from the others, as if they were worlds apart.

In truth it was her first time dealing with someone as wealthy as he was purported to be and she wondered if this was par for the course for that ilk.

If this is the way people usually acted around the Uber rich as they say.

She took one last peek and almost fell off her chair when she caught him just looking back at her with no indication of what could possibly be going through his mind.

For the rest of the evening she didn't let her eyes touch him again, but she was very aware of his presence and the fact that every once in a while he'd lift his head up and stare in her direction.

Her skin grew feverishly hot under her clothes and there were butterflies playing tag in her nervous tummy. It was very unsettling to be the recipient of his silent looks. But worst she felt like he was seeing more than she wanted him to with that stare of his.

It made her restless, this new feeling. Almost like she was exposed in front of the classroom, that old anxiety nightmare of coming to school naked has never seemed more real.

Because she was so out of her element, it took her a little bit of trial and error to get things rolling. But surprisingly once they did, they were off to a good start. She did notice that Drake seemed to be the leader of sorts in this group.

She'd seen more than one of the others look to him for the answer to something. And the way they treated each other, was not what she'd expected even after all the stories she'd heard. She guessed everyone was right after all; there is something special about Drake Davenport.

Her mind wandered slightly as they worked on the problem she'd just given them to solve. She wished she'd had the foresight to look into their social media activities. You can learn a lot about kids these days by following them on one or the other of those platforms.

But she still wasn't clear on the correct protocol for that. Since the kids she usually dealt with were between the ages of five and eleven, she'd never faced the question before. But something told her she needed to learn as much as she could about Drake.

Just thinking about it gave her a flutter in her tummy, and she skated back away from the danger of feeling anything other than what she's supposed to feel as a teacher.

Not that her thoughts crossed the line or anything, it's just that she was a bit unsure of how to deal with the unwanted nervousness she felt. It was a different sort of nerves and unease than she was used to.

She’d never experienced anything quite like it, and wondered if it was the build up from all the stories she’d heard about the young man that was making her this nervous. It was kind of like meeting a legend after hearing of his accolades.

He had his head down as he wrote when she happened to glance his way again after promising herself that she wouldn’t. When did eighteen-year old boys start looking like full-grown men?

Just then, as if sensing her interest, he picked his head up and asked her something about the equation she’d given them to configure.

Even his voice when he asked the question didn’t sound like a child’s but a man’s. The tone did something strange to her nerve endings and the longer she sat there the more desperate she became. Especially when she felt his gaze.

“Pardon?” She felt the heat of a blush when she realized she’d just been staring absently and had totally forgotten what he’d asked just a few seconds ago. His knowing smile as he repeated the question didn’t help matters any either.

He took pity on her and kept his head in his book after that. Or more rationally, she told herself, he never even noticed her as anything beyond the fact that she was the new substitute teacher and was busy doing the work she’d laid out for them.

When she wasn’t letting her mind drift where it ought not to, she realized from the questions they asked and the diligence with which they approached the class, that they were indeed serious and what’s more, intelligent.

Still she couldn’t get out of there fast enough and head home to her lonely little cottage to hide when the hour and a half was up. She was equal parts ashamed and intrigued. Ashamed because although he’d already turned eighteen, he was still her student and the teacher student relationship has always been frowned upon when it crossed certain boundaries.

And then she was also ashamed for even thinking about that because it implied that she was interested, no tempted…Oh what’s the use? She accepted the fact that she was in way over her head in any case. The intrigue was self-explanatory.

Even though she’d heard the stories, she’d told herself they were just a lot of hoopla for the local boy done good. But something told her after that first meeting that they hadn't been far off the mark. There truly was something special about the kid.

She'd never been attracted to anyone a day in her life, and because of her anti-social tendencies, she had no idea what to do with the new unwanted and very inappropriate feelings that had decided to plague her now.

She put it down to mere admiration for the young man's many achievements at such a young age. As a teacher shouldn't she be proud of any student who stands out above the rest?

She patted her warm cheeks and headed into the bathroom to splash her face with water, then tried clearing her mind with some meditation techniques she'd learned, but none of it helped. She could still see that full head of lustrous hair under the glaring light of the classroom.

She felt unusually hot and uncomfortable in her own skin as she dragged her clothes off and stepped into the shower. Her body felt sensitive to the touch so that even her nightly shower was interrupted because of him.

Staring into the mirror after her aborted shower, she noticed that her eyes were even brighter than usual. There was a hint of gold specks in the irises that she'd never noticed before, and something else seemed to shine in them. Something she didn't recognize.

She didn't stay in the mirror too long, not one for staring at herself, so she turned away and scolded herself for being silly. She also reminded herself of how immoral it would be to even think of him in any way other than as a student. But even then she couldn't stop thinking about the charismatic boy-man with the captivating eyes.

By the next morning, after tossing and turning in her sleep, she had a pretty good idea what was bothering her and it was not good. If she'd had a best girlfriend this would be the perfect time to call her. But there was no one to share the confusing feelings that had kept her awake half the night with.

She told herself that if this keeps up, she's going to have to come up with a solution. With her ingrained shyness and ineptness in social settings, she knew she was bound to make a mistake and show herself to the wrong person. Which would only end in disaster.

Luckily she only had to see him three evenings a week for an hour and a half each time. Any more than that and she was afraid she might lose her senses. Still, there was a part of her that felt like a flower after a spring rain.

Blossoming and opening its petals to the sun for the first time. She had a crush, her first ever and though she couldn’t share it with anyone, it was all the sweeter because she had to keep the feelings locked away in her heart.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

Pretty! That's what I thought when I saw the new afterschool teacher for the first time. Nothing more, other than I'd expected Ms. Parks to be an older woman. This one didn't look much older than me, and the guys.

I'd barely noticed her when I first walked in because I was busy listening to Carter, one of my teammates who was going over a new play that coach wanted us to try at practice the next day.

When I did finally notice her after taking my seat, she'd had her head down. I wondered why she was wearing shades in class but then decided she was probably trying to protect her eyes from the obscene glare of the industrial lighting in the room. Wish I'd have thought of that the last four years or so.

I didn't notice anything unusual about her voice when she spoke, just that it was soft, almost melodic. And it was easy to see that she was short because of the distance between her chin and the desk she sat behind, which looked massive with her sitting behind it.

I did catch her giving me looks and decided I made her nervous. I have that effect on a lot of people for some odd reason when we first meet, so I never pay it too much mind and never let it bother me. With her it was no different.

She didn't stay on my mind after class was over, in fact, I didn't even think about her. Not when I climbed into my truck, which is what I prefer to drive around town, only using the Phantom on special occasions or if I'm going somewhere formal.

I didn't think of her while mom sat with me as I ate dinner later than the rest of the family. "So how was your class, is the new teacher what you expected?"

I nodded my head and shoveled food into my mouth, grinning at her exasperated sigh. "Mom, you taught me not to speak while I'm eating remember?"

"Yes you smart aleck I remember." She sat with me for a while asking about the game and practice and the same questions she asks every day. And though the questions might be repetitious, the intent is very much appreciated.

I got her to snitch on dad and what he was up to. He'd been planning my graduation party for months now and it was still a while away. I'd heard him tell mom that it was the same as her planning my sister's wedding for the future. It takes time.

From her reaction I'm guessing he was going overboard again, but that's dad. When it comes to his kids he'd always go the extra mile. I guess having a heart attack and almost dying can change your perspective on things.

So, my mind was pretty much too preoccupied with other things to think about the new teacher. Though as I got ready for bed a little while later, I found myself wondering what her eyes looked like behind those glasses.

It was easy to suspect that she was pretty from what little there was of her face that wasn't hidden behind the oversized glasses. Or at least that she had fine features with that bone structure.

Her hair was a pretty reddish blonde color and her cheekbones perfectly contoured with her forehead. All that was missing was a nice pair of blue eyes, or maybe green.

I couldn't make out much about her body in the ugly baggie clothes that swallowed up what was obviously a petite frame. And she wasn't even trying to make herself attractive with that messy bun on top of her head with the forgotten pencil pushed through it. So why is it that that night I went to sleep thinking about her?

I woke up the next morning and can't say that she was on my mind, but I might have given her a fleeting thought while I got dressed. Nothing felt different when I drove to school in my truck with the windows down and music blasting.

I didn't feel any different when I stepped onto school grounds and met up with my friends. When I was teasing and playing around with my teammates, or even throughout my classes. There was no lingering memory, nothing like my usual when I'm sexually attracted to someone.

My day went pretty much the same as all the others, until halfway through lunch when I saw someone I thought might be her heading across school grounds in the direction of the principal's office.

It was odd, because until yesterday I'd never seen her on school grounds before. I hadn't looked her up because I didn't think I needed to; so had no real idea who she was.

All the principal had said was that they were bringing someone in from another school in the district to fill the spot. And since most of the teachers in our town are in their fifties, I just figured she would be too.

I watched the figure disappear and shook my head wondering why the hell I'd stood there so long watching her. I went through the rest of the day not giving her a second thought. Okay maybe one or two, but nothing major.

That evening after dinner one of the cheers called for some one on one time but for the first time, barring an injury, I begged off. She was as surprised as I was. And suddenly all I could think about was her, and the fact that I was going to see her tomorrow.

LIZ

I HAD one day of reprieve from seeing him in the flesh, but that did not keep my mind from wandering. I was distracted and edgy all throughout my morning classes until I couldn't stand myself.

Just before lunch that next day I'd come to the conclusion that I had to get out of teaching that class or having anything to do with that part of the school ever again, at least while he's still there. But I couldn't come up with a plausible excuse to give.

I never would've expected me to be the type to want to break all the rules, or to even give such a thing any thought. Never imagined that my mind could go to the places that it now has without my control.

I guess it just goes to show why you shouldn't judge. I've had my own opinions over the years whenever one of these teacher-student affairs appeared in the news. Always felt sure in the fact that I would never do such a thing. Now look at me.

Though the thoughts were only in my mind and hadn't yet been manifested into anything more, they still left me feeling dirty. Like I'd committed a crime or a very serious offense at the very least.

That is why a little after noon I found myself heading to the principal's office excuse or no excuse. I figured on the way there that I'd come up with something to tell her to get her to release me.

This was too important to ignore and there was something inside warning me that danger waited up ahead if I didn't distance myself now. I felt both better and as if I were about to lose something.

It was very confusing but I knew the right thing to do and set out to do it. I'll deal with the other feelings later, alone in the little cottage I call home. At least there, hidden away from everyone else, my thoughts are my own and not likely to land me in trouble of any kind. And even that felt like stepping over the line.

Of course she wasn't there and the relief I felt I'm just going to leave alone. I told myself as my nerves settled that it wasn't meant to be, that I was supposed to stay and teach the class. And by the time I made it back to my little Kia I wasn't sure if that was a good thing or not.

I do know that all day after lunch I kept expecting something to happen. I thought for sure someone was going to see into my mind and read my thoughts, and expose me for what I am.

But how can I be blamed for this? None of this was my doing. I didn't make myself have these odd feelings, didn't set out to become attracted to a boy. Only he was no ordinary boy and now thinking of him had graduated to making me weak in the knees.

That night I told myself that nothing inappropriate had happened and there was no reason for me to feel like I was under a microscope. Or that people were looking in through the windows at me.

I was in a panic all evening and couldn't even finish my home cooked dinner of pasta and vegetables. I was extremely jittery the darker it got outside and so was in no mood for the phone call from Robert that came just before bedtime.

"Hello?" The number hadn't looked familiar but I'm in the habit of answering all my phone calls no matter what time of night it may be. "I really need to see you." I'd know that voice anywhere.

Funny, the two times I'd gone out with him I didn't recall feeling this crept out by just the sound of his voice. "Robert, it's late. I told you this wasn't a good idea. Please respect my wishes and stop calling me. Thanks!"

I hung up the phone but somehow I didn't think that that was the last I'd hear from him. I got up from the bed and walked around the little house checking the windows and doors. I'm not that green that I don't recognize the signs.

One of the things you learn when you're as little as I am is that you better learn how to protect yourself, and most of the time while you're doing that, you're gonna learn about all the reasons why you'd want to know how to.

So I saw the scary tendencies in Robert, the near obsession and his refusal to accept that I wasn't interested. Even though I saw it, I was still hoping to avoid the mess of restraining orders and court dates just to get someone to stop dialing my number.

It wasn't too bad at this point, there were no daily phone calls. Then again I wouldn't know since my phone's off most of the day. Either way I'm still trying to handle things without the added embarrassment of everyone knowing I'd been caught up in such a situation.

Because of that phone call and the persistent thoughts in my head, I hardly got any sleep and woke the next day feeling agitated and cross. But as putout as I felt, the reminder that I was going to see Drake later that evening seemed like a beacon of light in an otherwise dark world.

On my lunch break I tried to find some answers online but there's no right way to search for answers to what was bothering me. And reading about others who'd been burned was of no help and only served to scare me even more than I already was.

And then somewhere in the middle of the school day after making myself crazy, I had an epiphany out of nowhere. I'm safe, the other person involved has no idea what's going on inside my head, and so nothing would ever come of this.

No one else will ever know that I'd gone and done the unthinkable, so there will be no one to judge. I can enjoy this crush to my heart's content and no one would be the wiser. All I have to do is keep my feelings locked away inside.

My spirits rose with the realization and I no longer had that hunted feeling in my gut. I told myself I will walk into that class without a care in the world and no one would be the wiser. What I do alone in my bed at night; who I take into my dreams with me is no one else's business.

I kept that attitude pretty much for the rest of the day, so much so that I found myself wearing a secret little smile every once in a while and that fresh new feeling of excitement was never far from me all day.

As with everything else in life I was having my first love affair all by my lonesome. It might seem pitiful to some, but for me this feeling was huge and something I wanted to hold onto for a little while longer before it disappeared, as I'm sure it would.

I'd never allowed myself to do and enjoy the same things as my peers when I was growing up and so had missed out on that first blush of adolescent love.

Never had a boy to walk me down the halls in high school, or to stay up with late on the phone. No high school boyfriend to pick me up at the front door for Saturday night dates. And now, I was having an affair with the hottest jock in any school anywhere.

Okay so it was just in my head but it was just as satisfying, for me anyway. For someone like me that's probably as far as something like this would ever go. And sometimes the dream far outweighs the reality, so I convinced myself that I had the best of both worlds.

I can have this little tete a tete in my head where no one gets hurt, while building a world all my own, starring Drake and I. In my dream he wasn't too young for me, there was no mention of the teacher student divide.

We were just two people who met and fell in love because we couldn't help ourselves, drawn as we were to each other. The more I imagined the warmer I felt until it was almost unbearable to feel the rough material of my clothes against my skin.

And so I headed to my new favorite class with my mind made up. There was no reason for the earlier panic, I can do this. I can keep thoughts of him to myself and see him every other day without any mishaps.

And besides, maybe I wouldn’t feel the same. Maybe that first time only happened that way because I hadn’t been prepared. I hadn’t expected his beauty or the way it made me feel just to look at him.

I convinced myself that that would be best all around. That if my feelings should go back to normal I won’t have this problem any longer. Yes, that would surely be best I told myself. Until I walked into the class and he was the only one sitting there.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

There she is. I felt her enter the room but continued looking at my phone as if I didn't know she was there. I was aware of her every move. Like the way she faltered in the doorway when she saw me sitting here alone.

I'm such an idiot it had taken me two days to figure out that there could be another reason for her nervousness that first night. Since it's never happened before it just never registered in my mind.

After I'd thought I'd seen her heading to the principal's office the day before, she'd stayed on my mind. For some odd reason I'd spent the rest of the day wondering about her, becoming more fascinated with each moment that passed.

It made no sense really, since I didn't even really know what she looked like, I had yet to see her eyes or anything else of her for that matter. But low and behold she stayed pretty much on my mind without much effort.

She's far from what I'd expect myself to be attracted to and maybe that was part of the draw. Who knows? All I know is that last night when I went to bed I stayed up way too late thinking about her. I even wondered if it was all an act to get my attention, that shy reserved shit she had going on, the way she hid behind those nondescript glasses, even the way she'd nervously fidgeted with the stuff on her desk.

It wouldn't be the first time a female used her wiles to gain my attention, but her act was so damn obvious it couldn't be anything but real.

No one else seemed to notice anything different about her either. So I wondered why I was the only one who seemed suddenly intrigued.

The others hadn't so much as mentioned her, not the way they usually would after a run-in with someone they thought was hot, which meant I was seeing something they weren't. Wouldn't be the first time, but somehow this didn't feel the same.

By lunch today I had to admit that she was getting to me, something I couldn't explain not even to myself. She hadn't flirted, hadn't shown any interest or even hinted at anything. So why was I so stuck on her all of a sudden?

All those questions only put me in a rush to see her again. I needed to know what all the fuss was about, what it was about her that had kept me up all damn night when she wasn't even my type.

And now I'm wondering if that faltering step she'd taken was because she hadn't expected to see anyone here, or was it because it was just me here alone that was making her nervous?

I looked directly at her when she sat down and watched her blush before ducking her head. I noticed the bun was a lot neater today and though the suit was still one size too big, the skirt hanging well below the knee, at least the burnt orange color was a lot brighter than the stone grey horror she'd worn the last time I saw her.

Neither one of us spoke which was very telling. More so on her part than mine. As the teacher, and the last one to enter the room, shouldn't she have greeted me by now? I played around with the thought of saying something to her, but nixed the idea at the last minute.

She was so nervous now I didn't want to offset the rest of her day. So instead we both sat there not saying a word while I watched her and she pretended to read over the papers on her desk.

I knew though, that she wasn't reading shit, that she was too nervous and too aware of me to concentrate. I saw it all in the blush on her cheeks and the way her fingers trembled as she moved around the papers on her desk. I lowered my head to hide my grin as the most amazing feeling came over me.

I felt weirdly playful in her presence, not like a student with his teacher. Somehow of the two of us I got the sense that I was the one in control, that I was the one making her nervous. Sweet!

I couldn’t believe where my mind was going but asked myself why not? It’s not like I was a fourteen year old. At eighteen I’m considered an adult, and right now I was having very adult thoughts about the teacher who was doing her very best at this moment to pretend I wasn’t here.

Maybe it’s nothing serious, just another challenge, something I’m good at. Whatever it is I now had the answer as to why I’d made my way here way ahead of the others. Why all through classes that day she’d stayed on my mind. And why I hadn’t shared any of those thoughts with anyone else.

I’d had a girlfriend once, my first year of high school, that was a long time ago. It didn’t take me long to realize that it wasn’t for me. The girl in question had been a jealous lunatic who went insane whenever anyone else dared to even look at me. We were barely fifteen.

Needless to say, that didn’t last too long, and ever since then I’ve steered clear of serious entanglements. I’m no playboy, but I only mess with girls I know are out for a good time and nothing more. In a town as small as ours you’d be surprised at how many I have to choose from.

Every once in a while one would slip under my guard, but I’ve always been able to shake them off. But as I sat there grinning I got that feeling. The feeling that I wanted to do more with her than a quick roll in the hay, or two if she were lucky. Cocky I know.

I wanted to walk down the halls with my arm around her shoulders. Wanted to take her parking so we could neck in the dark under cover of the stars. Wanted to spend Saturdays lazing around the pool or one of the million other things I’d seen my friends do with their significant others.

But there’s no way I can do any of that, because she’s my damn teacher. When I realized the road my mind was beginning to travel the smile dropped from my face and this time when I looked at her I was looking for answers.

LIZ

Oh my, why does he keep staring at me like that? I'd almost turned and ran back the way I came when I saw him sitting in here alone. I'd come just a tad bit early to give myself time to relax and compose myself.

I didn't know that he was going to be here, or why he was earlier than the others. Had he planned this? And if so, why? Had he somehow picked up on my feelings?

I was making myself crazy again to the point that I couldn't even make out my own hand writing in the notes I'd made for this evening's class as I pretended to read them to escape his gaze.

I felt his stare, the heat of it, the intensity, almost like I could feel his touch and my nipples got embarrassingly hard. What the hell? I took a quick peek to see if he'd noticed then remembered that there was no way he could see anything beneath the oversized jacket and blouse.

I heaved a sigh of relief but it was soon short lived. I made the mistake of sneaking another quick glance at him and could swear he smirked knowingly at me. This time I found it too obvious to look away again.

I also realized we'd both been sitting here for five minutes without acknowledging the other's presence. He might get away with it, pretending not to have heard me come in, but what's my excuse? I had none.

I cleared my throat and was thankful once again for the glasses that covered my eyes from the world. They'd come in handy this time for a whole other reason but it was good enough. There was still the issue of me greeting him though.

"Hello Drake, you're here early." Did my voice always have that breathy quality to it? And why was my heart beating so fast? I'd only said hello. All the same, it felt like he could see right through me with that look of his.

He didn't answer me right away and I grew more gauche and uncomfortable under his watchful gaze. It was hard in that moment to remember who was the adult in the room.

I wanted to crawl under the desk to escape his blatant stare. But it was then I realized that his stare didn't make me uncomfortable in the usual way. That it was my own thoughts I wanted to hide from.

Instead, the way he looked at me made me feel hot and twitchy. It made my body tingle in all the right places, or wrong, depending on who you were asking.

“Good evening Ms. Parks.” I almost jumped out of my skin when he finally returned my greeting. And he still hadn’t looked away. If he’d leered at me, or smirked in that knowing way I maybe would’ve been able to overcome some of my angst and write him off as just another cheeky teenage boy using his charm on the older woman.

But there was none of that in the look he gave me. Instead he looked at me through the eyes of a man. Of someone way above his years, which made my situation so much stickier.

Then I had to ask myself it he was purposely doing this. There was nothing remotely suggestive about his look, no lewdness attached to the open stare, but that light in his eyes, what did it mean? I felt almost trapped in his gaze and could not look away.

I only breathed again when the others came trickling in one by one and I honestly can’t remember much of what was said in class afterwards, but I know I hadn’t made a complete fool of myself because none of the kids were laughing their heads off by the end of it.

It did seem like Drake was picking up a lot of my slack though. Either, by diverting the other students’ attention or asking me something to snap me out of it when I seemed a little dazed.

But how did he even know that his voice had that effect on me? How much had I given away tonight? And what kind of trouble am I going to be in now that he knows like he seemed to?

My lack of experience made me wonder all these things as fear and intrigue battled each other inside me. Could I trust him not to tell his friends about my awkwardness? Or would he see it as just my natural shyness and leave it at that?

I was flustered and anxious the longer I sat there. And each time he looked in my direction my temperature went up a few degrees, to the point that it was all I could do to stay seated behind the desk and not make a run for it.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

Damn she's skittish. I'd been having fun watching her blush and fidget around in her seat, but then I got the feeling she was really uncomfortable which wasn't my intention at all. I didn't know what to make of her behavior. If only I could see those eyes.

I could've taken it easy on her once I realized my stare had taken us to another level, but I didn't want to. That new feeling of excitement made me want to push the limits as any teen worth his salt would.

So I kept looking at her, calling her to me with my stare. And every time she'd sense me looking, as much as she resisted, she couldn't help looking back at me.

Of course I was careful not to let anyone else in on our little byplay, but to be honest, it was kind of fun doing it right there in front of everyone else who were none the wiser to what was going on right under their noses.

When class ended that night I left with the others but instead of leaving school grounds right away, I found an excuse to hang out by my truck so that I could wait for her to come out and get into her car. Hers and mine were the only vehicles left in the lot and it was getting dark at this hour. I was already feeling just a little bit protective of her tiny ass.

She didn't seem to notice my truck a few rows away from hers because she had her head down. It was then I realized that she does that a lot. Most people pick their heads up at some point while they're walking, but she never seems to.

And those shades, which I now believed to be something else, some kind of prescription maybe, seemed to be always glued in place, hiding her eyes from the world. Was there a problem with her eyes?

I watched her get into her car and waited for her to drive out of the lot before following behind her, keeping a safe distance as I followed her home. Not stalker fashion, I just wanted to make sure she made it there safe and didn't stop to question the motive.

I knew the place where she lived of course. And though it was a little ways away from my home, it was in a relatively safe neighborhood, though everyone else seemed to have turned in already as early as it was.

Did it mean anything that she'd chosen to live here in one of the oldest neighborhoods in town where mostly elderly couples resided? It did seem to fit the person I was beginning to think she was though come to think of it.

I watched for the lights to come on in the little carriage house before driving off and heading home. It was only when I pulled into my driveway that it hit me. That's the first time I've ever done something like that.

Not that I'm not always a perfect gentleman, but it was the first time I'd gone out of my way to follow a woman home just to be sure she made it there safe. And she didn't even know I was there. It seems I've been experiencing a lot of firsts these last few days since meeting her.

It seemed like my fascination was quickly growing into something else, something more, but I have to think about this. I need to examine my feelings closely to be sure because I'm well aware that this is not something I can play around with.

I'm also very aware of the ramifications if shit goes south. I know that the way I come at things isn't exactly what you'd expect from a teen. I'm too intense for my age, I've heard it before. I also don't think or act like my peers and that's a fact.

But none of this is my own doing. I was born with high intelligence and a mind that never seems to shut off. That's one of the reasons I find it so hard to accept the praise of others, because it's something I was born with and therefore can take no credit for.

I've always been different, light years ahead of my peers I guess you can say. I look ahead while others are stuck in the past or the present. I search out the weakest point in all things, and look for where problems may lay up ahead.

Then I tackle them if I know I can get results, and if there's no point, I won't even start, no matter how tempting. I've always been that way. Maybe I shouldn't be so surprised then that I'm the kind of guy who'd fall for his teacher.

That night, as I laid in bed thinking about her and the way she made me feel I didn't just brush those feelings aside. I didn't tell myself that it was a lost cause because of who we are.

But instead I chose to spend the time thinking of ways to have her, of the right course of action to take going forward. If there was anywhere to go!

I'd made up my mind some time between driving from her place to mine that I wanted to see where these feelings might lead. I wanted to experience that high in reality and not just in my imagination.

I wanted to know what it would be like to explore these feelings of lust mixed with emotion, a new combination for me and made all the more exciting because of who she is. With that also being the one drawback.

I looked at all the angles, all the pitfalls and even with the considerable risk, knew that I still wanted to try. The one hiccup for me was that if something should go wrong, if we should be found out, she'd be the one facing most of the backlash.

The class she was teaching isn't one for credits and have nothing to do with graduation, but instead was a refresher course of sorts, so there could be no case for bias if we should be found out. But there were other things to worry about as well.

I played around with it in my head knowing that I was trying to talk myself into doing it no matter the risk. But also already wanting to shield her from anything that might happen in the future because of my selfishness; because I was actively planning to go after her. Because regardless of how she felt or what she was thinking, I was the one laying here plotting and scheming to get her into bed.

At the end of my internal struggle I told myself that if we were careful and no one was the wiser, as long as she was willing, there was no reason we couldn't be together. Though it might be a bit of a problem getting to spend time together without raising suspicion in a town this size, I'm sure there were ways around that.

For one, that little cottage she lives in is well out of the way. I don't think I know anyone who hangs out over there or even passes through that area for any reason. And for another, everything closes up early around here, since there's not much else to do outdoors after sundown.

If I'm very careful when I go to her, all should be fine. I'd make sure of it in any case. My heart raced with unleashed excitement now that I'd taken care of the larger issues on my mind, now that I could see a clear way of getting to her.

With that worry out of the way, I turned my attention to other things, more pleasant things. Like how I was going to get her into my bed as soon as possible if she'd let me. What would it feel like making love to her? Would she come out of her shell? Is there hidden passion beneath her blushing shyness? Could I be the one to release her from her inhibitions?

Once free from restraint my mind took off on its own, leading me where it will, until I wanted her more than I've ever wanted anything in my life. It doesn't take a genius to figure out why that is. It's the forbidden aspect of the thing, the fact that I shouldn't have her.

The thought gave me pause. Is it really just the taboo of a teacher having sex with her student that makes it all seem so exciting? Somehow I doubt that. I don't live my life that way.

Sure that plays a minute part in it, the unknown uncharted waters. But I wouldn't be so easily enticed by the forbidden, unless it's something I want, and then, I'll get it by any means necessary.

Another reason I don't easily accept praise. I know what lives inside me. I know that I can be as selfish as I am giving. That I always go after what I want.

So I find it hard to accept that my interest in her stemmed solely from the fact that she was my teacher. The attraction I felt seemed to be about more than that.

And besides, I wouldn't be putting in this much effort if it were just something as simple as teenage fantasy lust. If she was a hot young blonde with her attributes on display, maybe. But that's what I'm surrounded with everyday and it does nothing for me.

No, with her, she makes me think much deeper, and because I don't quite understand my interest at this point, it just makes the whole thing that much more enticing.

I almost feel bad for her, now that I had her in my sights. I'm known for being tenacious when going after something I want and I don't always use the most ethical strategy either. Another reason I hate all that praise the town likes to heap on my head.

I'm always fair, unless fairness doesn't get me what I want, then I pull out all the stops. So I hope the shy little teacher hiding behind her glasses and those unflattering clothes doesn't put up too much of a fight. It would only be wasting her time and mine. Because in the end, I'll get her no matter what.

That sounds diabolical even to my own ears, but all it means is that if I want her enough I'll go the extra mile if need be. The beauty in that is that I never felt it before in a situation like this. Always before that energy has been expended on business ventures, or the thing I did with the class for my team.

But never before have I constructed a war map in my head to go after a female. I never felt the need to before because female companionship has always come too easy, but this one was going to make me work for it I'm sure. I smiled at the thought as I looked up at the ceiling while tossing a football in the air.

Now that my mind was made up, I went back to wondering about her eyes; always I'm drawn back to them. I played a little guessing game with myself. Were they blue, green, or brown? Would she look up at me while I fuck her, or will she keep them shyly closed?

It's not just her eyes that has me intrigued though, but all of her. I'm dying to know what she looks like, what she's hiding beneath those butt ugly clothes she likes to wear.

Of course my imagination ran wild as to why she'd go to such lengths to hide her face and body from the world. And wondering only made me more impatient and sent my mind off on a tangent all its own.

I'd already started building her up in my mind, imagining that she had an amazing body to go with that sharp intelligence that I'd noticed in class these last couple times. Wouldn't that be something? To finally meet my match?

I didn't care that she was five years older than me. I'd learned that much at least about her, while sitting in class tonight. I'd waited until then to look up her school portfolio. For whatever reason I wanted her in front of me when I went digging into her life.

If she'd reacted any differently than she had tonight, I would probably have left the whole thing alone, maybe. But she'd blushed through the whole class in between taking little glances at me.

I'm eighteen, an adult, but I was sure she'd see a problem with us getting together, being that she's my teacher. She strikes me as the straitlaced type, so I'm sure I'll have to jump that hurdle first. Break down her defenses enough for her to let me in.

I wonder what she's doing right now? I sat up in bed with an unsettling thought. "Shit, is she married?" I jumped off the bed and headed to the other room in my suite where I kept my desk with the computer.

Earlier, when I looked her up I'd only been looking for the basics, or maybe that's all they had. There was nothing there about marriage and when I read it again now, there was still no mention of a husband or kids. Not that they'd listed the family members of the other faculty members.

"Fuck!" I brought her into memory, trying to recall if she'd been wearing a ring but her hands were bare. In fact, the only jewelry she seemed to wear was the cheap watch on her wrist. I was in a near panic still not knowing.

It got so bad I was tempted to get in my truck and go to her for the answers I now needed. Needless to say I didn't sleep well that night, and was extremely cross the next morning when I woke because I wasn't going to see her today.

OceanofPDF.com

LIZ

I slept miserably again due to the same two things. Indecent thoughts about Drake and an unwanted phone call from Robert. This one hadn't ended as well as the last because I was in an irritable mood when I answered. Hopefully he got the message this time.

I studied myself in the mirror and for the first time noticed that my clothes seemed to hang off of me. The box shouldered jacket over the pencil skirt down to my calves that I once adored, suddenly seemed too old not to mention way too big on my petite frame.

I pulled the jacket tight in the back to see what it might look like in a smaller size and was pleased with the result. Maybe over the weekend I'll go shopping, or pull out some of the nicer clothes I have hidden away in my closet. For once the thought didn't break me out in hives.

I fixed my hair, paying more attention than usual and even added a little gloss to my lips. I opened the drawer in the vanity and looked at the rows and rows of cosmetics that I'm forever collecting, but were all still in their packaging. Not quite there yet.

I felt happier than I've ever been outside of a classroom when I walked out the door and got into my car. I'm always excited to see my kids each day, but this was more than that. I felt…I don't know the name for it. But there was definitely a new sense of excitement in the air.

I held my smile all day and into the evening when I stayed late to grade papers. If anyone were paying attention they'd have seen that my feet had hardly touched the ground all day. Even though I wasn't going to see him, he was never far from my thoughts. I'm having a love affair in my head.

For me, that's the perfect place. In here I can do as I please with no one to judge or frown upon me for being less than perfect. Not only that, but my imagination can soar to any heights and there's nothing and no one to stop it.

I never dreamed my social awkwardness would take me down this path, but since it has, there's no reason why I shouldn't enjoy it is there? And besides, the dream might just be better than the reality.

So with those thoughts planted firmly in my mind, I went about the rest of the day in high spirits, no longer wary of the dark cloud that was hanging over my head. Maybe that's why I ended up doing what I did at the end of the day when it was time to leave.

I was on my way to the parking lot, still on my high, when I heard the noise coming from the other side of the school complex in the direction of the football field. I knew that's where it was because I'd scoped it out earlier out of curiosity.

My heart started to race and I felt that excitement build as I got in my car and headed in that direction. I sat in the car for a good five minutes trying to talk myself out of getting out, but the pull was too strong. I won't stay long I told myself.

Once I exited the car in the dark deserted parking lot I called myself every kind of fool, but still I didn't retrace my steps and go home like a sensible person. It felt as though my feet had a mind of their own and they were calling the shots.

Still, with every step I told myself to turn around and go home, but I just kept moving forward, almost compelled it seemed. My steps slowed the closer I got and I started worrying about what I could possibly say if anyone asked what I was doing there. Were grade school teachers in the habit of going to high school football games? I have no idea.

I stood under the bleachers, in the shadows and away from the other spectators where I was most comfortable, and looked towards the field where they were practicing. Of course there was a line of high school girls, all scantily clad on the sidelines and more in the bleachers.

I tried picking him out among the boys on the field but I didn't even know his number or what position he played. I knew he was the quarterback but had no idea what that meant. Not that that information would've been of much help. I have no idea what goes on in this game and had never had any interest until now.

Somehow I picked him out in five minutes though. It was his walk, that distinctive gait, and posture as he walked across the field. And when he removed his helmet I was sure. I haven't seen anyone else with that wild mane of hair though others try.

As my eyes drank him in he picked up his head as if sensing my stare and looked right at me through the darkness. I took a quick step back but I'm not sure if I was quick enough. My heart raced and I suddenly needed to pee in the worst way, but I was frozen in place, afraid to move lest he catch me stalking him, almost.

I did get brave enough to take another peek and noticed that he was no longer where I'd last seen him. I stayed there much longer than I should have and left only when they were headed off the field. I walked hurriedly back to my car hoping and praying that no one saw me, especially him.

DRAKE

I KNEW IT WAS HER. I felt her somehow and found her in the dark when I looked for her, weird shit. I knew she stayed there the whole time I was on the field until practice ended and couldn't wait for it to come to an end. Had she come to see me? Funny thing, until that moment I hadn't once given any serious thought to whether or not she was really interested in me.

I guess that says a lot about the way my mind works, I was solely focused on my own growing feelings for her; but it was something to think about. Her seeking me out, if that's what she's doing, changes things. Maybe I won't have to work so hard to get her to see things my way.

I ran off the field as soon as we were released and instead of heading to the locker room with the other guys ran after her. I guess in that moment I forgot to be careful, but she hadn't given me any notice that she was coming and the opportunity was too great to pass up.

“Wait!” I ran past the line of hopefuls and jogged after her with my helmet under my arm. She stopped at my call, more like jerked to a guilty halt, and waited for me to catch up. Still with her head down!

“Hello!” I was looking down at the top of her head which she had hanging halfway to the ground. Her usual stance it would appear. I can’t believe how happy I was to see her, and if not for the darkness and her bent head, she would’ve seen just how happy from the wide sappy grin on my face.

“Hello Drake.” She pushed her hair behind her ear nervously.

“Why are you walking back here alone this late?” It was on the tip of my tongue to ask her if she was here to see me, but I didn’t, only because she was already acting like she was gonna jump out of her skin. Better not make her even more uncomfortable.

“I didn’t notice how dark it had gotten while I was standing there. I got caught up I guess.” She finally lifted her head, pushing the glasses higher on her nose as if making sure they were in place.

“You like the game?” I laughed at her reaction. “Never mind!” She looked like I’d asked her to solve scientific theory.

“Where are you parked? I’ll walk you to your car.” She pointed to the section of the lot she was parked in and we walked towards her car in silence. Not only that, but she grew more nervous with each second that passed.

I dropped her off at her car since it was closer than mine and waited for her to get in.

“Wait for me.” I closed her car door and jogged a few cars down to my truck and got in, beeping the horn when I pulled up behind her.

She pulled out and I followed her home and watched her go inside and turn on the lights before driving off. I still had a big stupid grin on my face for no fucking reason whatsoever

That night I fell asleep much easier than I had the last few nights and woke up in the morning hungry for the sight of her. I think I dreamt of our first date.

I tried to make the day go by faster but that shit just dragged. People commented on my strange mood but I just brushed them off with some lie or another, all the while imagining her reaction after our little run-in the night before.

I know there was nothing untoward about me driving behind her to see that she got home safely, but in my mind it felt like more than that. Did she feel the same way too? And why had she come to the field when it was so blatantly obvious that she didn't like the game? I grinned when I remembered her reaction to my question the night before.

It's okay that she doesn't like the game I play. Maybe that's something I can teach her. Of course my mind went to all the other things I could teach her and my body reacted. I'd already made up my mind that someone as shy as she is probably doesn't have that much experience in the sack.

Now my head is filled with X-rated visions of the two of us doing the deed in bed together. I wasn't even mad at her for taking over my mind this way. I'd already made up my mind to go after her hadn't I?

LIZ

SHAME, shame, shame. I kept repeating the word to myself as I stood in the mirror that morning trying to talk myself out of the fancy new hairdo and the little bit of eye shadow I was trying out for the first time.

The fact that my heart was racing out of time and my palms were sweaty should've been warning enough that I was about to venture into dangerous territory, but I couldn't seem to help myself. My every thought has been of him since he followed me home last night.

I've already gone over all the reasons this wasn't a good idea. It was fine when it was in my head alone, but knowing that he has some kind of interest in me as well seems to have unleashed something in me that I have no control over.

No amount of warning myself of the horror that could unfold if this thing goes beyond my imagination seems able to deter me. And that is why I find myself standing in front of the mirror an hour earlier than usual trying to maim myself with a mascara wand that I have no idea how to use.

My phone rang just as I was about to head out the door and I read the screen before answering. It was the principal calling and for the barest of seconds I was afraid I'd been found out. Luckily she was just calling to see how things were going with the class and because her secretary had told her I'd been by a couple days ago.

I made up an excuse about needing to ask her something that I had since figured out and got off the phone as quickly as possible while having a mini heart attack.

See Elizabeth, this is a very bad idea. Look at how tongue tied you were just then and it was just an innocent conversation. How would you ever be able to hide your guilt if something did happen between you and him?

No more daydreams about the handsome hunk who's way too young for you anyway. Nothing good can come of it and besides, he was probably just being kind because it was late and dark outside. He's rumored to be a very nice boy after all, and would've done the same for anyone.

That little pep talk helped me all the way to my car and even through the rest of the day as I taught my regular classes. But once the clock wound down and the time drew near for me to see him again the heart palpitations and sweaty palms came roaring back.

I tugged at the blouse I'd worn without a jacket and looked down at the skirt that though was my size still came down to below the knee. I blushed at my boldness in dressing this way for him, feeling like a fool for even thinking that he'd notice and missing one of my overly large jackets that I've used as a shield to hide the prominence of my chest.

Since this was the first time since the age of twelve that I'd worn anything this daring, I was feeling more and more self conscious though no one seemed to notice or comment about the change all day. That's because they didn't know the reason behind it.

I'd gone through my closet this morning feeling like a teenage girl myself with her first crush as I perused my clothes. I'd grown into the habit of covering myself ever since the day my aunt scolded me for putting my breasts on the table.

Of course I was doing no such thing at the time, but realized her anger stemmed from the fact that her husband had been paying way too much attention to my young growing body.

Ever since then I'd learned to hide behind much larger clothes in order to keep her from blaming me for what I now know was the fault of the pedophile she was married to. I was all of twelve for crying out loud, and had no idea of how to use my body to attract attention.

Now here I am doing just that. With thoughts of him running through my head I'd chosen the white button down blouse with the frilly bow at the neck and the black slim fitting skirt. An outfit I'd bought because of its aesthetic beauty but never really had any intentions of wearing.

I do that a lot. Buy things just because I like the look of them even though I don't have the courage to actually wear them in public. I've never been taught how to dress per se, but I know what looks good on others even if I haven't the foggiest idea what works for me.

Now I find myself wishing I knew how and wondering what had happened to my well earned control in the last few days. It's weird that we hadn't even said more than a handful of words to each other in all this time and yet I felt like so much had indeed passed between us.

But it was his stare, the way he made me feel when he looked at me. The way I felt last night when we stood together in the dark parking lot can't be denied either. Added to the thoughts running around in my own head, I think we've said plenty without having to use words.

Now as I make my way towards the after school class I can feel my nerves start to tingle as the budding excitement that has been riding me all day dogs my every step.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

"Hey Drake wait up, what's your hurry?" I stopped and waited for Carter as he jogged to catch up with me in the hallway outside her class.

"What's up with you the last couple of days? Stella told the guys that she called you for some sweet time and you brushed her off. What gives?"

"Maybe it's the fact that she shared that with you guys." I started to say more but bit my tongue. It's true that in the past the guys shared notes, not that I ever did, I like to keep my private life just that. But it never bothered me before when anyone made the kind of comment he just did.

I didn't have to think too hard to understand why it was a problem now, but I wasn't about to even think about that shit in his presence. "You know I don't discuss that sort of thing with you guys."

"I know but it just seems odd you know. Though you don't share like the rest of us, you're always up for some fun…" He stopped talking at the look I gave him and held up his hands in surrender. At least he had no way of knowing what was really going on with me.

I walked through the door and my eyes went immediately to the desk where she should be sitting, but she wasn't there. The feeling of disappointment came hard and fast but a look at my watch told me she still had some time left.

Now I find myself trying to hide my angst from the guys who were being their usual selves, loud and obnoxious the way only teens can be. And then she walked through the door.

Even though she still wore the glasses it was obvious that there was something different about her. Something that everyone else seemed to notice at about the same time I did.

“Whoa teach, looking nice today.” That sentiment or a variation was tossed around the room as she stood just inside the door like a little lost fawn. The guys didn’t seem to notice her unease as they carried on with their comments.

I sat up in my seat and glared around the room, something they were accustomed to but not for the same reason. They piped down but the damage was done. I could tell that she was already regretting her clothing choice, though I appreciated this new style way more than the other.

I didn’t even have time to enjoy wondering if I had anything to do with the change because it looked like she was about to freak. The look on her face due to the reaction of my asshole teammates was one of almost terror.

I was halfway out of my seat, not quite sure what I would’ve done, when she visibly pulled herself together and walked the few steps it took to reach her desk. I wanted to call out my boys but thought the added attention might do more harm than good.

Her reaction gave me food for thought though. She was older than the rest of us, and from what I know of the female of the species, they’re not that easily spooked by a bit of male attention. Her reaction could be seen as a little over the top, but I somehow knew that it was genuine.

She was that shy and reserved to the point that I could see her nerves. I was even more sure now that she had no real experience if any. But instead of a turn off, it only served to pique my interest even more.

It took her a while to settle down and get herself together once she sat down, but once she collected herself we were back on track. With my newfound interest at the forefront I did a little more than taking peeks at her this time, but instead did a more in depth study. It helped that the clothes she wore, though not form fitting, were a lot more attractive and did more to show off her figure than was evident before.

She was tiny, which is something I’ve always liked. I don’t know, but nothing makes me harder than having a petite girl beneath me when I ride. But it was her chest, a little more than I’d expected, that kept me transfixed as we went through the class.

I didn't ogle her, that would've been rude, but I did my fair share of admiring under the guise of following along with everyone else. Then I started wondering if any of the others had formed an interest like I had. Something that did not sit well with me. Another red flag.

We'd shared a female more than once in the past because we're horny teens who'd experiment with anything sexual that's on offer. So the feelings of jealousy that thought provoked were relatively new to me.

I did a quick sweep of the room and relaxed once I realized that no one was openly admiring her. After the initial teasing that I'd quelled with my murderous glare they'd all settled down into study mode.

It had had an adverse effect on her though, because she didn't play along with our staring game from a couple nights before; bummer. All the same I wasn't too discouraged though because when she did look at me a little while later and then looked shyly away just as quickly I convinced myself that her sudden change in appearance was in fact for me.

I cleared my throat and went back to studying once I realized that my thoughts were making me sound like a damn stalker. For all I know there could be someone else she was interested in.

I did a quick run through in my head of the teachers at school and not one of the men were below fifty in age. Add the fact that she'd come to check me out on the field and I was back to being cocksure that I was the one who'd caught her interest. My only problem now was my approach.

LIZ

WILL THIS NIGHT NEVER END? Why did I wear this stupid blouse? Thank heaven for my glasses, no one can see my absolute mortification behind them. Now I'm sitting here feeling self conscious with nowhere to hide and all this in front of Drake no less.

I stole a glance at him and looked quickly away again when I saw that he too was watching me. I felt exposed, ugly and if my legs would work I'd probably have gotten up and made an excuse to leave the room.

Somehow I made it through the next hour and a half without making an even bigger fool of myself, but the damage was done. There's no way I'd ever try this again. My one foray into the unknown had been a total bust.

After the initial outburst the boys had settled down and not said another word about it, and the class was business as usual, but what were they thinking? It didn't bear thinking about.

Once the evening was over I took my time gathering my stuff, waiting for everyone to leave before heading out the door. With my head down in my usual way I didn't see the figure standing next to my car until I was almost there and saw the shadow from the streetlight.

My heart was in my lungs until Drake stepped into the light and then I felt my face heat with embarrassment. Was he laughing at me? Did he figure out somehow that I'd done this because of him? I sincerely hope not.

Just when I began to beg for the earth to open up and swallow me he walked towards me. "Are you okay?" I nodded my head, suddenly forgetting how to speak. "Don't pay those guys any mind, they always act that way around gorgeous females. It won't happen again."

I picked my head up for a few seconds, surprised at his words, and was thankful for the darkness that hid my blush of pleasure. "It's okay, kids will be kids."

I stressed the word kids as kind of a protective measure, or more like to remind myself that he too was part of that number and that I should stop this now before it went too far.

But then his next words shocked me and had me wondering if there was a hidden meaning behind them. Confusing me the way I have been since meeting him.

"They're not kids. We're all the same age, eighteen." I could tell his eyes were on me as he spoke but was too chicken to look at him again. Instead I walked around him to get to my car.

"Wait for me, I'll follow you home." He turned and walked a few cars down after waiting for me to get into my car and it never occurred to me to drive off. Maybe if I had that would've put an end to this whole fiasco.

Maybe I should've told him right then and there that there was no need and that would've nipped this whole thing in the bud… but I didn't. Instead I sat in my car and waited for him to pull out behind me, feeling that tingle in my tummy again.

I don’t remember the drive home. What streets we took or even how long it took to get there. I just recall gripping the steering wheel as tightly as my first time getting into the driver’s seat of a car as a teen taking Driver’s Ed.

Once I arrived I had another dilemma. Should I walk back to his truck that was parked at the end of the short drive and thank him, or should I wave and call out a thank you? Anything was better than sitting there like a ninny while the poor boy sat in the late night waiting for me. He has class tomorrow.

The incongruity of that last thought had me jumping out of the car in haste. Just what do I think I’m doing? I turned and waved ready to make my escape. “Thank you, goodnight.” I barely got the words out.

“Go on inside, I’ll wait until I see your lights come on.” I hurried inside after that and rushed to the window, peeping out from behind the curtain to watch as his truck disappeared in the night. Then I sat on the edge of my bed trying to process all that had happened tonight.

FOR THE NEXT week and a half this same scenario played itself out, sans the embarrassing attention from the seniors. But each night I had his class, Drake would follow me home and wait for me to go inside. We didn’t say much to each other, except for a few words here and there, but we didn’t have to. The looks we shared in class were enough.

I was getting bolder, or he was I’m not sure which. But our eye contact was starting to last longer to the point that I sometimes forgot there were others in the room with us. Some time in the middle of all that I started to worry that he might be having fun at my expense.

What if he tells his friends what was going on? What if I become locker room gossip? What if, what if, what if? But with all my fears I still found it hard to resist his lure. For the first time in my life I was in the grips of something that felt very much like a real romance.

With no real knowledge of how these things work, my first impulse was panic. I hate the feeling of inadequacy, of feeling out of my depth in any given situation. But last night seems to have reached a turning point of sorts.

Somehow in the midst of all my confusion, that thought stuck with me. The otherwise innocent act of him following me home in his car now seemed like anything but. And it was useless pretending even to myself that we hadn't crossed the line.

This time when he waited for me out in the dark parking lot, it seemed we both were reluctant to leave. I knew it was dangerous to be out in the open like this for any length of time, but the thought of going home to my empty little house to wile away the hours until sleep, daydreaming about him, was daunting.

He seemed to catch on to my reticence to leave and started up a conversation. "Can I take you somewhere?" His words sent my heart into overdrive and once again I found myself at a crossroads.

"What?" My voice sounded foreign even to my own ears. Maybe because my heart was lodged somewhere in my throat. He'd caught me in the middle of one of my new fantasies. A fantasy where I was seeing his naked chest. A fantasy that made those tingles I usually get in his presence become so much more.

"What do you mean?"

"There's nothing to be afraid of, just follow me. You'll like it I promise." I nodded my head stupidly, all the while cautioning myself. So far we hadn't crossed any boundaries, hadn't done anything I couldn't explain away if need be, but…

Again I just nodded my head and climbed into my car. He'd graduated to holding the door open for me and closing it behind me. Tonight he leaned in and pulled the seatbelt snug across my middle and snapped it around my hip. I forgot how to breathe.

Once again my glasses saved me as he didn't move away immediately, but stayed there almost suspended in time as he looked down at me. Can he hear my heart beating or is it just me? I didn't release my breath until he moved away and closed the door.

OceanofPDF.com

LIZ

I had no idea where we were going, but I knew that tonight would change things. I can no longer pretend to myself, could no longer keep it all in my head. I was very aware that I was crossing a line. A line that I'd never have expected someone like me to blur let alone jump over with both feet.

It felt almost like I was standing on the sidelines watching it all happen, unable and unwilling to stop it. I was afraid though to take that last step. To admit to myself that I wanted this. Afraid of what would transpire once I move my toe one step over the line into the forbidden.

My body was responding without my say-so. Though alarm bells clanged in my head, my heart and feet were on a forward march as I followed him through the night into the unknown.

He drove out to the Sound overlooking the water. A place of which I'd heard but had had no reason to visit before. The scenery was tranquil, the kind of place I love and I was touched. How did he know that I'd appreciate something like this?

We didn't speak for the first few minutes as he led me to a spot near the edge looking out over the water under the starlit sky. It was beautiful! Just when my nerves were about to fray from the silence he spoke. "What made you choose to move here?"

I cleared my throat and tried not to stare at his beautiful profile like a deviant. "I met the principal of the high school years ago at a retreat. She told me all about this place and I kinda fell in love with it just from her description alone. Once I was out of university she offered me the job and that was that.”

He seemed to go over my words in his head before carrying on again and I couldn’t help but notice how mature he seemed, and how much different to what I’d expect from a high school jock.

“What about your family, where are they?”

“I don’t really have any to speak of, just an aunt and a few cousins back home.”

“And where is that?”

“A place called Haddonfield New Jersey.”

Again he grew silent but since he wasn’t looking my way, just staring out over the water, I had no idea what he was thinking. And then he reached for my hand and my heart literally stopped beating in my chest for a few seconds that felt more like hours.

“I’m wondering if I should wait until the class is over before taking you to bed.” My eyes almost popped out of my head and I tried releasing his hold on my hand to no avail. Now my beating heart was in my lungs as my thoughts splintered.

Is this really happening or had I fallen into an alternate universe? Why me? And why this… guy, I can’t call him a boy after that statement, but why had he chosen me? Though I don’t teach at the high school I’ve seen many of the young ladies about town and they’re mostly the proverbial high school knockouts.

Didn’t he have a girlfriend? It’s hard to imagine that someone like him didn’t. So what exactly was going on here? Am I a lost bet or a dare? All those thoughts ran through my head at warp speed as well as one other.

Why am I not the one in control? I’m the adult after all. Why can’t I open my mouth and put a stop to this before it’s too late? Before I destroy everything I’d worked so hard for, for what can only be a few moments of pleasure. But even though I knew the danger I couldn’t seem to open my mouth and tell him he had the wrong idea.

If I was going to do anything it would be now. But the longer I held my silence the more I was giving into him. Now he turned and looked down at me, and still without uttering a word, reached out and ran the back of his fingers across my cheek. My legs almost buckled beneath me.

“I don’t want you to get hurt. Though I’m old enough to make my own decisions, if anyone finds out about us it may cause trouble for you. I won’t let that happen to you, so we have to be careful.”

Was this his way of asking my permission, or was he simply stating a fact? It was hard to tell since he seemed less like an eighteen year old and more like an experienced man of the world. I was almost tempted to ask if he’d done this before as smooth as he was about the whole thing.

The way he spoke to me made my toes curl inside my shoes. There was a warmth building in the pit of my stomach that flowed to the rest of my body. It was a feeling I’ve never had before and the reason I couldn’t bring myself to call a halt to this madness. And then he pulled out all the stops and there was no more need to guess.

“Have you ever been in love Elizabeth?” He’d called me by my name. Now Elizabeth, now is the time you should put a stop to this. But in that moment all I could do was shake my head no as he looked away from the water once more to the top of my bent head.

He squeezed my hand and even in the dark I could see the smile on his face. We stood there together like that for another five minutes, both of us lost in our own thoughts. “Come, let’s get you home it’s getting late.”

DRAKE

OUR FIRST REAL conversation had told me pretty much all I needed to know for now. That shy reserve of hers was no act, it’s who she is and it only made me want her more. Hearing that she had no one, no family, made me want to share mine with her. Something that I’ve never done or wanted to before.

But there’s just something about her that brings out that side of me. If I were fanciful I’d compare her to a porcelain doll, like the ones my maternal grandmother likes to collect. Small and delicate with that soft kind of beauty that doesn’t really seem to exist anywhere anymore.

She’s the type of woman that a man should and would want to protect. I know I do. The more time I spend in her presence the deeper that feeling grows and it was now the source of my new worries and fears.

I’m not sure what you’d call the emotions that plagued me. This incessant need to shield her even before anything has happened between us. But her gentle quietness has made me want to stand in front of her, to make sure that nothing bad touches her. It’s a tough spot to be in.

On the one hand my physical attraction to her keeps growing by leaps and bounds with no real source. Like I still have no idea why she’s even on my mind since she’s so far removed from what I usually find enticing.

And on the other, I’m afraid of what something like this would do to her if we were ever found out. The thought of being the cause of any harm coming to her leaves a very bad taste in my mouth.

But I knew I wasn’t going to end my pursuit, it didn’t feel as though I could. The decision had been taken out of my hands because she’d touched something in me that I didn’t know was even there and therefore had never thought to protect myself from.

Now ever since that night I’ve been looking at her in a whole new light. Since she hadn’t brushed me off I see that as the go ahead. I’d laid everything out on the table, my only regret is telling her that I was thinking of waiting to have her.

Because ever since that night two weeks ago it’s been hell keeping my hands to myself. Each night after class I’d follow her home but we hardly had any time to say more than a few words to each other.

Under the watchful eyes of my classmates I keep things as innocent as possible, while all the while I’m undressing her out of one of those ugly suits she’d gone back to wearing.

Tonight though, I plan to change things up a bit. I waited for her next to my car which I’d grown in the habit of parking close to hers. I had my phone ready when she walked out after all the others had already gone.

I’d learned to change up a bit, some nights I’d walk out with her and others I’d leave first. Just so no one caught on. I was still going to practice, still hanging out with my boys on the weekend, so there was no way for them to suspect anything.

The only real difference was that I was no longer interested in fucking any of the cheerleaders, which I simply explained away by saying that I was focusing on studying for the SAT subject tests. A lie that they all bought because, why not.

“Give me your number.” I said the words as soon as she reached me in the parking lot. After all this time she still acts surprised that I’m even talking to her. I find that endearingly cute.

She rattled off the number, which I added to my contacts before I took her keys from her hand and opened the car door for her and passed them back to her. “Drive safely, I’m right behind you.”

I closed the door and walked to my truck. I’m now in the habit of looking around to make sure no one was watching us even though I knew no one else hung around the school this late at night.

I’ve become obsessed with protecting her after reading up on past situations where teachers got involved with their students. I doubt anyone would care that I was the one in pursuit of her, but because that was the case, I needed to be the one to look out for her as well.

If my feelings for her weren’t as strong as they were becoming I might have been able to wait until summer to have her, but that was still a couple months away. No way was I going to be able to hold out for that long.

I’ve spent every night since that first night dreaming about her. I wake up in the morning with her on my mind, and the nights I have her class it’s all I can do to get through the day until it’s time to see her again.

The things that used to hold my interest no longer did until it was starting to become obvious to my parents. But I’d been able to fob them off with the lie that I was thinking about the SATs and college. No one mentioned the fact that I’ve always been an A+ student, and one that has never had to study hard to pass a test.

My friends have all bought my bullshit and are even joking that without me around they stood a better chance of landing whatever female they were interested in at the moment. But in a town this small I don’t kid myself that I can let my guard down.

So I followed her home and waited for her light to come on as usual before pulling off and heading home. That night I rushed through dinner and barely answered mom’s questions then took the quickest shower known to man before finally calling her while laying in bed.

“Hello?”

“Are you okay?” Her voice sounded a bit off.

“Oh, I didn’t recognize the number.” Can she really be this timid? I dropped it for now and put it off as normal for a young woman living alone answering the phone at night.

“Did you lock all the doors and windows?”

“Yes I did, I’m already tucked away in bed.” She didn’t say it with any intent but my mind went to the gutter imagining her tucked up in bed all cuddly and cute.

Was she the type to wear racy lingerie? I wondered, one of those women who are all prim and proper on the outside with a hidden wild streak? Maybe that’s what’s going on beneath those unattractive suits she wears to class.

The idea got my blood pumping and I was damn near tempted to ask her what she was wearing now. The question seemed a bit juvenile to me though so I didn’t go there. But that didn’t stop my imagination from going wild.

We stayed on the phone for an hour before I noticed the time and told her I’d see her soon. It was only after we hung up that I realized that though she was older and in the position of authority it seemed more and more that I was the one taking the lead, something I didn’t mind at all.

Not once did my mind go to any taboos or stigmas associated with the teacher student love affair, and I had a feeling it was the same with her. In fact, from what little I’d learned about these situations it looks like the teacher was always the aggressor.

Maybe that’s why I’m so protective of her, because I know people would claim that she should’ve known better since she’s the ‘adult’. They’ll forget all my other achievements as soon as sex becomes involved and start acting like I’m an innocent lamb, led astray by the temptress.

So that’s the reason I’m trying to hold out until after the class is over at least. So there’s no conflict of interest, one less thing to be used against her if we’re unlucky enough to get caught.

But I have a gut feeling that that shit’s not going to happen. Because the more time I spend with her the harder it’s becoming to wait, and the more my feelings for her are beginning to change.

I’m not sure what my original intentions were. The attraction was almost instantaneous sure, but it’s not like that’s the first time I’ve ever been attracted to a female. It’s just that as time goes by things keep changing up on me, and I find myself acting in ways I never have with anyone else. Feeling things I never expected.

Take tonight for example. Without the danger of discovery and me not there beside her, she'd been more forthcoming on the phone. And the more she opened up to me, the more I wanted from her.

The thing I find weird, that has me lying awake now, almost an hour after hanging up with her, is that the more I learn about her life, the more tender I feel towards her. Something that may have sent me running hard in the other direction had she been anyone else.

She has no family, no one else in the world, but me. I've come to realize that she's not someone I can fuck for a few weeks or months and then just walk away. So no matter what my first intentions were, that's all been changed. I no longer wish to number her among all the others I'd had before.

I think she's girlfriend material, something that can make things very sticky, more so for her than for me. But even taking into consideration the danger this could pose for her, I knew there was no way to stop now, not for me anyway.

The next day I was tempted to swing by the elementary school where she taught but could find no valid reason to, so I had to ditch the idea. All through lunch and recess I kept thinking about the dream I'd had the night before.

A dream that had seemed so real I'd awakened expecting to find her in bed beside me, only to feel that bitter disappointment when she wasn't. The ache that followed me out of bed was very telling.

"Dude, why are you so stressed about SATs? You know you're gonna ace that shit." Carter bumped my shoulder with his as he sat next to me in the cafeteria.

It took me a minute to understand what the hell he was talking about until I remembered that that's the excuse I've been using for the past couple of weeks for my behavior.

"In my head I know that, but this shit is important, it's like the bridge to my future."

"You're full of shit. You know you've already got it made whether you pass or not. But you're gonna do fine." He put his arm around my shoulders and I felt like a fraud.

Of everyone here he can be considered my closest friend. To me it says a lot that I'm protecting her even from him. It's things like this that tells me that what she means to me is something more than I'd ever known before.

OceanofPDF.com

LIZ

It's time to get up Elizabeth, you're going to be late. This must be the third or fourth time I've said this to myself and a first for me. But I couldn't seem to make myself roll out of bed this morning.

After dealing with Robert's nuisance phone calls at night there was a call of a different kind that had kept me up the night before. I felt like a giddy teenager and somewhere in the back of my mind I wondered if that was the lure. If I was feeling this way because I'd never had a teenage romance and had missed out on all the hoopla.

I'll admit that the excitement I felt was hard to dismiss. So much so that I've already started weaving dreams in my head. Is this my first real crush or is it something more?

Whatever the case, there was no way I could deny or ignore the feelings I now have. I've never looked forward to anything the way I now look forward to the afterschool class where I would see him again.

There is so much that can go wrong and I've gone over it all over and over again in my head. But even knowing this, the prospect of where this could lead seems too enticing to ignore, even for someone as level headed as I am. After spending my whole life toeing the line, I can't believe that I'm willing to take such a risk.

But after years of never giving much thought to romantic entanglements, always the proverbial loner, I suddenly find myself on the cusp of something too exciting to walk away from.

It's the way I feel when I'm with him that has me hooked. There's a kind of addictiveness to it, almost like I get some sort of high from being in his presence.

Like the first time you try something new and amazing and suddenly you can't get enough of it. I know my inexperience is to blame, but somehow I don't imagine that I would've felt this way with anyone else but him.

I certainly haven't felt any of this with any of the others in the class, not even close. With everyone else it was just business as usual. But I guess I shouldn't be surprised that the young man who's been lauded for everything else should be perfect at this as well.

He's not coarse the way I'd expect someone in his position to be. And except for that night by the water he's never once mentioned taking me to bed. He's way smoother than that. And maybe had he been that way it would've been easier for me to shoot him down.

Now I'm the one who's obsessed with the idea of us. The one who can't help daydreaming about what it would be like to let things go where they seem to be headed without putting up any road blocks.

I keep thinking of the fallout though, going so far as to imagine the headlines if anyone should get wind of our budding relationship, and just the thought of it makes my face burn and my chest hurt. Would people believe I'd gone after him because of his money?

In this day and age when everyone seems so predatory it wouldn't be a stretch. But the truth is, I never give much thought to his wealth or anything else that others might find enticing when I'm with him.

Just the way he makes my heart beat when he's near, and even more, the way it seems like he's looking after me makes me feel desirable. And to have someone like him be that way with me is almost too much to resist.

I've never had that before, never had a man be that protective of me, never felt desired, cherished or wanted in the same way. So it was becoming easier as the days go by to overlook whatever distress I may suffer somewhere down the line just to enjoy these few moments of pleasure.

I convinced myself as I laid there that just this once it was okay to fulfill my heart's desire. That I could reach out and grab whatever happiness I could glean from our little liaison. I didn't kid myself that it could be anything more than that though, even though the thought took some of the shine away from my joy.

I warned myself not to be greedy, not to expect more than he was willing to offer. But I was still not sure if I could live with that, if I had it in me to just have a casual affair with him and then watch him walk away when it was over.

But I'm sensible enough to know that there are no guarantees when it comes to relationships, that if I go forward with this, then I have to take responsibility for the heartache that may follow.

I finally got myself out of bed and got ready for the day, taking special care with my clothes and makeup. I wasn't feeling brave enough to ditch the glasses though and wondered as I stepped out of the little cottage if I ever will.

Excitement grew as the work day drew to a close because I knew that although we didn't have class this evening I was still going to see him from my now usual place in the shadows where I've been watching him practice of late.

DRAKE

I FELT her as soon as she showed up at her spot beside the bleachers. I tried not to be too obvious when I turned in her direction to let her know that I knew she was here. I registered the feeling that came over me at her presence and tucked it away for later.

I didn't exactly show off for her but I did my thing knowing that her eyes were on me. I'd been trying to teach her about the game which was a lost cause since she couldn't grasp even the simplest context.

I didn't care though, as long as she was happy to just stand there and watch me just for the hell of it, just to be close, that was enough for me. I did so well that the coach praised me for being in my element, but little did he know I was in a rush to get to my girl and didn't want to put up with his shit of having to make the same run three times until he was pleased.

I did what was fast becoming my norm and said goodbye to the guys before heading in the opposite direction where I knew she would be waiting for me.

I had to move fast because we'd almost been caught a couple nights before, but she seemed to have had the same idea because she was gone by the time I reached the place she'd been standing.

I was a little annoyed with her because I'd wanted to walk her back to her car since it was already pretty dark out, but I was too late, her car was already gone by the time I reached the parking lot. "Dammit!" I think I remember telling her not to do that.

I hopped in my truck anyway and took the route to her house. It took a while to get there and when I did her car wasn't parked where it usually is in her driveway and there were no lights on in her house.

It was late and the streets in our town have sparse lighting. I didn't like the idea of her being out and about on her own with her tiny self. I've had a few moments because of that thought and others like it, worrying that I was being a bit chauvinistic, but I put it down to what a man should feel for the woman he was falling for.

I started to retrace the route but that made no sense, I would've seen her on the way here since I'd followed her on the same route every night for the past few weeks. Where the hell could she be? There aren't that many things open in this town this time of night.

I headed in the direction of the little shopping strip that was the only place that could possibly have anything open this late. I couldn't even remember what stores were over there. Or even if it really was still open but it was worth a shot.

I drove by the pharmacy which still had its lights on and thought I saw her car in the dimly lit parking lot. My heart beat faster and I felt relief. I have no idea why I was so worried about her being out alone at night, but that protective feeling was there. Maybe because she's so small compared to me. Like a dainty little flower.

I saw someone leaning down by the passenger side of her car when I stepped out of my truck and started to call out to her. I didn't want to just approach her in the dark parking lot and scare her.

But when the person looked up at my approach it wasn't her, and from the way he reacted I got a sick feeling in my gut and started running with my heart in my lungs. I ran around the car and was just in time to pull some guy off of her. “What the fuck?”

Everything happened at once. I didn’t think, just reacted and for the first time in my life came close to committing a crime. I pulled him up by his collar and threw him back away from her and into the car parked next to hers.

We struggled and though he was a big guy, he was in no way muscular let alone fit, so I had him in a headlock in no time, all the while not quite believing what was happening.

I pulled him out from between the cars and away from her as my mind raced and my heart beat me to death for a whole different reason. After securing my hold on him I looked back at her, torn.

I wanted to go to her as she struggled to sit up, but I didn’t want to leave him unattended and no way was I taking him back over there where she was. I’d left my phone in the truck since I make it a habit not to use it while driving so I looked around for help.

Just as I started to call out he tried making his escape. I throat punched him and he dropped. I knelt over him telling myself not to wrap my hands around his neck and kill. “Stay down asshole!” I said it low enough that she didn’t hear me. She’s the only reason I wasn’t giving him the beating he deserved. I’m sure she’s already beyond traumatized.

Someone inside saw the ruckus and opened the door to say they’d called the cops before hurrying back inside. “How’re you doing over there?” I turned my head and called out to her. She was now sitting up against her car tire and I could tell from here that her blouse was torn.

I had my knee in the asshole’s back with his arm locked off behind him. I wanted to beat his head into the ground until the shit split down the middle but she was here. I had to remind myself not to scare her any further.

She hadn’t said anything since I called out to her and I was seconds away from freaking out.

“Hey, how’re we doing over there? The cops should be here soon with an ambulance. I know you’re scared but don’t be. He can’t get to you any more.”

I hoped my words offered her some comfort and felt like shit because I couldn’t go to her. I kept reassuring her, not quite knowing what to say. Adrenaline pumped through my blood and it was hard not to act, not to do more than I already was.

I looked down at her attacker and didn’t recognize the guy but that was no big surprise. I don’t usually frequent this side of town. I wanted to ask her if she knew him but she didn’t seem in any condition to talk, so I figured we’d wait until the cops get here.

I kept calling out to her every few seconds though, in the hopes that my voice was helping her hang on and not give into the fear that I was sure she was suffering right now.

It was hell not being able to go to her, to see for myself that she was really okay. I watched through the dark as she tried getting to her feet, and when she fell back against the car again I pressed my knee harder into her attacker’s back and willed myself not to choke him out.

I made all kinds of promises in my head while we waited for the cops. Like the promise to find this asshole once this was done and beat the shit out him for putting his hands on her.

Although people had their faces pressed against the glass of the store no one stepped foot outside to help, something I’ll never understand, but now was not the time to dwell too deeply on that mess. I didn’t even want to think about what might have happened to her if I hadn’t come looking for her. The thought left me cold.

I was glad when the cops finally came so I could go to her. It felt like forever since I drove up but in actuality only a few minutes had passed. At least the cops weren’t dumb enough not to know who the criminal was in the situation and it was an easy handoff.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

I knelt down beside her and turned her by her shoulders to face me. Her body felt limp like she had no life. “Hey, hey…” Shit, I’d left it too long, she’s in shock.

I lifted her without thinking and walked over to the cops who were just finishing up putting him in the back of the squad car. She made a sound of distress at the sight of him and I stepped back and turned. “It’s okay I’m here.”

I waited for the sound of the door closing before turning back to the cops. “She was attacked, where’s the ambulance?”

“It’s on its way son.”

“I don’t need…” She started to decline the offer of an ambulance but the shakes set in and the words were cut off.

“Miss do you want to tell us what happened here tonight?” He addressed her as I put her back on her feet. She just shook her head still too afraid to speak.

They turned to me next and I answered their questions about what I saw and when they were done with me, stood off to the side waiting while they focused on her again. I overheard them tell her she needed to follow them to the precinct before walking away.

“I’ll follow you there.” I stepped up beside her because she just stood there looking lost.

“You don’t have to…”

“Don’t be silly, of course I do.” She had no one else here, no family and no real friends to speak of. I felt that squeezing in my heart again.

I walked her over to my truck and she looked up at me questioningly. “We’ll get your car later, I don’t think you should drive, hop up.” I helped her in and pulled the seat belt around her before moving around to the driver’s side.

I sat still for a few seconds giving us both time to calm down. I didn’t question her, didn’t force her to talk, just reached over and took her trembling hand in mine. She never stopped shaking all the way there and I had no idea what to do for her at this moment.

I was very aware that if I did too much there’d soon be questions about the closeness between us. So to protect her I had to keep my distance when all I wanted was to hold her, reassure her, comfort her.

One of the cops just barely spared me a glance when I brought her in, but said nothing. I didn’t expect her to be there long so I sat outside in the hallway and waited. I’d never been to the police station before, had only seen one on TV, so I was surprised that I was able to see and hear her from where I sat.

I overheard some of what she was saying to the cops and the anger I’d felt before paled in comparison to what I felt listening to her words. I’d been talking to her for more than a month, followed her home every school night and spent the weekends on the phone with her for hours and didn’t know any of the things she was saying.

The guy was someone she’d met when she first moved here and had gone out with twice. She was looking for friendship but he wanted something more. When she realized that she put the brakes on and went on with her life thinking he was cool with it.

Her innocence made my heart ache. No doubt that prick had seen the same sweet innocence in her that I had, knew she was on her own and had treated her like prey.

Apparently he’d been calling her on and off ever since she turned him down and it had been going on for a few months already. We might live in a small town but we’re in no way cut off from the rest of the world, so I knew what all this shit added up to. He’d been stalking her.

That word sounds so benign, until you learn the ramifications of someone like him and the shit they can get up to. I’ve dealt with my fair share of that horror in the past, granted not to this extent, but still. I know how that shit can screw up your life if you don't get a handle on it.

Me, I had my friends and family for support, and the girls were all young and well, girls. But that didn't stop the shit from being an inconvenient nuisance. But she's not me, and he's not a fourteen or fifteen year old girl. And from what I know, these freaks don't just stop because you want them to.

Instead of freaking me out and making me want to take a step back, it had the complete opposite effect. Now I really wanted to take care of her, protect her. And it was then I really started worrying.

I worried about the fact that she lived all the way over here alone, too far for me to get to her in time if something else happened. I worried that she might still be afraid, and the thought of her sitting alone in her little house, shrouded in fear was too much for me to bear.

It was then I decided I wasn't leaving her tonight. It no longer mattered what anyone would say, I'd do what I have to-to keep our relationship private, but I'm not about to put her life in danger to keep people's tongues from wagging.

It was a bit soon, a bit rash and not at all what I'd had planned for us, but it couldn't be helped. I'm sure I'm the only one she has here and even if I'm not, because of what she's come to mean to me there's no way I'm leaving her to face this shit alone.

So while I waited for her to finish up I called mom and told her I wasn't coming home, leaving her with the impression that I was staying with one of the guys which I've done countless times before.

I got to my feet when she stood, still looking shaken as she made her way over to me. I knew she was still shook because she just stood in front of me with her head down, fixing her glasses in place. She looked so small and wounded that something soft and sweet shifted in my chest and I barely restrained myself from reaching for her.

"You sure you don't want to go to the hospital?" She'd declined the ambulance at the scene, and even though there were no bruises, I'd still feel better if she got looked over. But I kind of knew the answer before she gave me one.

At the shake of her head I decided to drop it for now, but told myself that if I still felt this strongly about it in an hour or two, I'll take her to get looked at. I took her hand and she jumped and remained tense all the way to the truck.

This time I lifted her into the truck, trying to avoid looking at her torn blouse so I didn't lose my shit like I wanted to. I belted her in and couldn't resist putting a hand behind her head and pulling her in to kiss her forehead. I didn't make a big deal out of it and she seemed to relax a little by the time I got in on my side.

We didn't speak on the way to her house but the tension was palpable. I helped her down from the truck and when she fumbled for her keys took them from her hand and opened the door. She looked up at me as if ready to say bye, but I eased her into the room with a hand on her back.

"I'm staying!" She looked so vulnerable when she looked at me and though I tried to read her I can't say I had any idea what was going through her head at the moment.

The truth is no matter what I'd made up in my mind, for all that we'd spent some time together in the last month and a half, we still didn't know each other all that well. And after what she'd been through, as much as I wanted to be with her, she might feel differently.

She didn't say anything though, just turned and walked inside. I locked the door behind me then walked around the house checking that all the windows and doors were locked. She was just sitting on a chair at the kitchen table, huddled into herself when I came back. She'd changed the torn blouse though.

She was obviously still shaken so I thought of something to do to help calm her down. I know when mom gets a little rattled she likes to have a cup of tea and I'd made plenty in my time.

"I'm going to make you some tea." I put the kettle on and searched through cupboards looking for tea. With the hundred and one teapot sets she had decorating the cabinets there was a good bet she had some.

"Where are your teabags?"

She pointed to a bunny shaped porcelain thing which is where she kept her flavored teas. We both kept our silence while waiting for the water to boil, though I'm sure we were both deep in thought.

No doubt she was still reliving the attack, which thankfully from what she'd told the cops I'd arrived in time to stop from getting out of hand. I wanted to ask her why she hadn't waited for me, but that would've sounded too much like an accusation so I left it alone.

I made her tea and then looked around inside her cupboards again. I was going on instinct here, never having dealt with anything like this before. The only thing I knew was that she shouldn't be alone right now. And even if she should it didn't matter because I wanted to be here.

I found what I was looking for and opened the two cans of soup and put them in a pot I found on the stove before scrounging around in the refrigerator for fixings for sandwiches. All the while she said not a word while my mind wouldn't shut off.

I wanted to ask her more about the guy but didn't want to push her too far too soon. So again we spent the time in total silence as I made sandwiches and looked over the pot on the stove. This isn't how I saw our first date playing out, not by a long shot. But as the adrenaline finally tapered off I was relieved that at least I'd gotten to her in time.

I found two bowls and some bread plates for the soup and sandwiches and sat down across from her after placing hers in front of her. She looked down at the food and then back at me like she didn't know what to do next. "Eat before your soup gets cold."

I'm not sure if it was the act of feeding her that she was so surprised by, or the fact that I was here at all. "Are you afraid with me being here?" I looked at her as I awaited her answer. She was still wearing her glasses, hiding more like, and her head went down again.

"I'm not, I'm just..."

She played with her spoon and pushed the glasses high on her nose as they slid down. "You're just what?" She shrugged her shoulders but I knew enough to know that the sooner she talked it out the better it would be for her. If she hid behind her fear it would only make things worst.

"I'm not accustomed to anyone else being here is all." I nodded my understanding and went back to eating, taking looks at her every few seconds to make sure she was doing more than picking at her food. She was just going through the motions, but at least she was getting some of it past her lips.

"What about what happened earlier, you wanna talk about it?" She shook her head and picked up her sandwich for a bite.

"Not really no, I'm just glad that it's over and….that you were there. What were you doing there anyway? Isn't that a bit out of your way?"

"I was trying to find you. I tried to catch up with you after practice but you were already gone. I didn't want you driving home alone in the dark so I drove by here and when your car wasn't…" I let her figure out the rest and now she was just staring at me dumbfounded.

"Why did you go to all that trouble?" I couldn't believe that she had the nerve to ask me that after all the conversations we'd had. But instead of being offended, I just threw one back at her.

"Why did you come to the football field?" Her face went up in flames, something I'd noticed that she does a lot of and I kept my gaze on her face.

"How bad is your eyesight?" My question came totally out of left field.

"What, why?" She fumbled with her glasses but I lifted my brow at her letting her know I wasn't going to give up without an answer. "There's nothing wrong with my sight." She answered me grudgingly, but her answer made no sense.

"Then why the glasses? Does the light hurt or something?" She shook her head no and looked down at her half eaten sandwich. I dropped it because it seemed to make her uneasy, but now I was even more curious than ever about the color of her eyes and why she felt the need to keep them hidden.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

Things got even more uneasy as time went on and I found myself in the odd position of taking control of the situation, with my teacher. There were way too many dynamics in that room.

I'd imagined us going on a couple dates before we reached this far, me in her house about to spend the night. And though I wasn't planning to fuck her, the fact that I was about to sleep in her bed was going to take our relationship to a whole new level. One that I'm not sure she's ready for.

"I need to shower, I stink from practice." I found in dealing with her that it's better to take point and make decisions instead of asking for her permission.

From my conversations with her she's never seemed very decisive about things. That could be due to her shyness, or the fact that I'd come to suspect this was the first real relationship she'd ever had. Something I still find hard to believe because even with the too large glasses it was obvious that she was gorgeous.

She fumbled all over the place and blushed like a virgin at the thought of me taking a shower in her bathroom. Cute, and severely shy. Something I'd picked up on during our many conversations as well.

She left the room and came back with a towel and a toothbrush, her head damn near touching the floor. I lifted her face and kissed her forehead, almost giving her a heart attack. “I’ll be right back. I’ll leave the door open so you won’t be alone.”

I left her and went to take a shower with my mind shifted to other things. I have no idea how these things work so I don’t know how long he was going to be behind bars. I’ll look into it tomorrow.

I’m gonna have to explain things to my parents if it turns into a thing, besides, news travels fast in this town and they’d probably hear about it before I get the chance to tell them.

I didn’t stay long in the shower because I didn’t want to leave her alone too long. “Damn, I should’ve brought my gym bag inside with my change of clothes.” I switched off the water and wrapped the towel around my waist before leaving the room.

I passed her in the hallway coming out of the bedroom. “I’m gonna run to the truck for my bag be right back.” There was no one around so I made the quick dash out to the truck and back and had a thought. It’s true she was a ways away from where I live, but anyone passing by can see my truck.

I didn’t see a garage and she usually parked in her driveway so… I headed back inside to find her sitting down at the table again. “Is there a garage? I don’t want to leave my truck for the neighbors to see.”

“You can pull it around back. I never use back there because it’s a little bit overgrown, but…”

“Say no more.” I headed back out in the towel and pulled the truck around back, already planning to cut the grass and brush for her the first chance I get. She was already in the shower when I got back inside.

I got dressed in the sweats and long sleeved t-shirt I found in my gym bag as I looked around her little bedroom, especially at the bed that was barely big enough to fit both of us.

My mind of course went to more pleasant things, but that was for later. After the night she’d had there’s no way I was going to try anything. Tonight I’m going to drag a chair in here and sleep next to her bed, just to watch over her, just to make her feel safe. As I listened to the water running in the shower I hoped I could keep that promise.

LIZ

I STAYED under the water until it turned cold then got out still not sure about opening the door and walking back out there. The whole evening has been so surreal and now with him being here I'm feeling even more out of my depth.

I'm not afraid to have him here, he'd taken care of me all night so I sensed no danger from him, other than the danger of what it did to me being that close to him.

I was more upset with Robert than afraid as I should be. Maybe because I was able to fight back even before Drake showed up. I feel certain that I would've been able to escape his hold on my own. So though I'm a bit shaken by the attack, I feel no lingering fear. Or maybe I'm just numb and in shock.

The thing that was really bothering me now, was Drake and what the heck I'm supposed to do with him. I'd gone to the football field because I'd needed to see him even though I knew I had to run to the pharmacy and that leaving it until too late could be a problem. I'd been drawn and seduced by the new feelings taking over me and so had let my guard down.

And now he was standing just beyond the door that I'd closed waiting for me to come out. And then what? If I knew what to do in this situation I wouldn't be feeling this awkward and like I was in way over my head.

It's one thing to have silly daydreams about things going further, but that was all in my head. What awaited me beyond this door was very real. I took a deep breath for courage and opened the door holding the robe closed over my pajamas.

He wasn't in the kitchen or any of the other rooms and since I still felt his presence I knew he wasn't gone, so there was only one place he could be. My pulse raced at the thought of him in the little bedroom with my bed.

I walked nervously down the hallway and peeked nervously around the door that led to the bedroom. He was already sitting in there on one of the kitchen chairs. His relaxed pose, with his head back and eyes closed said he meant to stay there for the night and I was ready to balk.

It's weird how I always keep forgetting who's the adult when we're together. I stepped into the room going all the way to the other side of the bed and he still hadn't opened his eyes. "Go to bed, you're probably tired. I'll stay here while you sleep."

He said it like it was the easiest thing in the world, while I stood there like a ninny. He finally popped his eyes open and looked straight at me without uttering a word, before closing them again.

I dropped the robe after turning off the night lamp and climbed into bed quickly while his eyes were still closed. I must've laid there with the covers clutched tightly in my hands, shaking like a leaf for a good half hour.

Though I didn't expect him to attack me, I was still having a hard time with him being this close now that the lights were off and it was even more obvious now that we were indeed alone.

And when I finally dropped off into sleep, I dreamt of the attack that hadn't scared me as much in reality as it did in the dark recesses of my mind while I slept.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

I came awake with a start at the strange noise and took a few seconds to remember that I was in her bedroom. I sat up and wiped the sleep from my eyes and moved to her when she made the sound again. It was obvious that she was dreaming and I didn't need two guesses to figure out what about.

I didn't think about the fact that I might spook her when I lifted the covers and climbed into bed with her. Or when I pulled her into my arms and laid her head on my chest with my arms around her. I don't know why I did it quite like that instead of shaking her awake. With her it just felt natural.

She didn't awaken but settled down and went back to sleep in my arms as if she'd been doing it all her life. While I stayed awake a little while longer staring into the dark, and trying not to breathe.

I didn't know which to focus my energy on first. The hard-on I now had or the fast paced beating of my heart. I guess it didn't matter. Both were a result of being this close to her and there wasn't shit I could do, not with her in this state.

It was enough though, to hold her in my arms, something I'd believed would take me much longer to achieve with her shy ass. I buried my nose in her hair and found my first smile of the night as I wrapped my arms more securely around her.

I didn’t even know that I’d fallen asleep again, and I don’t know what woke me, some sound maybe. But I opened my lids and stared directly into the most beautiful pair of eyes I’d ever seen. My head lifted from the pillow and I stared down at her.

Her eyes are an unusually light blue, with silver and gold specks. But it was the black dot right in the middle of them that made them so outstanding. I’ve never seen anything like it.

My eyes fell from hers to her lips that were slightly open, but open enough for me to hear the wild staccato of her breath. I looked back into her eyes and lowered my head slowly until my lips were just above hers.

“Are they real?” My voice was barely above a whisper as she nodded her answer. I think I was in a trance of some sort from looking into her eyes. They were too unbelievably beautiful to be real and my last thought before pulling her to me was that now I understood why she kept them hidden.

I folded her body into mine just as my lips brushed softly against hers. At the first touch of her lips against mine an electric shock raced through my body and I pulled her even closer, holding her tighter as I deepened the kiss.

She’s a horrible kisser, but for some reason that made me smile against her lips. “Let me show you how.” I held her head and teased her lips with my tongue, playing around her mouth until she opened up and let me in.

“Suck!” I eased my tongue in and out of her mouth slowly at first until she got the hang of it before teasing her tongue into my mouth. I could feel the wild beat of her heart against my chest as the kiss became wilder, more intense.

One of my hands made its way down to the curve of her ass, and not thinking, I pulled her into my hardening cock. I froze when I realized what I’d done, afraid of scaring her after last night, but she didn’t stop sucking on my tongue and trying to get closer to my heat.

Now that I knew she wasn’t afraid I felt free to relax and enjoy, to touch her where I wanted to, all I wanted. The kiss, once she got the hang of it, was ferocious and it wasn’t long before I’d rolled us over, putting her on her back beneath me.

I kept expecting her to call a halt, to break away from me. But instead she seemed fascinated, like she’d seriously never kissed anyone before. The idea made my heart do strange things in my chest, not to mention what it did to the boner I now had pressed into her.

With our mouths still fused together I ground my cock into her pussy through the soft cloth of her sleep shorts and my sweats. I didn't know if it was right or not, or what was the correct protocol for dealing with a woman after she'd been attacked, but once again I chose to go with my instinct and well, her lead.

So when she didn't object to my hands freely roaming over her body, I took things up a notch, all the while listening for any sounds of distress. I moved her sleep tank out of the way and put my hand on the bare warm flesh of her tummy, squeezing her tiny waist.

My cock was already leaking precum and we'd barely gotten started. But I was a long way from ready. If there's one thing I know I do well, it's fucking. I've had lots of practice, which now felt like it had been leading up to this moment. Because until her, it had never felt like my life would end if I didn't get to fuck in the next ten seconds.

I'm sure part of the excitement was because this was forbidden, but most of it at least for me, was all about her. I love the way she felt beneath me. Soft, warm, willing, and so damn tiny compared to my much larger height and frame.

I especially liked how it felt as I towered over her in every way as she looked up at me with those eyes that defied reason. It hit me all at once that she was my teacher. Someone I'd come to know to be very intelligent.

Someone I was almost certain have never been with a man before, and if she had, it had been a long time ago in her youth. The thought of me being the one to tame her, to finally claim her, swept me away.

I got so lost in my head that I let my fingers wander along her side down to her thigh and up her inner thigh until I found her heat through the flannel soft pajamas she wore. I held her eyes with mine and tugged until the bottoms gave way from around her middle, working them off down her thighs.

They got tangled around her legs because I refused to move from my place between her spread thighs, but I was afraid to, afraid that she'd come to her senses and push me away. I'd die if that happens, so to distract her, I left off stripping her pants off and moved onto the top, pulling it off over her head.

All the while she said nothing, except for a low keening sound deep in her throat as she tugged at me. “Okay, okay!” If the feelings weren’t so intense I would’ve laughed at her reaction, but once her perfect up tilted breasts came into view I lost all will to do anything else but taste, feel.

My fingers trembled on their way up from between her thighs where they’d been resting until they found her nipple and teased before I lowered my lips to suckle. I was no longer worried about her being afraid, now all I wanted was to erase the memory from her mind and fill it with me, us, this.

For a twenty-three year old she reacted like an innocent, but I liked it. I liked the fact that she wasn’t aggressive and that instead of trying to take over, she seemed only too willing to follow my lead. I didn’t realize until that moment that that’s something I’d been looking for.

The girls I usually fuck seem to think they have to prove a point. Like they’re just as aggressive sexually as any guy. But now, here, with her, I realized how much I wanted this. Not that she was just lying there letting me do all the work. But it was obvious that of the two of us, I was the one with experience. Something about that made my cock get harder.

Now wasn’t the time for such deep thoughts though so I decided to shelve it ‘til later. Instead I focused on finally getting her out of the pajama bottoms while distracting her with the nipple between my teeth. I finally pulled it off and threw it over the side of the bed as I made my way from her tit to down between her thighs.

My heart was beating like a runaway train and somewhere in the back of my mind I had the thought that I couldn’t believe this was happening, that this was real. I opened her tight little pussy up with my fingers and inhaled the scent from her bath the night before.

She smelt warm, fresh, womanly; with that faint hint of pussy juice teasing my nostrils. I eased a finger inside her and brought some of that cunt juice out in the open before dipping my finger into my mouth.

I had to close my eyes and find my control. Her taste and the feel of her under my fingers, everything about her was blowing my mind. There wasn’t one thing about this moment that didn’t make me want to consume her.

I had visions of fucking her hard and deep even as I cautioned myself to use restraint. And the other thing on my mind was the fact that I’d never gotten this far with a female and not gone all the way neither did I want to start now. But I couldn’t forget what she’d been through just a few short hours ago.

I lifted my head from between her thighs, about to ask her if she wanted me to stop and our eyes collided. I got sucked in again, more forcefully this time and slid up her body to devour her lips with mine.

“Please don’t ask me to stop.” I had to get at least that much out there. My way of giving her that last chance to turn back. My heart raced and my gut burned as I awaited her answer and when she said nothing, just followed my lips with hers, I released a sigh of relief.

Now my hands grew bolder, more sure, but I still listened for any change. Each time I left her lips and came up for air I’d find myself searching her eyes. “Why do you hide your eyes?” I lowered my head and took her mouth before she had a chance to answer, it wasn’t important anyway.

“I’m going to get undressed.” I didn’t mention fear to her, but felt sure that she’d let me know if she became afraid by something I did. I pulled the tank off over my head and watched her squeeze her eyes shut. I kissed her nose because she was being so cute.

I pulled my sweats down and wrestled out of them, still not willing to leave her to do it. My heavy cock thumped against the mattress between her thighs and I suddenly felt the way I did my first time. Rushed and unsure of myself.

I guess I was afraid she’d come to her senses and put a stop to it. I told myself as soon as I get inside her I’ll take my time, I just needed to cross that line first and with that thought in mind I passed my fingers through her slit.

She was wet, but nowhere near as wet as I needed her to be to take my length. I should give her my mouth, eat her out until she becomes drenched, but there was no time. I needed to fuck her now. Once I get that first fuck out of the way, there’s no way she can keep me from having her again.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

With that logic planted firmly in my head, I pushed her legs wider with my hips and let my cock seek her out. Her pussy was too small and tight for my cock to ease in on his own. Even after all this, and her shyness, I didn't stop to think that she might really be a virgin, it just seemed too far fetched.

At most I figured she'd experimented some but didn't like the experience. And I can imagine that if anyone else she'd let into her bed had seen those eyes they'd have lost all control the way it seemed I was about to.

I took my cock in hand and led it into her, little by little and even though she was tight as fuck, I still didn't think much of it. When her pussy gripped my cock like a second layer of skin I just enjoyed the feeling and marveled at just how fucking tight she was.

I used my thumb to tease her clit to get her juices flowing again as I suckled her nipple and she moved ever so slightly, making those keening sounds in her throat again. "Let me in Lizzie." Her pussy twitched at the nickname but her shit still remained tight as fuck.

I was this close to asking her if she'd ever done this before, but when my cock butted against that tight piece of skin deep inside her I had my answer. My eyes flew open wide and everything in me stopped, except my cock which leaked even more precum into her.

Her eyes had changed once again until the black was gone and the centers looked more silver white than dark. I felt like I was in a vortex, like if I stared at her much longer I'd be lost in her forever. "Your fucking eyes."

I hadn't meant to say that, it was as if the words had been dragged from me. But there was danger in the hold her eyes had on me I found as I gripped the hair on the top of her head and held her in place for my tongue.

I breeched her mouth at the same time I slammed my cock past her hymen and stopped. She screamed into my mouth as her body bucked and I actually felt tears fill my eyes. I tried calming her with my kiss as I held still inside her, giving her time to get used to having me in her.

My cock throbbed along with my heartbeat and leaked more precum inside her as I lowered my forehead to hers. We both needed to catch our breath and from the sounds she made I knew she was hurting.

I lifted up and back to look down at her and found her staring up at me. Now her eyes were back to the way they were before and I made myself look into them even as it felt like they were looking into my very soul. She has amazing eyes.

"You were a virgin!" It wasn't lost on me, the incongruity of me saying those words to her. She was the teacher after all. And yet in this one very important instance I knew more than she did. I'm the one who's going to be teaching her.

"Does it hurt?" I rocked my hips from side to side moving my dick around inside her. "Tell me." I kissed her forehead and went back to looking at her when she didn't answer.

"Just a little bit."

"Smile for me, let me know you're okay with this." I didn't ask her to tell me she was enjoying it, I'll know the answer to that myself in a little while. But I wanted to know that she was with me so far. I was lowering my head as soon as I saw her lips begin to curl up in the smile I'd asked for.

"Now touch me, put your hands on me." I waited for her hands to lift tentatively to my back before giving her my tongue. She sucked my tongue and moved her hips, begging me without words to fuck. "Wait a minute, I need you to get wetter first or I'll hurt you." I felt the heat of her blush against my skin at my words.

Now that I had most of my thirteen inch cock buried deep inside her I was able to take my time. With the fear of being rejected no longer an issue,

I relaxed enough to feed on her mouth as much as I wanted to and all the while my cock leaked and throbbed inside her.

I sent my hands on a foray along her sides, up to her breasts and nipples and back down to her ass as we played in each other's mouths. One minute I let her suck on my tongue and the next I fed on hers. My cock soon grew impatient though and it wasn't long before I could no longer hold still.

Her hands never stopped moving over me and her lips never left mine as I started a nice slow fuck into her. It was soft and sweet at first, something I thought she needed.

Her pussy was so tight I could hardly maneuver my cock inside her the way I wanted to anyway. But the feeling of all that tightness wrapped around my meat was phenomenal.

Because she was new to kissing, her teeth made my lips raw but I didn't care, not as long as she let me have her like this. She could chew those shits off if she wanted to.

I thought that her being my teacher wouldn't mean anything when it came to making love to her, but I was wrong. It hit me out of nowhere just how forbidden it was for me to have her, for us to be here like this and the thought alone was enough to make me lose control.

I pulled her closer to me until there was no space left between us and pretty soon I was fucking her harder than any virgin should ever be fucked. I swallowed her cries of pain in my mouth and promised to go slow, but it was no use.

The combination of the night, the forbidden and just how fucking sweet she was proved too much and instead of my usual finesse I treated her to raw unadulterated passion.

In my mind I promised myself to make it up to her as the bed rocked and knocked into the wall behind us with each thrust as I fucked my whole length into her, something I found unbelievable as tight and small as she was.

I wasn't sure if she was trying to stop me or urge me on the way her nails dug into my back, as her pussy clamped down around my cock. But the sounds she made only made my cock harder.

I released her lips long enough to wipe the tears that escaped her eyes from off her cheeks as I looked down into her bright eyes. "It'll stop hurting soon, can you take it?" The slight nod of her head was all the go ahead I needed. Not that I could stop at this point.

I was in the midst of some serious sensory overload. My whole body felt like a live wire, my fingers and toes tingling as my cock pounded in and out of her like an out of control baton.

I realized in the middle of my lust craze that I was crushing her into the bed with my much heavier weight, so I pulled her legs up around my hips and planted my hands in the bed beside her head, lifting my chest off hers.

This new position drove my cock even deeper inside her, and the head butted against her sweet spot. Her pussy juiced and squeezed down hard around my cock and she arched her back and opened her mouth on a scream which I caught on my tongue.

I pulled back and looked down so I could watch her face as she had her first orgasm; it was the most beautiful thing I've ever seen. And then she opened her eyes and looked right at me and something switched on inside me. Something sweet and warm that I knew in that moment I'd never find with anyone else ever again.

I don't know how I knew that, but as I looked down at her it seemed as sure as the air I was breathing, that all the sex I've had up until that moment was nothing compared to what we shared in this moment.

And then there was the look on her face, such wide-eyed innocence. Is it any wonder she was reaching into places I've always kept hidden and out of reach? I doubt she even knew, or even understood. Maybe she doesn't now, but I'll make sure she does later.

For now I just caressed her cheek lovingly as we stared into each other's eyes, trying to show her soft gentleness the only way I could after taking her so roughly.

"I made you cum." I know from experience that it's not that easy to get a female off. Some never orgasm at all unless I take my time and work them up. So the fact that my little virgin came her first time made me feel ten feet tall.

She blushed and those eyes captivated me all over again. Because I'd brought her pleasure my mind went to all the other times she'd let me have her in the future. I made up my mind to love her so well that she'd want me like this all the time. That no amount of fear or nerves would ever keep her from me.

In the few moments it took for me to give her time to come down and to give myself a chance to collect myself enough to find my lost control, there was a rush of emotion so strong, that words weren't good enough. But the dripping of my cock into her said it all.

There was so much precum leaking out of me and into her that it was running out around my cock and onto the mattress beneath us. Her face was one red heated blush as she felt it and I tried to tease her out of her shyness with soft playful kisses of her lips.

"Can you feel how much I want you?" I whispered the words against her lips but did not expect an answer, as I started moving inside her again, slower this time. I'm going to pace myself if it kills me.

That shit was easier said than done because the shy little teacher was pushing all my buttons. Everything about her was getting to me and my usual barriers were no help against the things she did to my heart, not to mention my dick.

Like the fact that she was so small beneath me. Small and delicate, almost like she'd break if I got too rough. Her head barely reached my chin as I thrust gently in and out of her and the way she moved with me, like an innocent who needed me to guide her.

I felt both tender and possessive towards her, a combination that I never experienced in bed before. I've felt tenderness with a girl before sure, but nothing to this extent and definitely not with this added mix of emotions that seemed to come from some hidden place inside me.

It was blowing my mind that I was the one in control, that I was the one who'd awakened her body and my mind was filled with the most possessive shit I've ever felt. I didn't even know I had it in me. Didn't know a female could draw such emotion out of me.

Could make me think beyond the here and now, or make me want to do and be everything to her, for her…with her. I tried telling myself that it was just the novelty, that it was bound to wear off soon. But somehow I knew that this time I wasn't going to be able to extract myself from her as easily as I've done with others in the past.

As I rocked into her, concentrating on the feel of her silky walls wrapped around the hard length of my cock, it felt like so much time had passed, like I'd been in her for hours. But in reality it had only been a few minutes, and that was all the time I needed to know…

The clutching of her flesh around my throbbing rod brought me back down to earth. I could feel all of her, not just where we were joined together, but the wild beating of her heart beneath my chest, her soft skin.

And when I looked into her captivating eyes that look in them that told me she needed me to take care of her did strange things to me.

“Sweet!” So sweet. She was tight and hot and so wet that my cock slid in and out of that tightness with more ease the longer I fucked her. There was no more rush, no haste to my movements as I took her head in my hands and kissed her lips raw.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

I felt my body tense in that telltale way that warned I was about to shoot off, but I didn't want to cum, not yet. I wanted to stay inside her for the rest of the night if she'd let me. What's more, I wanted to make her cum again, wanted to feel the sweet pulsing of her pussy and the heat of her juices as they flowed around my pounding cock. I wanted to see her eyes light up and change as her body gave into mine.

I placed an arm above her head pinning her hair beneath it to hold her in place. "Open them!" She opened her eyes slowly and looked into mine and I felt that same quivering in my gut and my cock jumped inside her, spitting more precum.

I kept my gaze steady on hers as I lowered my head and took her lips. This kiss was much wilder than the others, more heated. I teased her, holding my cock still inside her, letting it throb and drip as I played with her tongue, teasing it into my mouth.

Now it was she who got caught up in mindless passion, fucking herself harder on and off my cock as she fed on my tongue. The sounds she made, so uninhibited, went straight to my dick making it even harder, thicker, hungrier.

Her nails bit into my flesh in a silent bid to get me to move and I grinned against her lips, but didn't comply. I was having too much fun teasing her, making her work for what she wanted. I wanted to drag her out of her shell. I want her to keep that sweet shyness everywhere else, but not in my bed I decided.

She made a pitiful whining sound in her throat and lifted me off the bed with her tiny frame as her heels dug into my ass. I kissed her harder now and fucked into her with force, slamming her back down on the bed, driving into her the way she was begging for.

I rode her hard and fast with a guttural groan as her pussy went nuts on my cock. I could feel more precum leave me and spill into her, only then remembering that I wasn't wearing a rubber. Oh shit!

I tired to ease out of her and accidentally brushed her clit with my pelvis, and just like that she arched her back and came, wrapping her legs and arms tighter around me, moving her hips lustily as she tore her lips away from mine and opened her mouth, head thrown back, in a soundless scream.

Danger signals went off inside my head and I tried pulling out again, but her too tight pussy had locked down around my cock and refused to let go. And then I felt something so amazing I couldn't have resisted if I tried.

It was as if something deep inside of her was syphoning my rod. A wild pulsation that when I closed my eyes I could imagine what it must look like deep inside her pink gash. My thoughts made my cock rock hard and I was ready to blast off inside her.

When I felt the telltale tingles in my balls again I tried to warn her, but the words wouldn't come, and it was then I knew that for the first time in my young life I wanted to share my seed with a woman. It just seemed the most natural thing in the world to want to share that with her and only her.

I knew the danger; the risk I was taking, but in that fleeting moment, caught up as I was in the heat of new forbidden passion, I decided to play the odds. Her pussy was doing such amazing things to my throbbing cock it would've been damn near impossible for me to stop now anyway since my body had completely taken over.

In other words I couldn't pull out if my life depended on it. I wanted to feel this for as long as I possibly could. That's the message my little head sent to the head on my shoulders and I just started fucking harder into her, chasing my orgasm.

And then she tightened up around me and came again and it was all over for me. I was totally captivated by her, by everything about the moment we shared. She got this look of pure complete rapture on her face as her whole body became inflamed. I was so mesmerized by her that my cock was now moving on its own.

There was too much, too much raw emotion, too much pleasure more pleasure than I expected to find in her. Who could've known that behind that shy reserve there was all this? That she would come alive like this and blow me away?

"I love the way you cum. Do it again." Her eyes had a sultry almost half asleep look as they went to half slits while I fucked her deep. I licked her neck and bit into it, leaving my mark on her for the first time.

It felt so good and her pussy reacted to it so well, that I did it again without thought. I didn't think about what her neck was going to look like, or her breasts when I moved onto them. Now I was the one caught up in the throes of an uncontrollable passion.

I sucked her nipples hard while I let my cock loose inside of her. I don't think I'd ever fucked anyone as hard as I fucked her. In the back of my mind I reminded myself that this was her first time, that I should handle her with more care. But it was no use. Everything seemed to culminate at once.

Who she was, who I was, and where we were; what we were sharing together. I chewed on her nipples going from one to the next and just the taste of them, and the way they went from puffy soft to hard little raspberries on my tongue made my cockmeat stiff as fuck.

I grabbed my cock at the base and pulled out of her, looking down between her thighs before putting her on her hands and knees in front of me. The blood wasn't as messy on her thighs as it was on the sheets when I nosed my cock up to her slit from behind.

I rubbed the leaking head of my cock up and down her pink slit before pushing it back inside her. "Arch!" I ran my hand down the middle of her spine just in case she didn't understand my command.

She arched her back and canted her ass in the air giving me free access to her perfect ass and the tightest fuck I've ever had. Go figure! She was tighter than half the cheering squad who were much younger.

And her body, the body she'd been hiding beneath those clothes is spectacular. She had nice melon sized tits, which I'd decided in the last couple of hours are my new favorite thing. A tiny waist that defies reason and the plumpest little round ass I've ever seen on someone this tiny. No wonder she hides it beneath her clothes.

I let my hands caress her all over from her front to her back and back around, while stroking my cock into her nice and deep. I loved the pinkness of her pussy lips against the milky white creaminess of her thighs.

I loved that I was so much bigger than she was, and the way that made me feel, protective, in charge. I loved that she was a woman, a grown woman, but that I was the first one to fulfill the need in her.

I love that I'm so much bigger and stronger than she is. Love the way it makes me feel. And, I especially love that I'd been there to protect her.

The reminder of how we got here was distracting but I pushed thoughts of the attack away for now and concentrated on making her first time memorable for all the right reasons.

I tried not to go too fast, to take my time and love her the way I knew her virgin pussy needed, but it was getting harder to hold back the closer I got to cumming.

Her pussy wasn't quite taking my whole length in this position and I slow fucked her, trying to open her up to take more of me in her tightness. I pulled her up so that her back was flush against my chest and stroked into her with one hand on her flat tummy and the other around her throat, holding her in place for my power strokes.

I love the way I dominated her in this position the way she was completely at my mercy as I fucked her harder while adding pressure to her throat. I squeezed gently, testing the waters and nipped her ear as the hand on her tummy moved up to her tit and fondled.

She reached back with her right arm, putting it around my neck, and I lowered my lips to her neck and squeezed my fingers harder around her tit until her nipple hardened.

I caressed her tits and felt an answering quiver deep inside her pussy. I marked her again and felt pussy juice run down the length of my rod. "You like that?" When I touched her clit I got all three. The quiver, hot pussy juice and the sweet sound of her screams.

I had to hold her tight to me so she didn't pull off my pounding cock as she fucked herself harder on my cock and came for the third time. "Yes, cum for me!" I encouraged her as her body shook and thrashed around in my hold.

I felt my balls draw up again and took her back down to the mattress, pinning her beneath me with her ass in the air and my cock sunk deeper.

“Stay there!” I held her body down with a hand in her back and fucked into her. “Lift your ass for me Lizzie, just a little bit more. That’s it.”

There was just enough space for me to get my hand under her and my fingers on her clit. She was trapped between my cock and my fingers and I felt her cunt walls gyrate seconds before a vise gripped my cock, all that was inside her and sucked.

“Oh…shit….” I came so deep in her I knew none was gonna run out. “Are you on the pill Elizabeth?” I barely got the words out because I was fighting to breathe. She shook her head and for some reason that made me cum harder and for much longer than usual.

I growled or roared, not sure which since it was my first time making that sound in bed. And even after I emptied my balls I couldn’t find the will to leave her. I took us both down to the bed still joined and wrapped my arms around her from behind.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

We were both out of breath but our bodies still moved together in the final throes of lust as if we were both trying to draw things out for as long as we could. I couldn't keep my hands from running all over her body, couldn't move away from her. I was hooked.

I turned her face and sucked her tongue into my mouth as my cock gave the last few strokes before he was completely spent. I cupped her pussy and held one of her tits in my other hand as we shared another earth shattering kiss that went on forever.

As we both came down, just taking soft nips of each other's lips, I felt the stickiness of her blood and her pussy juice where her ass rested on me. "I have to clean you up." I moved to pull out and she whined, the sound going straight to my heart and places south.

"I'll fuck you again after we get cleaned up." I don't think she knew that she'd bled all over the sheets and my cock, and I was pleased with myself that I'd been able to give this amazing creature so much pleasure that she'd given herself over to me completely.

I eased out of her as carefully as I could and she winced. My cock was a mess when I climbed out of bed and turned back for her. "You don't have to carry me, I can walk." She buried her face in my neck when I ignored her words as I headed for the shower.

I set her down and turned on the water in the too small shower but no way was I ready to leave her side. I was fast changing up all my rules for her. By now I should be pulling on my clothes and looking for the nearest exit.

Instead I pulled her into the crowded shower stall with me and grabbed the soap to bathe her as she stood still with her head down. I didn't call her on her shyness after being so wild under me, in fact I was coming to like this side of her more and more.

As I ran the soap over her I replayed the last few hours in my head. She'd been a virgin, something that I cherish more than I knew I would. I think that's what tipped me all the way over into love with her, if I'm being honest.

I'd suspected that that's where things were headed but told myself that it was too soon. That it was just the new excitement of being with someone like her. But even then I knew I was just fooling myself.

From the moment I started feeling protective towards her, when I stopped thinking only of getting her into bed but started imagining a relationship beyond that, I should've known. I hugged her back to me as emotion welled up inside.

There were no words spoken between us but none were needed. I think we'd said all that was needed for tonight anyway. Tomorrow will be time enough to talk about where we go from here.

I smiled against her cheek as I put the soap back in the dish and used my bare hands to wash her. "Open for me." She opened her legs shyly and I washed her gently with my fingers until she was clean, but of course I didn't stop there. It wasn't long before I had her bent over with her hands against the wall as I promised not to hurt her any more than I already had.

By the time I nosed my cock around her pussy and found her hole neither of us were thinking about that. We were both remembering the pleasure we'd just shared not long ago as I sank my cock into her and started all over again.

LIZ

~

How am I going to face him? I laid with my back turned and my body stiff. He was still asleep behind me with his arms wrapped around me as if protecting me even in sleep, or not ready to let me go.

I'd been awake for hours finding it hard to fall asleep after the night's events. It says a lot that I hadn't even given Robert and the attack a second thought, not since we came back to my place.

Even now, when I should be afraid of what else he might do, I couldn't bring myself to let thoughts of him mar what had passed between Drake and I.

Last night or this morning rather, had been amazing. It had certainly surpassed all expectations. Not that I had any, but even if I had, I can't imagine that they would've come anywhere near what I experienced in this bed at his hands. Not once, not twice, but…

I felt my face heat in renewed shame as I recalled my wanton behavior and my mouth opened in a silent scream of horror as I bit into my fist. How could I have behaved so carelessly?

Now that the haze of lust had cleared somewhat, all that could go wrong was hitting me all at once. It was like a pail of cold water to the face. I tried easing out of his arms but he tightened his hold at the last second.

"Where are you going? It's not time to get up yet. Still dark outside…" He mumbled the last, still half asleep and I held still lest I wake him up. My mind was in turmoil as it flitted from one horror to the next.

There's so much that can happen. He could brag to his friends… Just that one thought alone was enough to make me want to crawl into a hole and die. What was I thinking? How could I risk a lifetime of hard work and always doing the right thing for a few moments of pleasure?

Maybe because it had been more than that. Maybe, because for the first time, I'd wanted something just for me something that was mine alone. Something I'd wanted more than I've ever wanted before.

But in the clear light of day I ask myself if it was worth it. Come morning if the whole thing blows up in my face, will I be able to look back on the night's explorations without regret? I was close to tears now as the beauty of what we'd shared started to fade in the face of doubt.

"What's the matter, why aren't you sleeping?" Good, now I've gone and awakened him when all I want is to be left alone with my thoughts. To figure out my next move now that I'd made a mess of things.

He didn't give me time to answer, but turned me onto my back and leaned over me. The only light in the room came from the fading moon that shone through the light curtains that covered the window across from the bed.

He reached over me and switched on the table lamp before looking down at me. "What's got you so worried? You thinking about what happened in the parking lot?" If only. I was beginning to think that was the least of my problems.

I could only shake my head in the face of his intense look and tried closing my eyes to get away from his all seeing stare. He took the opportunity to push my legs open and before I could utter a word he was there, pushing into me again.

"You have nothing to worry about. I'm here." With his arms coming around me, holding me close as he shoved himself into me, it was easy to believe his words. And just as before, I soon forgot everything else but the feel of him, and was soon lost in the sweet passion he'd so newly awakened inside me.

Another shared shower later and it was time for him to go. I was a little reassured when he was the one to make the suggestion that he leave before anyone in the neighborhood woke up and saw him leaving my place. That could only mean that he didn't plan to broadcast what had happened between us.

"Come 'ere." I'd followed him to the door to see him off because I suddenly hated to see him go. The little house was already beginning to feel empty and he hadn't even crossed the doorway yet.

He pulled me into his arms until my feet left the ground and kissed the air from my lungs before setting me back down on my feet again. He brushed his hand over my hair and kissed my forehead, something that I found way too sexy for its innocence, before walking out the door.

"Lock up behind me and don't answer the door for anyone. I'll have someone drop your car off later so don't worry about it." I've always thought of myself as a staunchly independent woman. So I find it passing strange that his take-charge attitude rings all my bells. His gruff command made me weak in the knees.

I walked back into the bedroom and stared at the scene of the crime. I didn't feel like climbing back into my now empty bed so I headed to the mudroom and the dryer to remove the sheets we'd changed earlier after our first shower.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

I wore a stupid grin all the way home and had to get myself under control by the time I was pulling into the driveway. Mom's pretty good at sniffing shit out and no way am I ready to share. So I put my game face on and snuck into the house and up the stairs to my room.

I needed another shower since I got kinda dirty in the last one I shared with Lizzie, but I was loathe to wash her scent off of me. It didn't matter though, because I was going to see her this evening. I hope I make it through the day until the time arrives.

I remembered to take care of her car situation, and that only brought up the memory of what had happened to her, which made me worry about her being home alone even though it was daylight and she would be leaving for work soon.

I sent her a quick text before leaving the house and she answered back with the news that the car had arrived. With one less worry on my mind I headed off to school feeling more excited to be there than I have in a long time.

I was lucky enough to make it through the first half of the day without giving myself away, but by lunch time I was jonesing. I knew there wasn't much I could do on school grounds, but halfway through my morning classes I got to thinking about how shy she is.

I was worried that she might've started overthinking things as soon as I left her house. From what I know of her that seems to be the way she'd go. Along with worrying about her frame of mind I've been racking my brain trying to come up with a way to deal with the asshole that had hurt her the night before.

I'd already told mom not to expect me home this evening either, once again leaving her with the impression that I was going to be hanging out with one of the guys.

I had no fear of her finding out different, because if she needed me she'd just call my number. Besides, I'm pretty trustworthy so she knew I wouldn't be off getting myself into any trouble.

She didn't answer when I broke down at first break and called her and I got a bad feeling in my gut. I didn't think she was in danger, but I was pretty sure she was beating herself up for going to bed with me.

I barely made it through the rest of my classes without just getting up and walking out. So there I was at lunch, making my way over to the Grade school parking lot, looking for her ride.

Just as I suspected, it was nowhere to be found. I scrolled through my contacts and called her number, already imagining her at home in bed with the covers pulled over her head.

"Where are you?" I didn't greet her when she answered just dove right in.

"I'm….uh…."

"Don't even think about telling me you're sick. Did you call out? Are you not coming to class tonight?"

"I just needed some time alone, to think…"

"No you don't. You didn't do anything wrong. I'm coming to get you." I hung up the phone and checked my watch. Shit, forty-five minutes to get to her and back. I didn't care.

I knew something like this might happen, knew that she'd be eaten up with guilt and maybe fear of what might happen if anyone found out about last night. But that's the last thing I wanted.

I don't want her treating what we did like a crime. Don't want her beating herself up over what had been the most beautiful thing I've ever shared with a woman. But I guess I can understand where she's coming from. The situation is ripe for controversy.

All the same, I'm not about to let her hide away like she'd done something to be ashamed of. And for damn sure I'm not about to let her put the brakes on just when we we're getting started, that shit is dead.

I made it to her place in half the time and looked around once I got out of the truck to make sure no one was watching. I'm not sure if anyone in the neighborhood would recognize me, but it pays to be safe. She was already spooked enough as it is.

She opened the door after the third knock and walked back inside with her shoulders hunched up to her damn ears. From the looks of her she'd been crying since I left her this morning. I didn't ask her shit, didn't say shit either, just backed her against the wall and kissed her like I'd been dying to all damn day.

How can two people walk away from the same situation with such different views? "Open your mouth Lizzie." She was trying to keep me out, like that was gonna work. I pulled down on her chin with my thumb and opened her mouth enough to sneak my tongue inside.

It all came rushing back. The feel of her in my arms, the way her body held mine inside, the way she came for me. Before I knew it I was lifting her and making my way to her bedroom and the bed she'd just left from the looks of it.

"Drake…" I think that's the first time she'd called my name, or in just that way in either case. I didn't give her time to argue, just dragged her shorts off down her thighs, unsnapped my jeans and pulled them down, leaving them and my silk shorts around my ankles, held up by my shoes.

My cock was already seeking her out like a heat seeking missile, but she was wound too tight for me to just take her. I lifted her feet onto the edge of the bed and spread her open before getting to my knees on the floor with my head between them.

Her pussy was still a little red from the earlier beating it had taken from my cock, so my mouth was just what she needed. I licked her slit and she moaned. I did it again before going after her clit. By the time I took the little nub into my mouth and sucked she was gripping fistfuls of my hair and making those fuck me noises that I love.

I ate her pussy until her juices flowed, all the while stroking my hard cock until it was time for him to join the fun. When she was wet and ready I stood up next to the bed, gripped her hips in my hands and pulled her onto my cock.

I closed my eyes at the intense pleasure the feel of her silk warmth gave me. It's amazing the things that goes through my head when I'm inside her. The images that flash across the screen of my mind, all filled with her. "Let me see those eyes."

She opened them and looked up at me, her lips slightly opened as she strained her hips up to meet mine. The effect was the same as before. I got lost in the blue pools of her eyes and all control left me and before I knew it I was pounding into her hard enough to break the bed.

And when I lifted her legs over my shoulders, opening her up wider to take more of me I thought I'd killed her the way she screamed and bit into my chest.

I tried to tell her that it was okay, that I wouldn't hurt her, but the words wouldn't come. I needed all my air to breathe. So I showed her instead. With long deep thrusts into her belly and my tongue in her mouth.

I felt her nails tearing into my back but the pain only added to the intensity and damn near got her split in half. My cock was sliding into her much easier now though there was still a ways to go before her tight pussy didn't feel like it was cutting off my circulation. I was here for all of it. Whatever!

Again I remembered too late that I wasn't wearing a condom, had in fact grabbed a couple boxes when I left home this morning, but of course they were in the truck. Fuck!

"I'm cumming in you again. It's okay." I rushed to reassure her when she started to tense up. And when she looked like she wasn't convinced I put my hand between us and went after her clit. "That's it, cum for me."

Her pussy squeezed around my cock and she arched her back, driving her cunt harder along my cock until I was buried balls deep. I felt my seed rise as my balls hardened and when she opened her eyes and stared up at me I let loose a volley inside her. I think she might be in trouble.

I laid still on top of her, kissing her into submission because I didn't want to hear anything negative, not right now. I'll deal with her fears later when we have time. But I didn't want anything marring the euphoric mood I was in.

I could've kissed her for the rest of the afternoon and gave it some serious thought. But if I wanted her to treat our new relationship like something more than a passing thought, then I have to do things the usual way. But I didn't want to leave her, not with her feeling the way she was.

“Shit, I don’t want to leave you but I gotta go. I’ve got a Calc class that I can’t miss.” I kissed her hard on the lips as I pulled out and jumped off the bed. I didn’t drag her into the shower with me because that would’ve made me even later. So I rushed through my solo shower and dragged her into my chest on my way out the door for one last kiss.

“Don’t make me have to come looking for you this evening.” I gave her a stern look before heading out the door. She hadn’t said more than two words since I arrived, that shit was funny. I finally land me an older woman and I still have to be the one in charge.

I WAS nervous as hell when it came time for the afterschool class to begin. I wasn’t sure if she was going to show or if we were about to have our first argument. I accept that I have to giver her room to deal with her fears, but hiding was not the answer. That much I know.

I figured as long as we keep things the way they are now, no one would be the wiser. On the other hand, if she starts acting skittish, or more skittish than is her usual, then she’d be sure to give that shit away.

I’d also come up with a way to deal with her stalker and was fine tuning my approach. I have to handle things just right or I’d be the one letting the cat out of the bag. Plus I didn’t want her thinking I was telling tales out of school.

I can only imagine how she’d react if she thought I was sharing all the details about us with my boys. Something I would never do in a million years. But I was gonna need them for what I had in mind.

She made me sweat it out, showing up to class at the last damn second, just when I was about to call her and give her shit. She was back to looking like Ms. Parks, and I was proud of myself for making it through the class without showing my hand. Though it was hard as hell to sit there in the same room as her with my dick on hard for an hour and a half.

“Ms. Parks, I have a question. I’ll catch up with you Carter.” I waved him off when it looked like he was going to wait for me. I waited until the coast was clear and approached her. “When you get outside just sit in your car and wait for me. I’ll get rid of the guys and follow you home.”

She looked surprised at my offer, like she thought I wasn't gonna go home with her. Such an innocent! If I wasn't dying to get into her bed and her, there's the stalker fuck on the loose, which I still had no idea if he was out on bail or not. So there was no way I was letting her go home this late by herself.

I watched her leave and followed behind at a decent pace and walked over to the guys who were all standing around in a huddle. No doubt they had plans for the night. It was Friday after all, so that was a given.

"So where are we going tonight?" They all looked to me at Carter's question.

"I can't tonight guys, I got a thing."

"Which one of the cheers is it? Or is it someone from the other side?" He inclined his head to indicate the neighboring town and I just grinned.

"You dog, who is it? Is it the twins? I knew you were up to something these past few weeks. Giving me that shit about SATs." Carter elbowed me good naturedly and thankfully the conversation changed, taking the focus off of me as they started teasing one another.

"Okay then, I guess we'll see you when we see you." I waved them off and hoisted my bag higher on my shoulder as I walked nonchalantly towards my truck, which was parked just a few spaces down from hers.

She was sitting in her car pretending to look at her phone, at least I think she was pretending, as I got into my truck and started it up. By the time we pulled out of the parking lot the others were already way down on the other side of the lot making as much racket as per usual.

As I followed her home I realized how much I'd changed in the last few weeks, even more so since the night before. I didn't feel like the same guy who was always down for a good time with the boys on a Friday night.

Right now I couldn't think of anything better than going back to her place and spending the rest of the night buried inside her. I wonder if she's still sore? I have ways of getting around that, very enjoyable ways.

OceanofPDF.com

LIZ

Why are my arms and legs trembling? It's a miracle I'd made it all the way home without crashing into something as uptight as I felt. This isn't as fun as I thought it would be. In my imagination things went much smoother than this, not to mention what went on in my dreams.

But all day I've had something lodged in the pit of my stomach, waiting for the knock on the door. If he hadn't shown up when he had this afternoon there's a good chance I would've bolted.

Now that I'd taken that forbidden step it can only go downhill from here. At least that's what I'd been telling myself all morning as I hid under the covers. I'd called out with an excuse of being ill and only after hanging up remembered that I hadn't told the school about Robert.

I'm still not sure if I should, but somehow, something that would've sent me into hysterics a month ago hasn't had the expected effect on me. Instead my mind was filled with a different fear.

But as I pulled up to the house and he honked the horn and drove up beside me, I felt those fears ease a bit. It's only here in the sanctity of my little abode that I feel safe, that I'm not so worried about being caught. He gestured for me to roll my window down which I did, leaning over to hear him.

"Let me drive around back first and then you can pull into your regular spot." It's things like that that's helping to ease the knots in my stomach, his thoughtfulness. I nodded and waited for him to do as he proposed before pulling into the driveway.

The angst eased even further now that I knew he couldn't be seen. There were no houses next to mine on either side, the closest one being down the street and across the way. Something I'd come to fear after Robert started his campaign, but was happy for once again.

I'd chosen this place for it's seclusion after all, and the lovely little garden out back that I hadn't had a chance to enjoy because it was so completely overgrown.

As I parked and made my way to the door my worry turned into a budding excitement as he turned the corner with his gym bag in hand. I opened the door and let us in, and just that easily, with the closing of the door behind us, I was transported.

Here, in this little cozy space it's as if the rest of the world has been cut off. I know come Monday morning I'll be back to worrying but…My thoughts were cut off when he pulled me around and into his arms, his lips coming down on mine like he'd been starved for me. I don't think I'll ever get used to this feeling.

I've never seen myself as a desirable being, but he sure does make me feel that way. With his arms around me I no longer think of what if, or the other, comparing myself to girls his age. That's something I've been doing off and on all day in between worrying about getting caught.

What he'd done to me had opened up something inside me, a whole new world that I had yet to fully explore but want so badly to. I already know the danger of wanting too much from what might be for him just a passing tryst. Had warned myself time and time again not to weave fanciful dreams around the reality of what we'd shared.

But when we're close together like this, all the warnings I give myself doesn't seem to matter. Like now, all that mattered was the feel of his tongue in my mouth, the weight of his arms around me and the heaviness of his manhood as it pressed into me.

I felt liquid heat pool between my thighs and my nipples became pinpoints of pleasure as they rubbed against his chest as I tried to get closer. "Let's go shower together, then we'll make dinner." I just nodded my head like a marionette as he took my hand and dragged me towards the bathroom.

DRAKE

ONCE AGAIN I had to take control. It was obvious that she was still a bit uneasy and I had to accept that it would take time. Since she's not so big on talking I figured I'd just have to show her that there was nothing to worry about.

As far as I'm concerned, if worst comes to worst, I'll be leaving for university after this school year, she can always come along with me. I'm sure she can teach anywhere, and besides, I'm already dreading the thought of leaving her here when I go.

Of course I know that's not what she's worried about. And it would be much better if she left on her own terms as opposed to being run out of town. Shit, I don't even know if she'd want to leave either way. The thought was sobering.

I've been making all these plans in my head for us, thinking of ways to make this work, and apparently getting way ahead of myself. There's a lot we still have to talk about, but not now. I don't want to spoil the mood, don't want to taint the newness of what we'd shared with what was bound to be an argument.

So I helped her get undressed instead. "Now you." She bit into her lip and stared at my chest before her hands came up to tackle my shirt and pull it off over my head. I had to bend so she could do it and was reminded once again of the differences in our stature.

"I like that you're so tiny." I never knew I had a preference before. But somehow her small stature fit perfectly with her shy demure personality. Once she had my jeans undone I pushed them off down my thighs and kicked them out of the way.

Of course my cock sprang into view, hard, aching and ready for action. Her eyes were glued to my cock and her face couldn't get any redder I'm sure. "Touch him." I had to take her hand and lead it to my hot, throbbing cockmeat.

I hissed at the feel of her hand wrapped around my girth and fucked into her palm a few times before pulling her into the shower. The water was barely on and set before I had her pressed back against the wall and her legs open for my tongue.

Holding her ass in my hands, I brought her to my mouth and feasted, her taste coursing through me like the finest aphrodisiac. It's amazing that as new as I am to the taste of her, that I'd become as addicted as I have.

"Ummm…." I wiggled my tongue around inside her before pulling it out and sucking on her clit, going back and forth between the two until her ass moved in my hands and she spread her legs wider, tugging on my hair to bring me closer.

I love the way she responds, that it's not some patented fake shit I have to decipher. Love that she becomes uninhibited as soon as I touch her and the prim and proper school teacher takes a backseat to the wild woman she has hidden inside.

"I know, I'm coming." I had to reassure her when she damn near pulled all the hair from my head. I grinned with my mouth full of pussy and wished in that moment that things would always be like this between us, that she'd never have that scared rabbit look on her face like she had tonight when she walked into the classroom.

I got to my feet and took her face between my hands, staring into the eyes that she'd gone back to keeping hidden. "You know I won't let anything happen to you don't you?" She didn't answer and I understood the futility of the statement. How could she? She didn't really know me after all. And I imagine she had a lot going on in that little head of hers.

Before she could go back to her worries I took her lips with mine. "Put your legs around me." I helped her jump up and wrap her legs around my hips while looking down between us. "Now take me in your hand and put me inside you."

The more involved she is the sooner she'd get over her shyness I'm thinking. She still reddened as she reached for my cock and led it to her pussy, but her haste was proof that she was as worked up as I was.

I had to help her and was damn near cross eyed by the time I found my mark and slid up inside her. I spread my legs and planted my feet and with her ass held firmly in my hands pulled her on and off my cock as hard as her tight pussy would allow.

“Why do I always feel like cumming as soon as I get inside you? Fuck!” I pounded her pussy harder making her head loll around on her neck like a ragdoll. I fisted the hair at the back of her head and swooped down on her lips, sucking the air from her lungs as I pummeled my cock into her piston fast and hard.

“Cum for me, I want to feel you cum.” She opened her damn eyes and I lost it, slamming her back against the wall of the shower as I fucked into her over and over again. I swallowed her screams and wrapped her up tight as my cock shot off inside her. Again!

“You okay?” I brushed her now wet hair back from her face. She wasn’t breathing so well and I placed my hand over her heart that was going way too fast.

“Calm down, breathe for me. Look at me Lizzie.” I held her eyes with mine and showed her how to breathe until the wild pace of her heart started to calm. She finally came down and we got cleaned up before getting dressed in the little bedroom and heading into the kitchen to make dinner.

“Something already smells good in here.”

“I usually put something in the slow cooker on the days I teach your class.”

“I hope you made a lot because if you haven’t noticed, I’m two of you and I’m still growing.”

I flexed my muscles which made her laugh. It was the first time I’d seen her laugh like that and it stopped me in my tracks. “Damn, your eyes really light up when you laugh like that. Maybe you should wear your glasses so I can at least function half the time.”

She actually started to leave the room to go get them and I stopped her. “Hey, it’s a joke come ‘ere.” I kissed her head and apologized for the poor joke. Knowing how touchous she is about her eyes I shouldn’t have said that. My first slipup.

“I love your eyes, though I don’t want you to stop wearing your glasses outside just yet. I’m not ready to share them with anyone else.” I probably sounded like a controlling ass, but I couldn’t help it. Those eyes of hers are killer.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

"I'm going to cut your grass tomorrow." We were sitting around the kitchen table enjoying the savory stew she'd made for dinner and the silence was deafening.

"You don't have to do that. The landlord…"

"Have you seen back there? No wonder you don't park around back, it's like a jungle. Besides, I want to do it. You don't happen to have an old mower laying around do you?" I said it as a joke but was surprised by her answer.

"As a matter of fact the landlord said there's one in the old shed out back but it hasn't been used in years."

"Why didn't you tell him that the grass was getting out of control?"

"He's ninety if he's a day, and besides, the temperature was cooling down some when I moved in so I figured the grass would die in the not too distant future."

"You left it too long, last summer was one of the longest summers we've had in about a century, don't you listen to the news?" She shrugged her shoulders and went back to eating.

I was trying to find things to talk to her about so she didn't think I was just here to drag her off to bed but it wasn't easy. The long sleeved top and baggy pants she wore made her look cute. Even so, I didn't want her to see me as just another stereotypical horny teen out to get his rocks off so I was trying to pace myself.

“By the way, have you talked to the cops about that guy? Is he still locked up or did he make bail?” I almost regretted asking because she lost all the color in her face. She put her spoon down and looked at me with what I’d call a little girl lost look. Made me want to hunt him down and kill him with my bare hands.

“I might have to go to court. He’s out now, or at least he was when I called this morning after you left.” She looked down at her folded hands in her lap. I pushed my chair away from the table and reached for her, pulling her down onto my lap.

“Hey, it’s going to be okay. Does he know where you live?” She nodded her head solemnly and picked at her fingernails. I already had an idea of how to deal with this guy, which I was not about to share with her.

No doubt she’d freak if she knew I was planning to put a beat down on him. But right now my main focus was making sure she wasn’t afraid. Easier said than done since she lived all the way out here alone.

“Where’s your computer?” I tapped her hip and she looked at me questioningly. I just raised my brow until she stood and went into the bedroom to come back with an old laptop.

“How old is this thing?” I took it from her and opened it up, signing in as a guest.

“I’ve had it since college, it still works fine so I see no need to change it.” Damn is she different. Most of the girls I know wouldn’t be caught dead with anything more than a year or two old.

I went online and fast tracked an order for some CCTV security cameras. I didn’t fool myself that I’d always be here with her though I’d like to be. I’m caught between a rock and a bolder. To protect her from rumors I’m forced to leave her here on her own.

“I’ll be right back.” I left her sitting at the table to go walk around the house and check all the windows and doors to make sure they were safe. When I came back she was standing at the sink washing the dishes.

I joined her and tried not to make a complete ass of myself. I’ve never washed a dish in my life. I knew I was fucking up the drying process when I caught the look on her face.

“What?” I mean how can you screw up something as simple as drying a dish? She just shook her head and went back to washing, but the little half smile on her face was a dead giveaway.

“Tell me, what am I doing wrong?” I turned over the dish in my hands and bumped her shoulder when she didn’t answer. She snorted out a laugh and took the dish from my hands and opened the dishwasher to stack it inside.

“You’re new to this huh.”

“You really have to wash them before putting them in there?” Color me stupid. What the hell is the point of the damn things?

“With the newer models you don’t have to but this one’s about ten years old I think.”

I love how she’s so nonchalant about it. Mom changes around our kitchen at least every two years or so. Her simple laid back attitude made me think of something else I never had before. She needs spoiling. I got a rush just thinking about it.

Her phone rang somewhere in the background, infiltrating my thoughts. I didn’t realize right away that she’d come to a standstill right beside me. Her whole body seemed tense and when I looked down at her the look on her face was one of not fear, but something damn close.

“What?” I looked around to see what was making her react this way but there was nothing, but the ringing phone. And then I got it. I wiped my hands on the towel and turned to go get it.

“Is that him?”

“I’m not sure, but no one else really calls. Except you.” Had she been living in fear of the phone ringing all this time?

I found it in the bedroom on the nightstand and picked it up. I wouldn’t know the number anyway so I ended up taking it out to her. I held the screen up to her face so she could see.

“Is this him?” She shrugged her shoulders.

“I don’t know, he changes numbers all the time.”

“Let’s put it another way. Other than me, who else has your number? That should have it I mean.”

“The school…”

“Good, since you don’t recognize this one I’m going to say this is not someone you know.” I blocked the number and put the phone down on the counter.

“Why haven’t you changed your number if this guy keeps calling and harassing you?”

“It wouldn’t make a difference, I didn’t give him this one.” Okay, if I hadn’t seen the seriousness of the situation first hand with my own two eyes, that right there would’ve cinched it.

“Okay, you have two choices. Either I add you to my plan, or you get yourself a new phone and a new number, which you share with no one, not even the school. At least not for a while.”

I picked the phone back up and scrolled through her call history. “Are all these him?” When she nodded after leaning over to see what I was looking at, I felt my guts drop.

“You need to hand this over to the cops. There are laws against this in our state, he’s basically stalking you and using the phone to do it. Hey, don’t freak.” She’d gone sheet white and looked like she was about to pass out on me.

I pulled her into my chest and covered the back of her head with my hand. Just then a car went by outside, its lights beaming into the room. Her place is so small that we saw it coming through the living room windows into the kitchen where we were standing.

The way the house is set up, there’s the kitchen, with the bedroom right off of it and the living room-dining room on the other side. It’s not even as big as my bedroom, but somehow it suits her.

I didn’t think much of the car though she seemed to notice and tensed up even more. But then that same light appeared again, and then again. It was obvious that she was becoming agitated, no doubt thinking it was him out there.

There wasn’t much I could do, short of running outside and beating him to a pulp, but it was too soon for that. I didn’t want to make her situation even worst by being rash. So for now, I just lifted her in my arms and headed for the bedroom, closing the door behind us and shutting everything out.

The window curtains in here were light as well, but at least the car’s lights wouldn’t penetrate this far back. Even so I told myself to remember to get her some blackout curtains as I laid her back across the bed and leaned over her with my hands pressed into the mattress beside her head.

I pushed my cock hard into her softness, distracting her from her worry the only way I knew how. I always seem to fall into her eyes, like now, as I looked down at her with that look of worry on her face.

It would be too easy to say don’t worry, but after seeing firsthand what that freak had done to her, I knew that wasn’t going to cut it. I cupped her cheek and rubbed her soft smooth flesh with my thumb before leaning in for a kiss.

My heart thundered in my chest the closer I got to her lips and by the time they connected that sweet feeling I’d come to expect at the feel of her welled up inside me.

In my mind as she opened for me all I could think was how could anyone hurt someone as sweet as her? How could one man see her as prey when all I wanted was to protect and cherish?

I could’ve poured out my heart to her in that moment but I didn’t want to see doubt and uncertainty in her eyes when I finally tell her what I was coming to feel for her, so I kept the words to myself.

Instead I touched her with all the reverence and blossoming love I felt for her as I undressed her. With her eyes on me I removed my clothes, dropping them carelessly on the floor before climbing onto the bed next to her.

No matter her fears or worries, she opened her arms and legs for me, accepting my heavy weight as I pressed her into the mattress. Because I’d had her in the shower my need, though strong, was manageable. So I was able to take my time, kissing all over her face and down her chin until I reached the peaks of her breasts.

I held both, looking from one to the other, always fascinated with this part of the female body. She had nice size tits for someone as little as she is, and I know I’m going to have hours of fun playing with her firm flesh.

I teased one nipple with my pointed tongue and made her squirm before moving on to the other. When I sucked her nipple into the warmth of my mouth I felt her tremble beneath me, and her arms came around me, holding me in place.

I made love to her nipples until they were hard and then made my way down her middle to the prize. Her pussy’s scent was intoxicating and I couldn’t wait to dive in again.

I lapped at her the way I’d come to learn that she likes before sinking my tongue into her soft heat. The noise I was waiting for was soon heard in the small confines of the room as she started to move beneath the onslaught of my tongue.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

Mindless, I wanted her mindless with need before I fucked her this time. The truth is, I was trying to make her as hooked as I already was. So I took my time eating her out until my chin and chest were covered with pussy juice and I felt the sting of her nails in my scalp.

"Drake? Please…." She could have no idea what those two simple words said in just that way did to me. Her need was evident in the pleading way she called out to me, but I still didn't answer the call.

Instead I pushed her legs high in the air and held them there, tongue fucking her pussy through the tight crease of her joined thighs. I tested her resistance by running one of my fingers over the tight ring of her ass and felt her whole body blush.

She didn't deny me though, and I felt my heart thunder at the thought of getting to fuck her there later. When her juices ran down to her thighs making them shine, I spread her legs and got between them, guiding my cock into her with my hips.

That clutch in my heart when my cock spread her pussy open was noteworthy. The dip in my gut when I looked down into her eyes was too. "Touch yourself for me Lizzie, please…" My voice was almost pleading because I knew I might be pushing her too far too soon. But I needed it.

I didn't look away until she moved her hand down her middle, and with her face red with embarrassment, found her clit. It was up to me to make her overcome her shyness in my bed, so I fucked into her nice and slow, heating her up to the point where she'd forget to feel awkward.

My eyes dropped to the hand she had on her pussy and I encouraged her as I sped up my thrusts, pounding into her over and over again until her fingers became a blur. "That's it, that's so hot, now taste yourself."

I damn near shot off when she lifted her fingers to her lips and sucked. I bent her double, opening her up wider to take more and pounded into her until she screeched and scratched me, drawing blood.

"Fuck, so deep." No matter how deep it wasn't deep enough. Her legs had to be hurting the way I was pressing down on them as I held them back and over her head, but I couldn't…couldn't stop. I wanted more of that sound she made, wanted to take her over completely.

She bit my chest and her legs flopped around as her pussy tightened up and she came howling. "Fuck, shit, I'm cumming. Fuuuuuuckkkkk." I emptied a boatload of cum into her and my cock was still not done.

I must've shook and shuddered over her for a good five minutes more while my cock dripped every last drop of seed deep inside her. I dropped onto her giving her my full weight, too boneless to move an inch. "I'm crushing you, I'm sorry. I'll move soon."

I caught her lips with mine and held her precious head in my hand as we both came down from what has to be the most spectacular orgasm on record. "I don't want to pull out yet." I turned onto my back, pulling her over me.

She laid with her head on my chest and her legs opened around my hips with my cock still buried deep inside her. I'd got so caught up, so lost in her, that I'd all but forgotten what had ran us in here in the first place.

We fell asleep like that, with her curled up on my chest like a kitten while I held her in place with my hands on her ass and my cock stuffed up inside her. I woke sometime during the night and took her again, putting her beneath me and fucking into her, both of us half asleep, until I drained my nuts again before falling asleep.

In the morning I nutted in her twice before we had breakfast together in her little kitchen. "I'm gonna go look at that mower now. If I can't get it to work I'll have to make a run to pick up another one."

She followed me outside and around back to the shed where I found that the old mower just needed a charge. Grabbing my portable charging station from the truck I got to work fixing it before tackling the grass.

At least I didn't have to worry about anyone seeing me here cutting her back and front lawn because it's my job. So I took my time and did it right, with the feel of her eyes on me from the back window.

It was a domesticated scene, me out riding the mower while my woman looked out at me every once in a while. And when she came out not long after with a cup of coffee, which she passed to me with a blush on her cheeks, I felt like I could do this time and again. It just felt right.

"Did you know you have a garden back there?" With the grass cut it was obvious to see the outline and the few rose bushes someone had planted against the wooden fence that ran along one side of the backyard.

"I know, I've been meaning to get to it but the grass…snakes." She shuddered at the word and turned back to the sink where she was cleaning my coffee cup. I couldn't help myself, I walked over and wrapped my arms around her from behind.

I can't remember the last time I'd felt this relaxed, this at peace with another human being. Even with all the obstacles facing us, I couldn't help feeling blessed that she'd walked into my life. Who would've thought when I came up with the idea for the class that it would lead to this? Life sure is strange sometimes.

"I have an idea, why don't we go buy some plants for your garden, fix it up nice?" She looks like the kind of woman who should have a garden to putter around in.

She tensed beneath my arms and looked back and up at me. "Don't freak, there're nurseries all around this place. We can ride out of town and find one." That seemed to relax her some and she smiled prettily at me.

She went to get dressed in something more than the baggy sweats she wore while I grabbed my phone to look up nurseries in the surrounding area. I couldn't believe how excited I was at such a simple thing. Something I wouldn't have imagined myself doing even a month ago.

SHE DAMN near hid on the floorboards until we drove out of town. But once we left our town behind us, she was more at ease. I held her hand as I drove and myself felt more relaxed the farther we got from town, and by the time we'd made it two towns over it was beginning to feel like a date.

We walked around holding hands, from the moment I lifted her tiny ass down from the truck. Although she wore her glasses it was easy to see the joy in her as she perused plants and talked my ear off about perennials and annuals and blah-blah-blah. I didn't have the slightest clue but her excitement was infectious and that was enough for me.

LIZ

I CAN'T BELIEVE the day we had. After buying all the plants that would fit in the back of his truck, we bought ice cream cones and walked along this little boardwalk holding hands like teenagers in love as he pointed out certain landmarks.

Because I didn't need to be afraid of being seen by someone we knew here, I was able to relax and enjoy his attention and the playful way he was with me. Anyone looking on would see a young couple out for a Saturday afternoon stroll, nothing more.

I found myself wishing for more days like this, not wanting it to end and dreading the time that it will, as it must. "Let's have dinner here before heading back." I nodded my answer as he swung our hands between us.

After leaving one small town, he'd driven us to another where we now were. This one was even farther out from ours, a good hour and a half and that band of restriction at the thought of being caught had long left my chest.

So I readily agreed to his suggestion because I didn't want the day to end. I was in danger of hyperventilating so excited was I. And when he put his arms around my shoulders and kissed the top of my head just as this group of teenage girls went by, I thought I'd melt into a puddle.

We ended up at this quaint little seafood place on the water, which he had chosen of course and the only looks we received were the smiles of welcome from the hostess before she led us to our table.

By the time our starters were delivered to the table I was relaxed back in the booth across from him, all worry and angst gone. "Did you have a good day?” His smile, so endearing, split his face as he reached across the table for my hand.

“I had a great day thank you. I can’t wait to start planting tomorrow.” We’d bought plants that were perfect for early planting with a promise to come back later in the spring for more. The reminder was a bit sobering as I had the fleeting thought that me might not be this close by then.

“What is it? Your face just went from bright to sad.” I shrugged my shoulders and kept my lips closed, not willing to put a damper on the day and the present mood. He squeezed my hand and made me look at him. “Tell me, what just happened?”

I hung my head as I gave him the answer. “I was just thinking that you may not be around next spring, or this time next year.” He didn’t answer right away so I lifted my head to see his expression.

“True, because I’ll be away at college.” He said it as if that could be the only reason, but my mind was somewhere else. In the midst of all the fun we’d had together today, I hadn’t missed the way others looked at him.

And now with the reminder that he will be going away to college in the coming months was like a wet blanket, putting a dark cloud over what had been an almost perfect day. He’s bound to meet someone his age and forget all about me.

He didn’t push, didn’t say anything more, but I could tell from the look on his face that he was thinking. For the next hour I choked down the food that I’d looked forward to trying, not tasting anything. My heart was already breaking.

“If you’re done let’s go.” Did his voice sound gruff? Was he annoyed? Did he think I was pushing him for more by my statement? I was a confused mess as we headed back to his truck, this time with his hand in the small of my back guiding me along.

At least he held my hand as he drove us back and I was so out of it that I forgot to hide when we reached the town. We hadn’t said two words in the almost two hour drive which only made me more self conscious. And by the time I put the key in the door to let us in I was already mourning the end of us.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

She had to go there. I'd been telling myself all day not to think about 'the time when.' Today had been one of the best days I'd ever spent in the company of a female I'd slept with. Usually I keep those people at arm's length lest they get the wrong idea.

But with her it was different. Behind her shy reserve I found her to be funny, bright and sweet. And just when I was beginning to enjoy this new anomaly, she had to go and throw a bucket of cold water all over me.

I didn't let on that I was a little annoyed with her, but all the way home I was giving serious thought to why I felt the way I did. Color me surprised when I realized that the reason I'm upset with her for bringing it up, is because the thought of leaving her here leaves me feeling cold.

So I was a bit distracted when we got back to her place, my mind already focused on 'the time when.' Knowing her, she was probably misreading my quiet solitude, but I had too much to think about to pacify her just then.

I sat at the kitchen table while she headed into the shower, thinking of how we'd got here so fast. My future has been pretty much mapped out since I was old enough to walk. I knew what school I was going to head off to, what my major was going to be and where I was going after it was all said and done.

Leave it to life to fuck up my program at the last minute. Sure, this is something I would've had to think about at some point, this new thing between her and I. But I was happy enough to leave it for later. Until she went and opened the door.

I stood up and started pulling my shirt off over my head as I headed for the shower. This wasn't something I could tackle in one night, her statement had posed a serious issue that deserves time and serious contemplation.

The only thing I know at this given time, is that I can't imagine not being able to see her, touch her; feel her. She jumped when I pulled the shower door open and the look in her eyes told me that she'd been crying in here all alone.

I cupped her face in my hands and looked into her eyes before pulling her in for a kiss. She melted into me, her arms going around me as fresh tears left her eyes. I felt them fall onto my lip and my gut tensed.

"Why are you crying?" This is some shit that would usually make me run for the hills, but her tears hurt me in a way I never expected. Her crying was like watching my mother or sister cry , something I was never very good at.

She shook her head and found my lips with hers again. I reached behind her and snapped off the water before lifting her in my arms and stepping out of the stall. She wrapped her arms and legs around me as I walked to the bed and took her down beneath me.

I didn't quite have the words to reassure her, not without sounding like I was just saying shit just to say it, so I showed her with my touch, what she was coming to mean to me.

Instead of the usual rush I feel when I have her naked, I felt a more tender, gentleness. My hands were more loving when they caressed her body, my lips lingered a bit longer on her supple flesh. And when I sucked her nipple between my lips and slid my fingers into her wet heat, her tears were forgotten.

I played with her until the only thing on her mind was me, and what I made her feel. I gave her my mouth until she moved against my tongue, her nails digging into my scalp. Taking her clit between my teeth I drove my fingers inside her, fucking her nice and slow until she came.

I moved up her body before she came down completely and slid my cock deep while looking into her eyes. "I'm not going to leave you, stop crying." I dried her tears with my thumbs but that only seemed to cause more to fall.

“Stop!” Now I kissed them away and wrapped my arms around her protectively, holding her close as I moved slowly in and out of her. It wasn’t long before she was clutching at me, tears forgotten as we both got lost in the moment.

Too late I remembered the condoms I’d brought in from the truck. My cock didn’t seem to want to stop throbbing and leaking inside her, so I held still, losing every last drop inside her. “You better now?” I brushed the hair back from her face and kissed her eyelids closed.

I knew I was too heavy for her much lighter frame so I rolled, putting her on top of me with her head on my chest. I got caught up listening to her breathe and she was almost asleep by the time I came to my senses.

“Let’s go get cleaned up.” I tapped her hip, kissed her forehead and she rolled off of me. In the bathroom I looked down at the old claw footed tub shaking my head because I knew my back was gonna hurt from sitting in there. It couldn’t be helped though, she seems to be a little bit needy so I’m not inclined to leave her alone.

In the bedroom I rolled her out of bed and spent a few minutes kissing her silly before lifting her and taking her to the tub. I eased into the water and sat her between my legs with my knees bent at her sides.

“Lean back.” I tugged gently on her shoulder to pull her back against me and with my arms around her and my chin on her shoulder I took her hands in mine beneath the water. “I thought you had a good day today.”

“I did.” There was a question in her voice.

“So why did you try to spoil it coming on to the end? It’s our first date, don’t you want to have only good memories?” She nodded her head but I wasn’t convinced.

“Let’s make a deal. Since it’s our first official date, we won’t discuss anything too heavy tonight. Let’s just enjoy each other. I promise you that everything is going to be okay.” I didn’t really realize how much that meant until I said it. Because she’s not clingy and obvious in her pursuit of me, and maybe more because she’s my teacher, I kinda lost sight of the fact that she’s a female.

It doesn’t seem to matter that she’s older and the one who should be in control. It appears that I truly am the one in the driver’s seat. Now I just have to answer some questions for myself before I can give her any answers.

Right now, the only thing I know is that I want her, and in these last few days, it's becoming harder and harder to picture a time after her. A time when she's no longer in my life. And right on the heels of that thought was this one. I took her virginity. Somehow that seemed to carry more weight than I would've imagined.

LIZ

I SAT STIFFLY in front of him for the first few seconds before my body, seemingly on its own accord, sunk back against him. It was very comforting having his arms around me with his lip to my ear as he nuzzled me.

He was right, this was our first date in essence and if I want it to be something I can pull out in years to come and look back on with pleasure, then I'd better put away my worries and just enjoy.

Besides, hadn't I warned myself not to be greedy? Didn't I already know, even before we started, that it wouldn't last? The thought made my stomach hurt. It hurt even more when I imagined him with one of the many girls who'd checked him out today.

"Why are you shaking, you cold?" He reached around me and turned on the water and I didn't try to correct him. His hand brushed the side of my still full breast and just that easily I felt that sweet tingle between my thighs.

I bit my lip to hide the little whimper before it escaped as I rubbed my legs together. In my mind I saw me turn boldly to him and ask him for what I wanted, but my face heated up just from my thoughts alone.

I noticed the silence after a while and turned my face slightly to watch him staring at my thighs where I was rubbing them wantonly under the water. He raised his hands and cupped my breasts with his eyes still trained there, only making me hotter.

No words passed between us, but none were needed. We just turned to each other until our mouths met and mated. One of his hands slid down my middle and I opened my legs without question, letting him in. His fingers felt hard and thick against my heated flesh and I pressed back against the hardness growing behind my back.

Just feeling his hard cock in my hand when I reached back between us made me hot and I was soon whining into his mouth. “Tell me!” I know my eyes were feverish when they looked into his, and that my breath was choppy and uneven, but I didn’t care.

“I want you.” His tongue was in my mouth before I could finish the sentence. And before I knew it, he was turning me roughly around in the water and pulling me down on him until I was full. So full.

I lost what little breath I had left when he sucked my nipple into his mouth as I rode up and down on his thick shaft. After everything we’d shared thus far I’m still amazed that anything can feel this good.

I had the fleeting thought that maybe this is why men and women lose their minds over one another, something I could never understand in the past. In that moment as I wrapped my arms around his head holding him in place as he suckled me, I couldn’t imagine not having this everyday, with him.

It’s like something came awake inside of me, something wild and untamed that had been waiting for his touch. His hands roamed across my back and down to the firm globes of my behind as he pulled me even closer to him and rocked up into me.

Water splashed over the sides of the tub as I tried to get more of him in me. “Hold on, wait, you’ll hurt yourself.” His words didn’t make any sense until I noticed the weird keening sound in the room and realized that I was the one making that sound, and I was making it as I tried to climb him, to get closer to the heat of his body.

He stood to his feet in the tub and stepped out, the movement driving his cock even deeper, hitting just the right spot, and I came. When I came back into my head he was staring at me with this look of wonder on his face.

He walked from the bathroom into the bedroom and each step was another moment of delight. The way I felt in his arms, the way he held me as if I were light as a feather, did something to me and I felt all my inhibitions drift away.

My back had barely touched the bed before I felt all his weight come down on top of me, something I’d come to love, and then he started pounding away inside me.

There is no other way to describe it. With my hands held above my head under his, and my nipple still caught between his teeth, he pounded his length into me over and over again until I stuttered and spewed gibberish into his ear.

I lost time, only coming to, to the sound of his voice. “Breathe, come on Lizzie, breathe for me.” I looked up at him questioningly, not quite understanding why he should be telling me this. I could feel him inside of me still, feel how wet I was, and knew that I must’ve came again, and passed out.

I nodded my head weakly to let him know that I was okay, but I couldn’t quite catch my breath enough to answer him. It seems that’s all the reassurance he needed because he went back to attacking my nipple with his teeth as he slid that hard length in and out of me, much slower this time.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

She's been asleep for at least half an hour, while I've been lying here awake, staring into the dark. So much had happened today that I'd all but forgotten the car that drove by the night before. Now I can't think about anything else. Well that, and the questions that were plaguing her.

There are only two things that can be done in our situation, either she comes with me when I leave, or we have a long distance relationship when I go away to college. These are things I hadn't given much thought to, but maybe I should.

A few short months ago this wasn't even on my radar, so of course I didn't have any ready answers, and either way we choose is a big step for both of us. It's obvious that she's sad at the thought of me leaving, but what does that mean?

Does it mean that she wants us to have a real relationship, not just me sneaking over here to climb into her bed? Or does she see what we share as fleeting? Something that we'd both look back on some time in the future with fond memories?

I looked at her sleeping face, trying to read her. She's so closed off that it's hard to know, but somehow I don't see her as the type to just have a casual fling, especially not with one of her students. And always in the back of my mind is the reminder that I was her first. But could I be her only?

The thought made my heart race and my pulse pick up speed. I guess that's something I'd like, knowing that no one else has ever had her, nor ever will. I pulled her in closer and tried to get comfortable but it was no use. My thoughts would not give me any peace.

"Lizzie, wake up." I nudged her awake and put her on her back beneath me, sliding into her before her eyes were even open. I know they say it's stupid to use sex as an answer for anything, but what the hell. I wasn't going to solve our dilemma in one night and it seemed like the best call.

All I know, is that right now, at this moment, the thought of never sharing this with her left me cold. The thought of some day moving on with my life and leaving her to have a life with someone else, made me feel murderous. And she paid the price.

I pulled out and put her on her hands and knees in front of me, driving my cock back home as soon as she was in position. She screeched and looked back over her shoulder at me, but I didn't let up. I've never fucked her this hard before, but she should get used to it. There're going to be times that I want her this way, like now.

I looked over at the box of forgotten condoms on the night stand and couldn't bring myself to care that I was about to cum inside her unprotected womb yet again. In fact, the idea just made me fuck into her harder as the thought of breeding her took flight in my head. Oh shit!

I flung my head back and rocked my hips harder back and forth as her pussy clamped down around my cock and I came. I came harder, deeper, longer than I ever have. And when I was done I was drained, dropping limply on the bed next to her.

I dragged her into my arms and we fell asleep like that, with my spooge drying between her thighs and her juices on my cock, air drying as it laid on my thigh.

SUNDAY WE STAYED IN, eating between bouts of love making, and whispering softly to each other. I hated to leave her at the end of the night, but I had to get ready for school the next day.

"I'll call you as soon as I get home, okay." I brushed her hair back and looked down at her. I was getting used to her eyes, but they still packed a punch. It hurt me to think that she might go back to crying once I left and I almost changed my mind, but I needed time away from her to think. The last couple of times I took her my mind had gone to a strange place.

Since I became sexually active I've been phobic about protection. I've never taken a woman without suiting up. Now here I am, not only not using protection with her, but actually being seduced by the idea of getting her pregnant. That shit would surely cause problems, but even knowing that, I can't seem to shake the idea once it was planted.

LIZ

I SAT on the side of the bed long after he was gone. My emotions were out of my control and I couldn't seem to keep my thoughts straight. The weekend had been so much more than I'd ever expected to share with him, and now I can't help but to want more.

After the initial conversation we hadn't even mentioned the future, but it's all I can think about now. Is this what it feels like to fall in love? The thought made me both afraid and excited. What if he's just out for a good time and I go and give him my heart?

But my biggest worry is that it might be too late. That I may have already given my heart, something I know will destroy me when it comes to an end. And why wouldn't it? There's nothing to say that he wanted more from this than what he already has.

I made myself crazy with my thoughts before the stickiness between my thighs ran me into the shower. It felt strange being in there alone, he'd infiltrated even here and all I could think of as I washed myself is the way his hands had felt when he did it.

I was well on the way to feeling sorry for myself when the phone rang but it all went away when I saw that it was him calling. "You doing okay?" I smiled at his question, already feeling much lighter than I had just a few seconds ago.

“Yes, I’m fine.” I tried to make my voice as firm as I could, not wanting him to know how miserable I actually was. That I was already missing him and wishing he’d come back.

“I shouldn’t have left you, I miss you already.”

I felt tears prick my eyes at his words. To know that he was feeling the same thing made the constriction around my heart ease a little bit.

“I know what you’re worried about, and I know I told you we’re not going to talk about it yet, but trust me okay. I’ll make it right.”

What does that mean? I was afraid to ask, but I wanted so badly to know. “I think my feelings for you are more than I thought they would be.” My heart knocked against my chest at his words and my throat locked off, making it hard to speak.

“Nothing to say?” He sounded different, more mature and he was already way ahead of his time. “I don’t know what to say.” So much for that firm voice.

“Have you thought about what you want, where you want this to go?”

Shouldn’t I be the one asking these questions? Somehow since we started, he’s always been the one in the driver’s seat. There’s so much I want to say to him, but my cowardice isn’t that easy to overcome.

“I’m scared.” I didn’t know I was going to say that, didn’t know that I could put what I felt into such simple words.

“Afraid of what? Being hurt, being found out?” I realized at his words that it had been some time since I gave any thought to us being caught. It was mind blowing.

“I don’t know where we’re going with this. I’m not sure what you’re thinking…”

“What about you, what do you want?” I’ve never been more afraid in my life than at that moment. He was pushing me to share a part of myself that I was in no way comfortable sharing.

“I want us.” I wished the floor would open up and swallow me whole as soon as those leading words left my lips. Now my heart raced sickeningly in my chest and I felt like I was going to throw up.

“And you think that I don’t.” It wasn’t a question but more of a statement.

“I don’t know, you have to admit this isn’t exactly orthodox, us being together.”

“What’s so unorthodox about it? We’re both of age aren’t we? And you’re not really my teacher. That class ends in another week by the way. Were you thinking that I’d just disappear?”

Yes, but I’m not going to make an even bigger fool of myself by admitting it. That it’s one of the things that has been plaguing me all weekend. Wondering if you’ll disappear from my life once the special class is over.

“Are you going to?” What is going on? Why am I saying things that I had no intent on sharing? I felt naked, exposed, open, as I awaited his answer.

“No.” I released the air that I hadn’t realized I was holding, and then the tears started.

“Are you crying? Lizzie, answer me.”

“No!” Of course I could hear the tears in my own voice.

“I’m coming back there.”

“No…” He hung up before I could tell him I was okay.

Now I feel stupid, like a clingy insecure female. But as much as I hated the feeling, I couldn’t deny the joy I felt at his response.

I got up and fixed the bed straightening the sheets that didn’t need it, fluffing the pillows and moving around the room like I didn’t know what to do with myself.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

For the first time in my life I snuck out of my house in the middle of the night. I just didn't want to answer any questions, it wasn't time for that yet. I have to get my thoughts straight first, find the right words to say, before I tackle this particular subject with my parents.

It was looking more and more like that day was coming, but I want it to be right. I know my folks, especially mom, and if I don't handle this right, it could become a thing. I'm at the point where I won't appreciate anyone saying anything negative about our relationship, not even my family.

I drove back to her place with my bag packed with the next day's clothes. I hadn't wanted to leave her in the first place, so this was good. She opened the door and I walked her in backwards, putting my hands on her as soon as I crossed the threshold.

I like the way she clung to me, the soft sigh of pleasure that escaped her when I wrapped my arms around her, and the way she threw her own arms around my neck as I walked us into the bedroom and came down on the bed with her still wrapped around me.

I always tell myself, even on the way here just now, not to jump on her as soon as I lay eyes on her. To not give her the idea that that's all she means to me. But somehow it never works. Two minutes after I walked through the door I was inside her.

“Feel better?” I was rooted balls deep inside her, her eyes were wide and clouded over with building excitement, and her pussy was doing that clench and release thing I love so much when she nodded her head yes.

My eyes dropped to her lips, which were open with wisps of air escaping. “Do you know what it means when a man can’t get enough of you?” I could’ve easily told her that she was one of the only women I’d shared this with more than once or twice, but it seemed a bit crass to voice that out loud while I was fucking her.

She didn’t answer me but her face turned red and she closed her eyes. “Open them, I want to look into them while I fuck you.” I love that she’s still such a prude. I snorted at the thought of her playing the teacher and calling me on my cussing.

That’s another thing; with her I can laugh and be myself with no worry that she’d read more into us than I mean. With her I want her to know that there’s more to us than just a casual fling that I’ll walk away from when I was done with her.

Because my thoughts were making me feel extremely tender towards her, I slowed my strokes into her, being more gentle, so that even my kiss was like a butterfly’s wings.

We moved together slowly, grinding against each other so that there was no space left between us where we were joined. I could feel her walls gyrate around my cock as if sucking me deeper into her, and her heat. Her juices were warm as they trickled down around my cock.

Her nails digging into my back told me that she wanted me to go faster, but I teased her mercilessly with even slower thrusts. Since it was too soon to give her the words she seems to need, this is the only way I have of showing her.

I can’t give her words that I can’t walk away from, won’t make a promise that I don’t keep and I can’t say those words until I’m one hundred percent sure. So I spent the rest of the night into the early morning showing her the only way I knew how.

It was full dark by the time I rolled away form her, but at least there were no more tears. And when she took the initiative and threw her arm across my chest I smiled over her head in the dark before my eyes drooped and I fell into sleep.

IN THE MORNING it felt like the most natural thing in the world to share a shower with her, where of course I took her again, before getting ready for school. She made breakfast, which we enjoyed together at the little kitchen table before it was time to go.

It was only then that her nerves began to show. Like she'd forgotten who we were in the time we'd spent together, but now it was all coming back to her. "Um, you should go first I guess."

"You're not going to pull another stunt are you? I'm not going to have to come get you later?" She shook her head but still refused to look at me. I left it for now and went out to my truck, which had been parked on the curb all night.

I didn't notice the flat until I was almost to the end of her street, and didn't think anything of it while I changed it. She drove by me when I was about done and gave me a quizzical look. I waved her off with a smile and she was gone by the time I hopped back in my truck.

I checked in with her on my first break and then again at lunch, just to make sure she was okay, but text can't really translate emotion. At least she'd gone to work this time so that was something I guess.

That night after her class I found myself in a quandary. Mom had called in between the end of my regular classes and the evening class to give me the riot act. Apparently she'd been looking for me this morning since I'd missed the whole weekend with the family, and not finding me there again had put her in a mood.

"I'll follow you home but I can't stay." I couldn't even hang around long enough to steal a kiss since we were standing in the parking lot where the others were still heading to their rides. She just nodded acceptingly and climbed into her car while I walked away.

I followed her home and waited for her to go inside and turn on the lights before heading home. I missed her already and was not too happy about leaving her, but if mom got wind of what I was really up to before I was ready to share things could get sticky.

I sat with mom after I got home and got cleaned up. I ate while she talked my ear off, wanting to know what I'd been up to since she hadn't seen me for a few days. Had it really been that long?

To hear her tell it, I'd been gone for much longer than is usual, while for me it hadn't been long enough. I'm not in the habit of lying to her, so I framed my answers very carefully. She seemed pleased enough and left me alone to go to my room under the pretense of doing homework.

As soon as the door was closed behind me I was on the phone. She answered on the second ring and I got the feeling that she'd been sitting there waiting for me to call. The image of her sitting alone in her little house was enough to break my heart and I had to force myself to stay and not rush back to her.

She was trying to sound upbeat, but surprisingly I found that I already knew her well enough to hear what she was trying so hard to hide from me. I didn't let on though, as I listened to the movement beyond my closed bedroom door.

I knew that it wouldn't be long before my parents turned in for the night, since they're early birds. And my sister won't leave her room until the next morning. She was in the middle of telling me about her day when I cut her off. "Wait up for me. I'm coming to you."

She couldn't quite hide the relief in her voice and I couldn't get to her fast enough. I played around with the idea of telling mom that I was leaving, not really comfortable with the deception, but changed my mind at the last minute.

I don't know why I noticed the car leaving her block just as I was arriving, maybe because of the drive by a few nights ago, or the fact that I'd never seen another vehicle on her street, especially at this time of night.

I brushed it off as I got out, once again parking on the curb since I didn't want her to come outside to move her car. Besides, I plan to leave early in the morning before anyone else is up.

She was waiting for me at the door and this time I had enough discipline to kiss her hello and leave it at that. "It's still early, you wanna watch TV or something?" From the look of surprise she gave me I didn't have to think too hard at what she was thinking, so I was proud of my own restraint.

We sat in the tiny living room with the TV that I was sure had come with the house and I'm pretty sure neither of us knew what the hell was on the screen. There was enough tension in the room to smother a rhino.

It wasn't long before the hand I had around her shoulders made its way down to cup her breast. That was enough to make her turn her face my way and from there it was a breeze to lower my lips to hers.

My cock was already on the rise but it felt good to just sit there and neck. "Take your shirt off." I helped her lift it off over her head and unsnapped her bra, tugging it down her arms and off. As soon as her succulent flesh was bared to my eyes, I lowered my head and took her into my mouth.

She held me against her chest with a hand behind my head as I fought with the string in the waist of the baggy slacks she wore. I shoved my hand down the front of her panties, too impatient to wait, and found her already wet.

I fingered her and sucked on her nipple until she wet my fingers with her juices. “I want you to suck my cock.” I didn’t have to see to know that she’d be blushing, but I also knew that once she’s this far gone, she’d not deny me.

I tugged my jeans down and kicked them away before removing my shirt. Then helped her off the couch and onto to the floor on her knees in front of me. I was ready to cum just from the sight of her there naked, ready to take me into her mouth.

I stroked precum from my cock as her hungry eyes followed the up and down movement of my hand and I found that shit sexy as hell; especially when she bit into her lip and whimpered.

“Come!” I held out my free hand to her, taking her head in my hand to lead her, and with my hand blocking off the rest of my cock fed her the first couple of inches.

As soon as her warm mouth wrapped around the sensitive head of my cock I was there. I had to grit my teeth and call on all my will not to embarrass myself. And it didn’t help that she’s one of those women who takes to sucking cock like she’s on a treasure hunt.

What she lacked in know how she more than made up for with exuberance. I didn’t once have to tell her to watch her teeth. She went after my cock like cock sucking was something she’d been dying to try but just hadn’t had the chance.

Her head bobbed off and on my cock picking up speed. The wetter my cock got from her mouth and my precum the easier it was for her to take more of me into her mouth, until very soon I was butting against the back of her throat. She has amazing fucking gag reflex.

“Look at me.” I lifted her chin with my finger because I wanted to see her eyes when she sucked me off. Big mistake. One look, that’s all it took to bring me to the edge. “Pull off baby, I’m about to cum.”

Her eyes did that color change thing where they looked like they were actually glowing and I got so lost in them I didn't realize that she'd brushed my hand out of the way and was now taking more of me inside.

And when she swallowed around my cock and her little hand squeezed my balls I lost it. The fact that she swallowed made me cum harder and by the time her nose was touching my groin I'd emptied my nuts down her neck.

"Fuck…me!" I stared down at the top of her head in amazement as she wasn't done with me yet. Now she was making some sort of humming sound as she cleaned me up with her tongue, still with my cock buried deep in her mouth.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

I couldn't breathe. It's like she'd sucked all the air through my cock or something, and my heart was thundering in my ears. I've heard my dad joking over the years about how mom had reeled him in.

It's a cute little PG-13 story that he's told us kids time and again. I'm pretty sure I won't be able to carry on the tradition. I can't imagine telling my kids this shit some day down the line.

"Lizzie?" She looked up at me after a few seconds had passed and it was there in her eyes. I had no words, she'd found her calling. "Where did you learn to do that?" I acknowledged the seed of jealousy that took root in my chest, but her words set me back on track.

"I didn't, it just felt natural to do it that way." I wonder if she knew her eyes were doing that glowing shit? She didn't even look like my Lizzie, but more like a sex fairy or some shit.

Her hand was still holding my cock, stroking up and down as she licked cum from the corner of her mouth and that look, fuck. If she looks at me like that everyday I'd never leave the house. And right in the midst of my lustful haze, an emotion so tender eased into my chest and circled around my heart. It was so powerful I felt tears about to gather.

I dragged her up from the floor and onto my lap with her legs straddling mine, my mouth coming down hard on hers as I held her head in my hands.

I didn’t even care that I could taste my own jizz on her tongue, it only mattered that I could hold her this close.

She was the one who lifted her ass and reached down between us for my cock that had yet to go all the way down. It was she who rubbed the fat head of my cock back and forth along her cunt slit, and she who sat on my cock until she was stuffed full.

Our lips stayed fused together as she put her hands on my shoulders and fucked herself up and down on my cock. I held her ass in my hands and helped her out when she seemed to grow tired and my cock started to harden inside her.

She could’ve done anything to me in that moment and I wouldn’t have protested, I was all the way gone. Maybe it’s petty of me, for that to be the thing that tipped me over the edge, but fuck it is what it is. I knew it was real because the whole time she was fucking me, my heart was full of her, and all the tenderness I wanted to share with her in the future.

She had no idea what was going through my head and I doubt she even noticed the way I was looking at her now, with love and reverence. Or the way my hands were gentle as they caressed her ass and up her spine and down again.

But I was watching her, every emotion that entered her eyes, every flash that crossed her face and I wondered if she too had felt what I had. It didn’t matter though, it was enough that it had happened to me, and if she’s not there yet, I have plenty of time to get her there.

She was sliding up and down my cock when I stood with her impaled on my cock and headed for the bedroom. I grabbed the remote on my way out and turned off the TV sending the whole house into darkness.

In the bedroom I sat on the bed and laid back, giving her free rein to do as she pleased. Her eyes still had that light in them when she leaned over me with her lip caught between her teeth and planted her hands on my chest.

I could see her in the mirror behind her, something I’d missed until now, and watched her ass as she moved up and down on my cock. Each time she lifted up I got a clear shot of my cock shoved up inside her and the sight made my cock jump and grow between her tight pussy walls.

I became transfixed at the sight so much so that I didn’t even realize that I’d taken her hips between my hands and was now the one pulling her on and off my cock harder, faster. Until she screamed.

The loud sound in the quiet room brought me back down and I watched in amazement as she rocked and thrashed around on top of me as she got caught up in her most massive orgasm yet. There were tears in her eyes when she flopped down on my chest.

I was struck dumb for a few seconds, all I could do was run my hands up and down her back to soothe her. I think she'd scared herself with her antics, I knew I for one had never expected to get anything like that out of my shy little China doll.

My cock was nowhere near ready to blast again so I slipped out of her, my cock slimy with her pussy cream and my own precum and pulled her up my chest until she straddled my face. my eyes were glued to her beautiful pussy when I lowered her onto my tongue.

She had nothing to hold onto since the headboard was in the other direction, but tonight seemed to be the night for surprises because when I looked up past her flat tummy, she had both her tits in her hands.

With her head flung back she pulled on her nipples as I tongue fucked her. "Wait, Drake…" I thought she was about to ask me to stop, to tell me that she'd had too much, but you could've blown me over with a feather when she turned herself around so she could take my cock back into her mouth while I ate her out.

I damn near sprained my neck trying to watch her in the mirror with her pussy in my face, but as amazing as I found the sight of her sucking me off, I wanted the taste of her more.

I opened her up, studying the bright pinkness of her newly awakened cunt hole before sticking my tongue back in her. She wiggled and cooed as she went down on my cock, taking as much as she could before choking and pulling off.

Over and over she did this as I fed her my tongue, licking her cream and my precum from her depths. When I felt her tighten up, ready to cum. I moved fast, throwing her off me and onto the bed before lining up behind her and slamming my cock deep inside her walls.

She howled and bucked, her hands fisting the sheets as she pushed her ass back to get more cock. What the hell had gotten into her tonight? That was my question; as I grabbed her hair and pulled her head back and started to slam fuck her.

I thought for sure it would've been a while before I could talk her into letting me do her like this, rough and uninhibited, but damn did she beat me to it. And the sounds, each one of them seemed designed to inflame my lust and make my cock hard as a fucking pike.

I wanted to cum deep inside her and still I didn't want to cum yet. Her pussy is good, if it can get me to want to stay in her all night and never leave her side, I'd have to call that shit Grade-A fucking prime.

"Spread your legs. Now cant your ass higher. That's it baby." I pulled her back until her knees were near the edge of the bed and I was standing, feet firmly planted on the floor.

With her hips held in my hands I piston fucked her, not showing any mercy since it was obvious she needed none. I attacked her neck with my teeth, no longer caring that I was marking her for all the world to see. She's mine, I've decided, and nothing else matters to me any more.

LIZ

I DON'T KNOW what got into me, what came over me. Before he called tonight I was feeling listless and out of sorts. After spending the whole weekend together it was as if I no longer knew how to be in my house alone.

I missed his presence in every room of the house, but nowhere more than in my bed. I felt empty without him here and when he walked through the door something inside me just opened up and accepted without reservation that I was truly joyfully having an affair with my student.

My emotions no longer felt like my own when he put his hands on me, and kneeling before him in such a wanton way, the way he guided me to give him what he wanted, that take charge attitude that I was coming to crave had just unleashed something long hidden inside.

My body felt like one big ball of desire and I never wanted it to stop. His pounding into me from behind makes me feel so full, so needy, and that itch seems to only get worst the harder her fucks me. My emotions became too much and I cried with each thrust of his cock into me as I gripped the sheets.

His teeth in my neck only added to the pressure I felt between my thighs and low in my tummy. A burning sensation that seemed to be concentrated between my thighs spread until it surrounded my heart and I felt ready to burst.

“Fuck I’m cumming again.” Those words, which should strike terror in my heart, somehow always makes my pleasure more intense. I never knew I was this big a risk taker, never knew that I’d find such intense joy in playing with fire. But each time I feel his seed burst forth inside me it’s like the best thing ever.

He shook and throbbed inside me as I felt the heat of his sperm as it shot into me, and I remembered the taste of him on my tongue. He was as surprised as I was when I pulled off of his cock and turned around quickly to take his shaft in my mouth.

I tasted him and myself on his cock as I sucked him clean. My breasts ached and that throbbing between my thighs beat like a drum as I licked along his shaft. His hand tightened in my hair and I yipped and shook my ass when he reached over my back and smacked me there.

The feel of his hand coming down on my flesh switched something on inside me and I wanted, no craved more. I shook my ass to let him know and he did it again, bringing me close to orgasm.

I made hungry sounds around his cock as he fucked in and out of my mouth and my eyes closed in pleasure when he leaned over my back and shoved his fingers inside me. Now I’m not sure which I like more, sucking his cock or having it pounding into me.

“Are you trying to make me hard again?” Even his voice sounded like a sexual entity, the timbre going straight to my clit. I felt each syllable reverberate through me, making me hotter than I already was.

“Come on and ride my cock.” He pulled out of my mouth and I moaned in frustration until he laid on his back and pulled me over him, guiding me down onto his hard cock.

As soon as my ass touched his legs I was off and running, hopping up and down on his cock like a bouncy ball. His hands came up and squeezed my aching breasts and nothing had ever felt so good.

I was no longer embarrassed by the sounds that came out of my mouth. There was something building inside me, something completely out of my control. I was so close…“Let go!” He said the words just seconds before he bit my nipple and slapped my ass and I came. Hard and loud!

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

I flung her to her back smack dab in the middle of her orgasm, dragged her legs over my shoulders and fucked her harder than I've ever fucked anyone before. She was wide open, her pussy wet and loose from my earlier pounding.

There was no resistance, nothing standing in the way of my cock taking her the way he wanted. When her nails scraped along the flesh of my back I knew it wasn't because I was causing her pain, but because she liked what I was doing to her.

When my heart and mind became one and they were both centered on her, I knew the game was up. To keep myself from spilling the words too soon I grabbed her face and covered her lips with mine. She sucked on my tongue and I came inside her again, keeping her buried beneath me until my balls had gone soft and there was nothing left.

I must've fallen asleep because the next thing I felt was her soft breath on my neck, she was fast asleep. I didn't roll away, just eased my chest off of hers, leaving my cock inside her and my hips pinning hers to the bed.

I woke up with a sore back and a hard dick the next morning so it was worth it. And started moving inside her before she was fully awake. So much for not giving her the idea that this is all I wanted from her.

I was well aware as I got ready for the day that the special class would be coming to an end soon, I think that's the reason for some of her angst. So over breakfast I tried to reassure her without going into too much detail.

Maybe I think too much, something my mom is always getting after me for. She thinks as a teen I should be more relaxed and carefree, but I've never been able to turn my mind off or make it go anywhere but where it wanted to go.

That's why I knew that telling this one not to worry wasn't going to work, that it would take time and a whole lot of effort to prove to her that I wanted her for more than just a short term fling. In the short time we've been together she'd shown me in more ways than one that her ass likes to worry.

"I think we should go away for the weekend. Somewhere near the ocean. Why don't you look for something, say the weekend after the SATs?" I chose then because it would be easier to trick my parents into thinking I just needed to get away after all the pressure and studying I've been doing.

She didn't say anything, just stared at me, but I saw the tremble in her hand when she replaced her teacup on the saucer. That little blush on her cheek was a dead giveaway too, that she was pleased with the idea.

"I wouldn't know where…why don't you choose?" She's so cute.

"Nope, you can use your spare time and find something, something you'd like. Isn't there anywhere you've always wanted to visit?" She nodded her head shyly and it struck me once again that I was the one in control.

I was also struck dumb by the change in her. From sexual siren to shy and reserved Grade school teacher. I wonder if she'll always be like this. If years down the line she'd still have these two very distinct personalities, and in wondering, found myself wanting to be around to see the answer for myself.

I guess this is how real relationships are born. When you learn the difference between something that's just a fun pastime and the real thing. And the more time I spend with her, the more evident it is to me, that she and I, what we share, is the real deal.

Again I didn't share my thoughts with her, but it was enough that I knew where my mind and heart were going. But when I kissed her goodbye a few minutes later I have no doubt that she felt some of what I feel for her.

OceanofPDF.com

LIZ

I walked on air for the rest of the day, not quite believing that this was my life, that my life had changed this drastically in the last few weeks. When I looked in the mirror this morning I'd expected to see something different, but I looked the same, though inside I was anything but.

Life has been so good these last few days that I hadn't even given much thought to Robert and the attack, something that would've rendered me immobile had it not been for Drake.

I have no doubt that it was his presence in my life that was responsible for this very drastic change in me. And his suggestion this morning over breakfast that we go away together has only served to fill my head with dreams that I dare not give into.

One part of me wants so badly to grab ahold of what he seems to be offering and run with it, while the more responsible me, the me that I've known all my life, is warning me not to expect too much.

Now I find my rational mind warring with this new me that was begging to spread her wings for once. But how can I let go so easily, after years of keeping my head down and living on the outskirts of life?

To believe that this beautiful self assured young man who has everything going for him could possibly want me for more than just a few moments of fun, seems to be a dream far out of my reach.

But for once, my self defeatist ideas didn't seem strong enough to overshadow the growing joy and hope that he'd awakened in me. And for the rest of that day I walked on air, not letting my doubtful thoughts intrude on my newfound happiness.

Even when I walked into the afterschool class later that evening, I was still on a high, and couldn't wait to see him again. I'd missed him all day, and had been nursing little telltale tingles between my thighs each time I did so much as took a step.

Everything looked new and different and I found myself finding joy in the littlest things, something I've never had before. I wore a slight blush all through class, especially when I noticed him watching me each time I picked my head up.

It felt almost naughty sitting there in a room full of people, knowing what we'd shared; our own little private secret. My heart raced when the evening was drawing to a close and I wondered if he'd follow me home.

I could barely make the walk to my car afterwards without rubbing my thighs together to squelch the ache that had only grown worse in the last hour or so. I felt a fluttering in my tummy when I heard his voice behind me as he spoke to his friends, and felt the bitter disappointment when I made it all the way to my car without him catching up.

I took a quick look back once I was seated in my car and saw him talking to the others. I'd all but forgotten that he was the quarterback of the football team and that he might want to spend time with his peers.

I tried not to feel letdown, not to feel sorry for myself and definitely not to pout. And then in the dark I saw him turn his head in my direction and I felt like a teenager with her first crush. No amount of telling myself to reel it in was working.

I started the car and pulled out of the parking lot because I had no other reason to just sit there without raising suspicion, but all the way home I checked my rearview mirror for him; he wasn't there.

I pulled into my driveway and never felt so despondent as I did when I put my key in the door and walked into the dark house alone. I dropped my bag on a chair in the kitchen and looked at the crockpot with disinterest. Now I couldn't even face a meal alone, something I've done countless times before.

I walked into the bedroom pulling off my clothes in anger only then realizing that I was indeed upset. I stood in the middle of the room trying to figure out just what kind of mood I was in. Why am I angry? It's not like he'd done anything wrong.

What did I expect anyway? I knew it wasn't going to last forever. I fumed all the way into the shower, reprimanding myself for letting my guard down and for reading too much into the weekend we'd had together.

I told myself as the water ran down over me that I wasn't going to play the fool again and get my hopes up. That I was just going to treat what we had as nothing more than casual sex, even if it killed me to do so. And then the phone rang when I stepped out of the shower and I almost broke my neck getting to it.

"Hello!" My voice sounded breathless and needy even to my own ears. And when he answered on the other end my knees gave out and I dropped onto the edge of the bed with relief.

"You made it home okay."

Why is it that even as mundane a statement as that could make me weak? Exactly what has happened to me? I didn't have the answer. All I know is that just hearing his voice was enough to make me forget everything I'd just told myself.

I wanted to ask him if he was coming over, wanted to know what he was doing. I felt like an out of control brat who wasn't getting her way, but my innate shyness wouldn't let me put the questions into words.

"Yes I'm fine." I hope I sounded assertive enough and not like the whiny, clingy person I felt like. Is this what I have to look forward to? Is this how things are going to be between us? Me sitting alone on the days and nights that he's not here, longing for the sound of his voice, or any crumb he throws my way?

"What's wrong? Your voice sounds…off." That's another thing, he seems to know me way too well for such short acquaintance.

"Did you lock up?" I looked around the room at his question before getting up to go do just that.

"Yes, everything's locked up tight."

"Good, I don't think I'll make it tonight, mom's getting kind of suspicious. But I'll stay on the phone with you until you fall asleep."

"Don't you have homework?"

"I did it in between classes Ms. Parks, no need to worry that you're corrupting me."

Who's worried? It never once entered my mind. The way things stand it seems more like the other way around. I was just as surprised at myself for voicing that thought out loud as he was. "Oh-ho, what are you accusing me of?"

The laughter in his voice eased the angst in my chest and just that easily I forgot all about my little meltdown of just a short few minutes ago. "I miss you." Where was this bravery coming from? My face was hot and I clenched my hand into a fist as I awaited his response.

It was the first time I'd stepped out on a limb, putting my feelings into such plain words. What if he laughed it off, or made light of it? I'm really no good at this relationship stuff. I felt gauche and stupid in the few seconds it took for him to answer and I promised myself not to put myself out there like that again.

"Not as much as I miss you." The wide grin almost split my face in half and as time went by I realized that I liked this just as well as I did having him here beside me. The ease with which we teased each other was something new and wonderful and had its own merit.

By the time we rung off I was back to walking on cloud nine and looking forward to what comes next. So I wasn't prepared in any way for what happened the next morning when I went to work.

I guess I should've expected that like everything else in life, this too would come to a horrible impasse, but maybe I thought I could hold onto it a little while longer.

DRAKE

"DUDE, have you seen the school's online forum yet?" Carter met me at my truck the next morning. My mind was a million miles away, wondering where she was going to choose for us to go on our weekend getaway.

I'd told mom this morning at breakfast that I was thinking of going away once the SATs were over, and just as I'd expected she hadn't batted a lash at the idea. In fact she was all for it, seeing as how I'd been studying so hard these last few months.

"No, you know I don't really have any interest in that shit."

"Well this might change your mind." He held up his phone for me to see what he was talking about and the blood ran cold in my veins.

"What the hell is that?"

"You tell me." I stared at the words on the screen and all I could think of was her and if it had reached her already. I felt sick when I turned away and headed back to my truck.

"Hey, where are you going?" I didn't answer, just opened the door and got my phone out. I knew she had to be in her first class in a few minutes but was hoping I caught her first.

She didn't answer the phone, which only sent my anxiety up a couple of notches, and then my phone rang. "Mom? What's up?"

"I just got a call from one of the PTA moms, is this true?" I closed my eyes and tried to control the nausea that was churning in my gut.

"Is what true?"

"This…this Op-ed I guess you can call it. It says here on the school forum that you're having an affair with a teacher. Is this true? This can't be true, I know all your teachers and…"

"Mom, can we talk about this later? I have something to do."

I didn't wait for a response as I hung up and drove out of the parking lot. I was headed to the Grade school when I saw her car pulling into the high school parking lot outside the principal's office. "Shit!"

What the hell was I supposed to do? I had no idea, but I knew I couldn't let her face this alone. I opened up the school forum on my phone and read the post again. I got my first clue when I saw the picture of me outside her house.

At least the reader could draw their own conclusions since there was nothing remotely salacious about the picture, but it was the words beneath it that could pose a problem if not handled well.

In short it basically implied that I was fucking her, which is true, but could not be ascertained from this picture alone. I didn't have time to think on it though, because she needed me.

An idea formed in my head as I pulled in beside her car minutes after she'd gone inside. I knew without having to be told that she wouldn't know how to handle this situation. That she might only make things worst for herself.

I bypassed the secretary and knocked on the principal's door where I could hear the soft tones of Lizzie's voice coming through. I opened the door without being told to and walked in. The principal just raised a brow at my intrusion but said nothing.

I kept my eyes from straying to Lizzie even though all I wanted to do was snatch her up and get her the hell out of there, but that would be the wrong move. "Principal Thorne, Ms. Parks, my mom just called me and told me what's going on so I figured I should come here and clear things up. I didn't know you were way ahead of me."

She opened her mouth to speak but I talked over her. "As you know principal Thorne, I have a lawn mowing company with some of the guys from the team. I offered to cut Ms. Parks' lawn as a thank you for her taking on the class. I hope I didn't cross any lines or anything."

The relief on the principal's face helped ease some of the knots in my gut and I still hadn't looked at Lizzie. Though I was hoping she had enough sense to keep quiet and let me handle this.

"So that's what's going on. I'm glad to hear it." She turned a smile Lizzie's way and I finally looked at her as well.

She was white as a sheet, her hands clasping the chair arm so tight they'd gone pale. I had to force myself to stay put and not go to her but I was pissed. I could see that she was hurting and scared and it was brought home to me in that moment that something had to give.

This is what she was afraid of, her biggest fear. And nothing hurt me more than having to turn and leave that room, leaving her sitting there all alone. I couldn't put my thoughts in order as I made my way back to my first class.

For the rest of the day I ignored the stares and whispers and outright questions, but I did tell my boys the same lie. That I'd gone to her house to cut the grass. It was during lunch break that I had time to look into the post and do some digging of my own.

I never once suspected that it was one of my friends who'd done that shit, but I couldn't for the life of me think of who it could possibly be. All it took was a run on the IP address and some backtracking to find the culprit. I can't say that I was surprised to find the source, but I was pissed at myself for not seeing it sooner and heading it off.

Now I was looking at my flat tire and the drive-by the other night in a whole new light. I wanted to call her and ask her if she knew who was behind it, if she'd figured it out yet, but she had her phone turned off as she usually does during school hours.

I wanted to hunt the fucker down and break his legs, but that was too easy. That had been my first plan the night he attacked her. I was going to have my boys run a chain on his ass to teach him a lesson. But he'd upped the ante with this shit.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

By midafternoon I had a solid plan in place and since my boys were already in my shit, it was easy to play it off like it had just come to me. I started with Carter, since he's the one I'm closest to, and it wasn't long before he spread the word.

Unbeknownst to me, I guess because I'd been so preoccupied with her, the guys had grown fond of her. She has that effect on people with her shy self. So once I told Carter the story of having to save her in the parking lot and my suspicions that it was the same asshole that'd spread the rumor on the school forum, shit took off from there.

By the time practice rolled around that evening they were out for blood. "Where does this fucker live?"

"I have no idea Drew, I never met him. The first time I saw him was that night. She's lucky I had to run to the pharmacy or who knows what would've happened to her if I hadn't come along."

It was an easy enough lie to believe and no one asked me what the fuck I was doing at the pharmacy in the first place. By the time the story took flight it was all I could do to keep them from causing mayhem. Plus I now have the added headache of them wanting to show their appreciation by cutting her grass as well. I'm gonna have to come up with some way to cut that shit off at the pass.

But my work was done. I'd got them to change the whole tone of the scandal before it became a problem for her. Now I find myself in a dilemma. How can I go to her? And how can I not now that I know this guy was hell-bent on causing her problems?

Of course she didn't show up to the field and I felt the loss, but understood. I knew she would tuck tail and hide which is understandable given the circumstances, but that didn't stop me from being pissed. Not at her, but at the situation.

I called her as soon as practice was over and I was heading to my truck. I'd missed her all damn day, was worried about her until my gut hurt, and hated that I might have to leave her alone again tonight. "Are you okay?"

She took her sweet time answering and once she did it was obvious that she'd been crying. I closed my eyes and counted to ten as I sat back in the driver's seat. "Can you trust me for a little while longer? I'll make everything okay I promise."

"How?" Her voice was small, like a kitten's.

"I can't tell you right now, I have some things to take care of first, but I promise you that everything is going to turn out okay. Lock up for me and I'll call you when I get to the house."

I didn't tell her that it was Robert that had made the post, no sense in scaring her any more than she already was, but I knew I couldn't keep it a secret forever. I didn't plan to, but first I had some stuff I had to take care of.

I drove home with a burning in my gut but my mind was clear. Things were moving faster than I would've liked through no fault of my own and the situation was about as sticky as it could get. Now it's up to me to get in front of this thing before it blows up in my face and make a liar out of me.

By the time I opened the door to my childhood home I was sure of only one thing. I can't let her suffer because of what we have. Neither of us had said the L word yet, but I know what I feel and what I hope she's coming to.

I also know that as the one who initiated this, I have a responsibility to see that she comes out of this debacle unscathed. I have no idea how much this fuck knows about us. Had he followed us on our little one-day trip? Were there more pictures? I have no answers. But I know I have to protect her by any means necessary.

Mom was waiting for me at the kitchen table when I walked in and dropped my bag. She was tapping her fingers on the table, which meant she'd been thinking about this shit all day and was ready to dig in.

“Mom, I need you to listen to me without interruption. When I’m done you can say whatever you need to, just hear me out first.” I looked around the room, “where’s dad? Maybe he should hear this as well.”

Just then I heard his footsteps coming down the stairs and from the look he threw me when he walked in the room I knew he’d already heard the details. “Where’s Jennie?

“She’s at Delia’s.”

Mom answered as dad went to the fridge for a water for him and one for me. “You want anything dear?” He tried passing his bottle to mom who ignored it as she continued to stare at me. I couldn’t tell if she was pissed or not, but she’s known for keeping a level head.

I pulled out a chair and sat, turning the cool water bottle over and over between my hands. This wasn’t as easy as I thought it was going to be. I wasn’t afraid for myself, but for her, and what they might think of her.

I knew in that moment that no matter how I word this, she’d be the one to catch the blame. Now why hadn’t I thought of that before I fucked up her life? No, I won’t accept defeat so easily? I’ll make this work, I have to, for her.

“Mom, dad, do you remember how much you used to praise me for having a good head on my shoulders? For never giving you a moment’s worry?” Mom swallowed hard and dad took a sip from his water bottle. I didn’t get an answer, didn’t expect one.

“Well I need you both to remember that I’m that same guy. That nothing has changed about me in the last month and a half. Mom, the thing you read this morning….it’s true.” Her eyes widened and she started to speak but dad took her hand and squeezed.

“Let him finish honey. Go on son.” I took a sip of my own water to wet my suddenly parched throat. No wonder she’d looked like a scared rabbit in the principal’s office this morning. This shit is harder than I thought.

“It wasn’t her doing, it was me. In fact she did everything to dissuade me, to put an end to my interest in her.” I can’t even remember if that was true but it fit with her personality, plus it would give her points in mom’s eyes at least.

“I’ve been meaning to tell you, but the time just never seemed right…”

“If this hadn’t happened, would you have told us?”

“Yes! Because this weekend I realized what she means to me and I knew I couldn’t keep it a secret for much longer.”

“She’s a great lady mom. She’s sweet and kind and…she’s not like any of the girls I’ve messed around with.” I can’t believe I just said that shit to my mother.

“Of course she’s not, she’s a grown woman…”

Once again dad stopped her with a look before turning to me to go on. “I guess I don’t expect you to understand, so all I’m gonna ask is that you don’t judge her, at least until you get to know her. That’s all I ask.”

“This is crazy. What kind of woman does this? I’ve been online all day reading about these predatory women who go after young high school boys and it never turns out well.” She had a hell of a lot more to say, each word only putting me in a much tougher position. I don’t know what I expected, maybe I fooled myself into thinking that we could keep our relationship a secret for as long as we needed to.

Now all I could do was count down the time I had left before college begins and what we were going to do in the meantime. I may have stopped the flow of gossip for now, but I don’t kid myself that it’s going to end there. Not unless I take care of Robert. But I guess I at least wanted my family to be on my side.

“Where are you going?” I hadn’t realized I’d gotten to my feet until mom’s words stopped me.

“This was my doing. Right now she’s sitting at home alone, scared and probably feeling as low as she can.” Knowing her that might not be far from the truth.

“So what, you’re going to her?”

“Yeah mom I am. I guess I expected too much.”

“Drake, you can’t just drop a bombshell like that in our laps and expect us to be happy for you.”

“You’re right, I can’t, but I’m an adult and I have to take responsibility for my actions.”

I didn’t feel anger, or regret, not even disappointment. I just knew what I needed to do. If my own mom felt this way about her, I can only imagine what everyone else in this town were going to think and feel once the word got out. I didn’t kid myself that some wouldn’t disregard the story I’d spread and draw their own conclusions. What a mess.

I ran up the stairs and took a quick shower. The growling of my stomach while getting dressed reminded me that I hadn’t eaten, but I couldn’t eat a thing now if my life depended on it. I packed a bag and headed back downstairs.

They were both still sitting where I'd left them when I walked in to tell them I was leaving. I leaned down and kissed mom on the cheek and the mere fact that she didn't pull away gave me hope. Dad just gave me one of his understanding looks and a slight nod and I gave him the 'I expect you to work on her' look back.

I called her as soon as I got into the truck then sped my way over there. There was something very freeing about not having to sneak around anymore and I wondered if maybe I'd made things worst by not coming clean with my folks from the very beginning.

But how was I to know that I'd feel this way this soon, and what's more, that that idiot would force my hand? I don't even know how she feels about this whole thing, other than that the one thing she'd been afraid of had somewhat come to pass.

She was waiting for me at the door when I drove up. "Give me your car key." I held out my hand and waited while she turned around to get it. I pulled her car out of the driveway then got back in my truck and drove it around back where it was hidden, before pulling her car back where it was.

She didn't look half as bad as I'd expected, but that shine she'd worn the last time I left her here was gone. I knew shit was serious when I was more interested in comforting her than fucking. So without another word I lifted her and headed for the sofa in the living room.

She sat curled into my lap for the first few minutes, neither of us saying a word. "I told my parents about us." She damn near flew off my lap but I held her in place with my arm around her middle. "Stay still!"

"I had to tell them. If we're going to get ahead of this thing, we need them on our side."

"What did they say?" I didn't want to lie to her, but I didn't want her to feel any worse than she already did either.

"They're going to need some time to get used to the idea, but remember what I told you. No matter what happens, I'll take care of you, you don't need to worry." I don't know if she believed me or not, but it took her a while to relax and let me hold her without stiffening up in my arms.

"Does your mom hate me? I bet she does."

"She doesn't hate you, she just… she needs time to process all this. It's my fault. I didn't give it enough thought. I figured because of the way I feel about you that she'd just be accepting. But I don't want you to worry, mom will come around, I know her."

That's the hope I'm holding onto, that the woman I know would see past the fact that Lizzie is my teacher and give me the benefit of the doubt. The fact that she didn't try to stop me from coming over here is encouraging, though I'm sure she knew she wouldn't have been able to once my mind was made up.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

We sat in the dark for a good half an hour before my stomach made its displeasure known once again, and then she did something I never expected, not this soon anyway, after the day she'd had. She grinned!

"Are you hungry Drake? Why didn't you say something earlier?"

"Did you eat?" I got to my feet and put her down as we turned for the kitchen. Now that I'd seen her my hunger was back full force and whatever was blocking my throat was long gone.

"I wasn't hungry when I got home, but now…" She trailed off as she removed a roasted chicken from the fridge. "I didn't make anything to go with it, give me a minute." She dove back into the freezer and came out with a bag of vegetables, which she threw in the microwave.

I watched her as she moved around the kitchen to make sure that she was okay and not just putting on an act for me. Though she wasn't quite back to the woman I'd come to know over the weekend, she hadn't climbed back into her shell completely either.

I played around with whether or not I should tell her what I'd found out about the forum post and since she didn't seem ready to fall apart, decided it was best I told her now rather than letting her find out some other way. Besides, she needed to know that this guy didn't seem anywhere near ready to stop his shit.

“I have something to tell you.” Her hand stopped with the fork halfway to her mouth and from the look on her face I knew what she was expecting. I pushed my chair back and reached for her, pulling her onto my lap.

“I don’t like that look, didn’t I tell you that I’d take care of you?” I squeezed her gently to let her know I was just a little peeved with her for expecting the worst from me. “Robert is the one who posted that message to the forum.”

“How…how do you know it was him?” The fear in her eyes was giving me second thoughts, but the cat was already out of the bag so there was no going back now.

“I did a little digging on the computer and traced it back to him.”

“I think you should tell the cops working your case. That, along with the text he’s been sending you…speaking of which, did you get the stuff in the mail that I ordered?” I’d all but forgotten the damn surveillance cameras. She’d already had her number changed and I guess that’s why he hadn’t been calling her and had reverted to his latest tactics.

She got up from my lap to go get the package from the little hallway table where she’d left it. “What is this thing anyway?”

“You’ll see.” I tore into the package and removed the top of the line security cameras.

“Perfect, I’ll install them now while no one is around. That way he won’t know to hide.” I was thinking about my flat tire, something I wasn’t about to tell her about until I was sure. It took me less than an hour to hook the camera up to her front and back doors before loading them onto her phone and mine.

“These have motion detectors, whenever someone comes to the door, or on the driveway it’ll chime on your phone. If I’m not here I’ll be able to hear it as well from wherever I am.” Not that I was planning on leaving her on her own anytime soon.

“Tomorrow, we should go to the police station and add this to the report. Like I told you, there are laws against this kind of thing in this state. If you’re worried about them asking about us, don’t. I have ways around that. The principal believed me didn’t she?”

She nodded her head and stared down at her phone where she could now see a perfect HD view of the outside of her house. It wasn’t much but I hoped it gave her some sense of comfort at least.

“Let’s go to bed, I’m beat.” I’m sure she expected me to jump on her as soon as her clothes were off, but I didn’t. Instead I held her close until she fell asleep while I once again stayed awake long into the night.

The more time passed the more at ease I felt with the fact that my parents at least knew the truth. I have no doubt that if I could get mom to come around to seeing things my way that everything else would fall into place. But all I can do now is wait.

My mind was already made up though. Come what may, I’m not giving her up. Just the thought of it made me sick. To imagine her hurt and alone, discarded like she meant nothing, was almost more than I could stomach.

I didn’t question the fact that she’d come to mean so much to me in just the short time we’d known each other. I didn’t have any lingering doubts in my mind. Had I felt this way before with anyone then maybe I’d see it as the same old same old, but with her everything was new, and exciting. And what’s more, I couldn’t see us not being together when I looked ahead to the future. That right there was enough for me.

I couldn’t believe how peacefully she slept in my arms, and knew that had I not been there things might’ve been different. It only made me happier with the decisions I’d made today, knowing that at least with me here, she didn’t worry as much.

I also realized not for the first time, how much smaller than me she is. My little China doll. I kissed her forehead and she sighed in her sleep, drawing closer until she was almost covering my chest. The feeling that came over me when her little fist rested against my heart more than made up for all the angst of the last few hours.

I didn’t want to fall asleep because I felt like I needed to watch over her. Not that I was afraid the asshole might show up, I half wanted him to, but because I didn’t want her to suffer from any of this in her dreams. But sometime after midnight, fatigue kicked in and I lost the fight to stay awake.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

She was up before me in the morning and once again I awakened to the sight of her amazing eyes peering up at me from her place on my chest. I'm not sure which one of us moved first. If I lowered my head or she lifted hers, but our mouths met somewhere in the middle.

She was soft and sleep warm and any good intentions I had went south when her arm brushed against my morning wood. We both wrestled her sleep shirt off over her head and all I needed was a tug to get my shorts off.

I passed my hand through her legs and though she was soft, she wasn't nearly as wet as she needed to be to take me. But she was hungry this morning and took the decision out my hand.

It was she who straddled my hips, she who reached down between us and took my cock in her soft palm and she who rubbed the leaking head of my cock along her slit before sitting on it and making that slow slide down my length until she was fully seated with her belly full of hard cock.

I put my hand behind her neck and pulled her down to me as she rode my cock nice and slow at first. There was no haste in her movements and I felt the slight tremble in her limbs as her pussy started juicing up around my cock, making the deep slide easier to make into her depths.

She moaned into my mouth when I flexed my cock inside her and it was all I could do not to turn her onto her back and take over. But it was the first time she'd taken the lead in our lovemaking, the first time she'd let me see her true need without inhibition and I reveled in it.

“Are you cumming? So soon?” She blushed at my question and her little body shook as she squeezed down around my cock and came softly. That was good but not good enough. I wanted more, I wanted her screaming.

“My turn!” Now I did roll her onto her back and pulled her legs high around my hips, opening her up wider for my thrusts. I realized once I had her under me that it was a good thing I hadn’t fucked her the night before.

There was something wild and untamed inside me for her this morning, something I hadn’t felt before, something I had no control over. I started out with deep slow strokes until her pussy opened up and let me in.

Then the pounding started and the bed banged into the wall as I fucked her like I owned her. I chewed on her neck, her tits, and anywhere I could reach while my cock pummeled into her over and over in a staccato beat that sounded in the air as my hips slapped into hers.

“Your pussy’s going to be sore, I’m sorry.” I took her lips with mine before she could answer because there really wasn’t anything to say. And the way she sucked on my tongue told me she didn’t mind one bit that I wasn’t being as careful with her as I’m used to.

This time when I felt my balls draw up to my body I made the conscious choice to cum inside her. There was no thought of ‘oh, I forgot the condom again,’ I offloaded inside her with purpose. And nothing has ever felt so good.

LIZ

I’M SUPPOSED to be afraid. In fact, last night before he called and said he was coming over I’d been heading hard for despair. So how is it that this morning I’m sharing a shower with him seemingly without a care in the world?

Where is all the angst and terror I’d been fighting off all yesterday? Could it be that his words of reassurance had done the job, or was I finally finding my footing?

He'd made it sound so easy, and the way he'd come to my rescue in the principal's office had gone a long way to showing me that he meant his words when he said he'd take care of me.

I feel like I'd faced my biggest fear and came out on top, and maybe that's the reason I was no longer as afraid as I ought to be. I didn't even mind that he'd told his parents about us. He seems to think that that was the right thing to do and I find that I trust him.

And out of everything else, for me, that's what's most important. The fact that I've finally found someone I can trust. I tried searching my mind and heart for any reason why I shouldn't, but miraculously, nothing came to mind.

So far, everything he'd said, every word he'd told me, has shown that he meant his words. He didn't have to come to me last night, in fact he could've walked away from the whole situation, could've come up with some excuse to call things off.

But instead, he'd put himself right smack dab in the middle. First with the principal and now with his parents. The fact that I hadn't heard any rumors in the hallways at school told me that he had indeed taken care of it. Maybe by telling the same lie he'd told principal Thorne. I'm not usually fond of lying, but in this instance I don't see that we had any other choice.

Until he'd shown up at the office yesterday I had no idea what I was going to do. In my mind all I could think of was that we were caught. I knew even before she'd told me on the phone that it was bad, but I had no idea how bad until I got there and she showed me what had happened.

I hadn't even given any thought to Robert, and surprisingly it never once entered my mind that it could've been Drake. I guess it had been so unexpected that I hadn't had time to process. Since I'm no good at lying, I'd been about to come clean and bear the consequences when he walked in.

Now he'd given us some time, but there was still the future to think about. From his words I get the impression that he doesn't want us to end, and neither do I for that matter. But how can we…?

"What are you thinking about Lizzie?"

"What makes you think I'm thinking about anything?" I leaned over under the pretense of returning the soap to the built in dish in the side of the shower.

He ran his finger down the crease in my forehead. "Because you always get this little crease right here when something's bothering you. I told you not to worry didn't I?" I could only nod my head as he picked up the soap again.

"Turn around." I did as I was told and stood still while he washed my back. By the time he turned me around again to wash the rest of me I was ready to melt into a puddle at his feet. And when he got down on his knees and put his mouth on me, I came in five seconds flat.

Last night he'd been warm and sweet, just holding me in his arms until I fell asleep, I needed that. But this morning there was a need burning inside me, one that hadn't been tamed by our first bout of steamy sex.

He didn't pull his tongue out after I came, but kept licking me, taking soft little nibbles of my flesh that inflamed me further. Even the way his hands gripped my hips, holding me in place, made me tingle between my thighs.

And the sounds, his growls of pleasure, sent shockwaves through me until I could barely stand on my own two feet. When he stood and fed me his tongue as he lifted my legs around his waist I didn't mind that he was essentially feeding me my own taste. It only heightened my need.

I felt the fat thickness of his cock as it slid into me, reaching that place inside where I needed him most. I held onto him for dear life as my heart threatened to race out of my chest, and in that moment, with our bodies mated together from our lips to between my thighs, I felt my heart give way completely.

"I love you." I said the words into his mouth because I couldn't not say them. The feeling was too overpoweringly strong. He pulled his head back and stared into my eyes, eyes I forced myself to keep open even though I could feel the heat of embarrassment growing on my cheeks.

I was afraid in that moment; afraid that it was too soon, that he wouldn't give those words back to me, words that I now knew I needed to hear more than I needed air. And then he pulled me into his chest with his hand on the back of my head holding me protectively against his chest and his hips started moving again.

I felt it in his arms, and in the way he surged into me. And even though I wanted the words this was good. I felt his heart, now beating twice as fast and when he pulled my head back again, lowering his lips to mine, I thought I would die at the words he whispered just before his tongue invaded my mouth. "I love you too."

I never knew what hearing those words would do to me. It was like a window or a door opening up inside me, freeing me from some force I never knew was there, holding me back. I felt the joy of his words wrap around my heart and the loving became even sweeter now that that was between us.

I wanted to say it over and over again and hear him say it back to me, but didn't want to seem gauche and immature. So I repeated them in my head with each thrusts he made into my body.

My lips grew sore from his kiss but I didn't want it to end, I never want it to end. And then he announced that he was cumming inside me again and instead of fear I felt only elation. It's like I'd lost all of my senses completely.

FOR TWO PEOPLE who should be hiding in shame or fear I have to say neither of us were acting in anyway like I'd expect. We had breakfast together in my little kitchen that somehow felt lighter and brighter this morning.

He held my hand across the table as I sipped my tea and he dug into the bacon and eggs I'd made him like a proper little housewife. I was tickled pink inside and could barely keep the stupid grin off my face.

"I'm going to the police on my lunch break. I figure tonight after class might be too late.

"Do you need me to go with you?" I shook my head no, surprised at myself and the fact that I felt no fear about taking this step.

"No, it's okay. I don't plan on being there long. I'm just going to show them the texts and that post from the forum, it shouldn't take long."

"And see about a restraining order while you're there, don't forget." I mock saluted him and he bit my finger playfully.

"You should probably get going, you're going to be late."

"Your car's blocking mine in remember?"

"Oh, well…" Why was I feeling so shy all of a sudden when I was so open and relaxed before?

He seemed to catch on and drew me into his arms for a hug and a kiss before we walked out the door, but I didn't quite understand the words he threw over his shoulder at me. “My shy little China doll.” Is that how he really sees me?

As a grown woman who’d practically raised herself, who’d pulled herself up through the muck and mire of life, those silly words shouldn’t have the power to make me weak, but they did. I’ve never felt more alluring in my life. China doll!

OceanofPDF.com

LIZ

I held onto that high all day, from the moment I left the house with him following behind me in his truck, and even during my lunch break when I headed to the police station to meet with the officer in charge of my case, who then sent me to the courthouse next door to file for the order.

It was going to take a few days before a judge would decide, but once again the officer handling my case said he didn't see any reason why it shouldn't go through. I never even knew there was a possibility that it wouldn't.

All the same, I no longer felt alone and threatened. I'm not quite sure what that's about, and I know it's not just because of Drake, though he has a lot to do with my newfound bravery. But beyond that there seems to be something coming awake inside me. A side of myself I never even knew existed.

It could be as simple as what I thought earlier, that having him come to my rescue both that night and again in the principal's office had reassured me of his commitment but there seemed to be something more at play here, something much more vital to my frame of mind.

I think it's the way he says he'll take care of me and does it. I've never had that before, never had anyone willing to stand between me, and the rest of the world. It's invigorating and freeing in a way I never knew.

What’s more astonishing is the fact that he doesn’t always say things out loud; he’s more the take action type. I get the sense that he’s the sort of guy who doesn’t make empty promises, that he’d only say what he means and would bend over backward to keep his word.

All of these things combined to make me into someone I hardly recognized in myself, which worked for the best just in case anyone had gotten wind of the little scandal Robert had tried to start. Who would believe I was guilty if they saw me so carefree and downright giddy?

No one was talking about the forum post though, so it was a good bet that it had died a quick death. And somehow I didn’t fear what Robert might come up with next. In fact, I’ve hardly given him a second thought since the whole thing happened and Drake came to my rescue.

I hadn’t told the principal about the attack, not quite ready to share, or to answer all the questions I know would follow. But I knew it wouldn’t be long before I’d have to. If only to give an answer as to why someone would do something like put the post on the forum.

I guess Robert had lost his teeth so to speak for me. Had Drake shown any fear or misgivings about the situation maybe then I would feel that lingering fear. But he’s been so take charge and sure of himself that I find it hard to hold onto the fear and insecurity that would usually dog my heels in a situation like this.

That night the class felt different. The guys were more talkative than usual, asking me more questions, some of which I was sure they knew the answers to. And when I took a quick peek at Drake, he was acting very nonchalant, as if this was a part of some scheme he’d cooked up.

With my new assertiveness I didn’t feel as awkward interacting with the boys and by the end of class it felt like a weight had been lifted from my shoulders. My phone dinged with an incoming message, which I read on my way to the car.

‘Drive slow, I’ll catch up.’ I barely kept myself from looking over my shoulder in his direction and giving us away. I felt that sweet tingle between my thighs and rushed to get into the car and sit down before my knees gave out.

DRAKE

MY PHONE RANG JUST as I got into the truck. “So, you’re not coming home again?”

“Mom, I can’t leave her, not right now. There’s something I didn’t tell you last night.” And I’m not sure I should now either because you’re going to freak out.

“What is it?”

“She has a stalker?”

“She has a what?” I told her the story from beginning to end and hoped that she’d see things my way and not go off the deep end.

“I don’t know Drake, this sounds very dangerous I think you should…

“She has no one mom, no one but me that is. Did you raise your son to be that way, to leave her alone in her time of need?” Low blow Drake.

“Oh you’re good, you’ve very, very good. I’m not saying I agree with this, but I guess I can understand.”

“That doesn’t mean I have to like it. And you need to come home at some point. Make tonight the last night you sleep away from home, at least for a little while.”

“I can’t promise you that mom. But I can promise to be careful, and I love you.” I’m a bastard I know, but I know this woman very well. Part of her issue with Lizzie isn’t just that she’s older or that she’s my teacher.

It’s the fact that her baby boy has found someone he wants to spend time with. She’s never had to share me before, as awkward as that sounds. So now it’s up to me to find the perfect balance so that the two women in my life can get along.

I never had any doubts about Lizzie getting along with anyone, but mom is a whole other story. I put my phone away and drove out of the parking lot. Tonight had gone pretty much the way I’d expected it to.

It was the first time the guys had seen her since the forum thing and I’d spent the whole day dropping little hints in their ears. They already knew about the attack in the parking lot, and they could see for themselves that she was defenseless.

What they hadn't known until I told them is that she's all alone here. So now I've got them to see her as more than just the substitute teacher who would be in and out of their lives in a matter of weeks, but as someone who needed people behind her.

Of course I don't want them hanging around her house, I made sure they knew that shit without giving anything away. I just had to remind them of what a shit storm this whole thing could've been had I not stepped in with the principal. They didn't want any part of that.

I was only slightly jealous of the new attention they were now giving her, but it couldn't be helped. I wanted as many people on her side as I could muster if this thing should go south.

And besides, as with everything else with us, I'd outgrown them in this aspect as well. My boys were still only too happy to hit up the cheers or any of the other beauties, who were into having a good time and were just a phone text away.

She hadn't gotten too far by the time I pulled up behind her and I followed her the rest of the way home. The first thing I did when we walked in was check the security cameras which I'd left taping all day. There was nothing to see there, which I expected since our phones are supposed to alert us if there's any activity, but I wasn't taking any chances.

"Um, what smells so good?" She lifted a pot roast from the cooker that she'd left cooking all day again and turned off the little rice cooker next to it. "I just have to steam some vegetables in the microwave and dinner will be ready. You have just enough time to wash up."

I twirled my eyebrows at her making her giggle and evade my hands as I made a play for her. "No, dinner will get cold. Just wash your hands at the sink, we'll shower later."

I wrapped my arms around her leaving my hands clasped together on her ass and looked down at her. "Did you have a good day?" She nodded and that light in her eyes, I could get used to seeing it there more often.

"I went to the station and made another report and I filled out the forms for the order of protection. It might take a few days though they said."

"That's fine, I'm going to be staying by your side until it's taken care of anyway so not to worry."

I also had plans with Carter and Drew which I wasn't about to share with her, not now not ever. Drew is the best when it comes to computers and I don’t mean that he types fast. That fucker can do anything with an IP address.

We hadn’t wanted to use the school’s computer just in case there was any blowback, but he should be taking care of something as we speak. And all I had to promise him was an introduction to this girl who refuses to give him the time of day. Whatever happens after is up to him.

“Let’s eat.” She took care of the vegetables while I carved the meat and put it on our plates with some of the steaming hot rice that I couldn’t believe had been cooking for hours. I have no idea how any of this works.

We kept the conversation light over dinner with me keeping a watchful eye on her. I still wasn’t sure that I could trust this easy go lucky attitude of hers, seeing as it was so vastly different from what I’d come to know of her.

But she seemed surprisingly void of any worry whatsoever, something that boggles my mind. I wonder if it has any correlation to the fact that she’d become a wild woman in bed here lately? If that had tripped something in her head? Who knows.

She did show a hint of surprised disappointment when she headed for the shower alone and I didn’t follow. But I needed that time to call Drew and see how far he’d gotten with what I’d asked him to do.

“I was just about to call you bro, this shit was way too easy.”

“You’re in?”

“What do you think? His firewall was a pussy, I had that bitch purring in less than three minutes. That’s got to be a new record don’t you think?”

“I don’t keep up with your criminal activity so I wouldn’t know.” He snort laughed on the other end before going on to tell me what else he’d done to remotely spy on Robert’s computer. Since he’d chosen this fight I’ve decided to take it to him.

A schoolyard beating wasn’t enough in my book for a man who’d terrorized a woman and then tried to destroy her career because she went to the cops. And as far as I’m concerned that could be his only reason for doing what he’d done.

So now, instead of getting my hands dirty and dragging my boys along with me, we’re gonna do him a different way. I have no doubt that someone as sick as him has shit to hide. hopefully whatever we find will be enough to put him away for a long-long time.

“You streaming through your Mac?”

“I’m not an amateur bro, I got this. I’ve already started downloading his files and shit, I’ll let you know if anything good comes up, see ya.”

He hung up and I shook my head and stripped on my way to the shower. I don’t know anyone who enjoys wading through the muck that is people’s private lives like he does.

“Uh-uh, back inside.” She was stepping out of the shower when I walked in. All wet and pink, and smelling like roses. I edged her back into the shower stall and got in with her, passing her the soap to wash me.

She ran the soap over my chest and down- down until she reached my straining cock that was already beginning to leak precum. He jumped at the touch of her hand and when she dropped the soap, taking him between both hands he came fully awake and ready for action.

I fisted her hair at the back of her head and kissed her long and hard while she played with my cock. I felt around between her thighs and found her pussy and the hole in the slit I was looking for.

She was up on her toes now, legs spread, giving me room to finger fuck her while I sucked on her tongue and she stroked precum from my aching cock. She pulled away and tugged on my cock until I moved under the water to rinse him off, then she did the most beautiful thing I’ve ever seen.

Looking up at me with heat in her eyes she licked the head of my cock before sucking it into her mouth. “Fuck!” Those damn eyes. I wanted to look down past them to her pointy nipples but they held me spellbound. And when she closed her tight lips around my cockhead my eyes crossed anyway so I couldn’t see shit.

OceanofPDF.com

LIZ

I can't believe how powerful this makes me feel, having him in my mouth, at my mercy. And the way he reacts, as if he's under my control. I felt it for the first time the other night, like a flower awakening in the sun. And after this morning when I'd felt the first stirrings of my sexual power, there's no turning back it seems.

I made love to his cock, taking it in as far as it would go before choking and taking him out until only the very tip was left, only to start all over again. He hissed and grabbed my hair when I cupped his sensitive balls in my hand while licking the tiny slit in the tip of his beautiful cock.

As I sucked him off I kept thinking of how much pleasure it gives me when it's inside me. I wondered at the wonders of life, that an appendage such as this could bring a woman to such heights. Could make me forget everything else but the feel of him moving inside me.

Pretty soon my own thoughts were making me too hot and I had to touch myself. "Open them." I hadn't realized that I'd closed my eyes until his words broke through the haze in my mind. I looked up into his eyes and felt his cock jump on my tongue and a fresh wave of salty sweet precum leaked into my mouth.

I don't know what I did. Maybe it was the fingers I was driving in and out of myself, or the way my eyes stared into his, but something made him growl and drag me up by my hair, flinging me around to face the wall.

I whimpered in need when I felt the heat of his cock brush my ass on its way to that place that was burning out of control. With my hands planted flat against the wall, I was up on my toes, my ass cocked backward the way he likes when he finally slid home.

I was moving before he was all the way inside of me, pushing back harder trying to get more of him inside me. He wrapped his hand around my throat pulling my head back to accept his tongue in my mouth as he fucked into me hard.

He caught my screams in his mouth and my head exploded as the most intense pleasure I've ever felt seemed to burst from between my thighs and spread all the way up my chest and back again.

"Faster!" I surprised myself by saying the word out loud but I no longer cared as my fingers curled against the wall and my toes did the same down below. I grunted with each powerful thrust he made into my body and felt the beginnings of the sweet soreness I'd come to love and crave.

I could hardly breathe with his tongue in my mouth but I didn't care about that either, all I cared about was the feeling inside me, the feeling I never wanted to end. I accepted the pain of having him planted firmly inside my tummy, where I could feel him poking around inside.

His hands found my breasts and squeezed and it was all finally too much. I howled with pleasure as an orgasm ripped through me, strong enough to lift me off my toes so that I was only held up by his length as it pounded in and out of me with speed.

I didn't even realize he'd turned off the water until I found myself being carried, still impaled on his monstrous cock as he held me firmly around the waist. We reached the bed and my knees had barely touched down before he was slamming into me again with more force this time.

I loved every minute of it. Loved that I could make this hot jock lose control. Me the nerdy girl who could never land a date in high school or anywhere else for that matter was being pounded by the hottest boy in school. I came just from my thoughts alone.

DRAKE

FUCK, this is insane! My cock keeps getting harder the longer I fuck her with no let up in sight. I know I must be hurting her, but fuck if I could stop myself. I tried to go slower, easier, but her pussy had a mind of its own and locked down around me, dragging me in.

Each time I slowed down she'd do something with her ass and her inner muscles to get me started again until I was damn near fucking her across the bed.

I grabbed her hair with one hand and her hip with the other to keep her from sliding off my cock, as a rush of emotion so strong ran through me. I flung my head back to clear it and just enjoyed the feel of her silky cunt walls as they massaged my cock.

She made this almost feral like sound when she came this time and tore the sheets off the bed and then my head cleared and I realized she was crying. "Shh, did I hurt you?" I leaned over to ask her but my hips were still moving, though slower this time.

She shook her head no and looked over her shoulder at me, and those eyes. I eased out of her and took her in my arms, easing my cock back inside, more gently this time. The madness was over, and all it had taken was one look in her eyes to bring me back.

I cupped her cheek in my hand and kissed her brow, before sipping away the tears that had fallen. We moved together now, slowly, our hands moving across each other's flesh like long lost lovers. "I never want this moment to end." She hugged me at my words and turned her lips up to mine.

I kept up that slow pace until I no longer could but I remembered to be careful with her as I spent my seed deep inside her womb with purpose. It seems that's my new thing now, cumming as deep inside her as I could, and hoping for something.

SHE DIDN'T COME to practice the next day and I was kind of disappointed even though I again understood. I went back home for a short while so as not go give mom any more fuel for the fire, but it didn't feel the same. Somehow it already felt like home was some place else.

Mom did her best not to start an argument and I did my best not to force Lizzie down her throat, but just as I was getting ready to leave she hit me with the stinger. "Do you really love her son?" I couldn't tell if she was setting me up for a trap or being sincere, but all I could do was be honest.

"Yes!"

"But you're so young. You have so much going for you, so much to live for." She had this sad look on her face that I hated and wanted gone. But I knew I couldn't give her what she wanted.

"I always pictured your life in my mind you and your sister's. You'd go off to college next fall, study for four or five years whichever you choose, then start taking over some of the responsibilities of the company from your father. When the time was right you'd find a nice girl from a good family and settle down."

If she only knew what I was doing with Lizzie, she'd freak. I'm sure she knows we're having sex, she knows I'm not a saint having caught me more than once to my shame. But she couldn't know that I was giving serious thought to getting Lizzie pregnant.

"Mom, nothing's going to change but the timing. I'm sorry this isn't how you saw things going, but… you wouldn't want me to lie to you right? I'm trying to do the right thing here."

"Someone I love could be in danger, I can't leave her alone. We can't make our relationship public for obvious reasons, but the bottom line is we're both adults and we should be free to do what we want as long as we're not hurting anyone."

"But that's just it. If you have to hide this relationship, how good can it be? You're young, bright and handsome, you should be going out on the weekends with girls your age, having a good time. I guess I just don't see why you feel the need to tie yourself down with someone you've only just met."

"I gotta go mom, it's already getting late. Tell dad I'll see him soon." I left before she came up with any more reasons to keep me there. It wasn't fair, and she'd have a conniption if she knew this, but the whole time I was sitting there listening to her my mind had been filled with Lizzie.

Not just worrying if she was okay, but just wanting to be with her. It's come to the point now where I can barely go the few hours it takes in school without seeing her.

I know she wouldn't want me cutting class to be with her and I'm not inclined to, but the fact that she's all I think about and being with her is all I look forward to, tells me everything I need to know.

It's like I'd suspected in the beginning. That if anyone found out about us they'd forget that I'm the golden boy. The one they all praised for having a good head on his shoulders. Right now, mom is probably back to seeing me as the four-year old snot nosed kid she used to run around after.

I felt the tension leave me as I drove to her and didn't breathe easy until I pulled into her driveway and saw the lights on in the house. She came out to move her car so I could park around back before we headed back inside together after making sure there were no undesirables lurking around.

"I'll reheat your dinner."

"You ate without me?" I teased her as I plopped down in the chair while she bustled around the kitchen.

"You were late, I thought…I thought you went home." Her voice had gone soft there at the end. She'd thought that but she hadn't called, hadn't questioned.

I wanted her to, I wanted her to know that she had that right. Something else that blew my mind. I've never been into clingy females, and in fact have made it a point to steer clear of that ilk in the past.

Now I took her hand and drew her between my spread thighs. "Why didn't you call and ask me? Did you wait for me?" She nodded her head and refused to look into my eyes. "China doll."

"What?" She picked up her head when I didn't say anything more.

"Nothing, I'm just saying you're my China doll. Next time call. In fact there won't be a next time. I should've told you I was stopping over there before coming home."

How strange that sounds, and yet it fits. It felt like home, being here with her. Like we'd stepped into a painting where everything was already set up and all that was missing were the two people to make it whole.

She makes me think the weirdest things, things that seem almost foreign to my mind. But the smile on her face when I called this place home was reward enough. I was coming to trust that lightness in her step and the almost permanent smile at the edges of her lips. I have no answers as to why the change, but I'll take it.

FOR THE REST of the week things went smoothly and we settled into a routine of sorts. There was no word from Robert and the judge had given her the restraining order only the day before which meant the cops should be passing it onto him any day now.

She was jumpy and nervous that Friday night so I took her out for a ride. I didn't tell her that Drew had found out some information about Robert, or what I planned to do with that information. I did find it odd that we could live in a town the size of ours and people could still keep certain things secret and separate from one another.

"You doing okay?" I reached for her hand and held it against me knee. She'd been unusually quiet since we got in the truck. "Are you worried about him getting the order?"

She turned towards me and her hand felt weak in mine.

"I read some things during my lunch break today. Sometimes these things don't end well. I think that's one of the reasons I was afraid to do it before. Sometimes it seems to accelerate behaviors you know."

"I get it, you think he'll come after you. But remember, I'm here, and we have the security cameras set up. Why don't you take out your phone and check, see if there's been any activity since we left?" She seemed to perk up at that and took her hand away from mine to reach for her bag.

She played around with her phone until she brought up the security screen and I saw her relax back in her seat. "Everything's fine. I know you're here, but I don't want you to get hurt either."

"Is that what you're worried about?" She ducked her head and bit into her lip.

I took her hand and raised it to my lips with a grin. I wonder what she'd say if I told her that the man she was so afraid of lived at home in his mother's basement and was the Sunday school teacher at his local church, and hadn't held down a job in five years?

"Didn't I save you from him before? What makes you think I'm afraid of him now? I know the protection order is just a piece of paper, I don't expect it to keep you safe in that way, it's just for legal purposes. If he comes near you or your home the cops can take him away."

"But I'm here for all the rest. He's never getting near you again. Now come 'ere." I'm not sure how much weight my words had, but when she slid across the seat and rested her head on my shoulder she didn’t seem as tense.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

We were back home long before midnight and I did my walkthrough to put her at ease. I didn't expect any trouble out of him, since I'd made sure he was too preoccupied with his own shit to think about coming after her right now.

For someone like him, his computer was the center of his universe. Once I had Drew disable his shit and fuck with him remotely, I knew it would keep him too busy at least for a little while. That was just the beginning of what I planned to do to him, but I didn't want her knowing any of this.

So instead I had to come up with other ways to keep her mind off of him. That's why as soon as we got in the house and I'd checked to make sure everything was okay I dragged her into the bedroom. She stood like an innocent lamb and let me pull her top off over her head before tackling her slacks.

"Now undress me." I'm amazed that she could still blush at that. Tonight I plan to push her beyond her boundaries, to see how far she's willing to go sexually. Since I plan to be the only one she ever sleeps with, I figure I shouldn't leave that shit too long.

We stood in the middle of the room once she got me undressed and I took her face in my hands and kissed her, softly at first, until I heard the hitch in her breath. She still kisses like an innocent, but I like it.

I eased her back towards the bed with our lips still fused together and didn't let go when I lowered her to the bed. She opened her legs to accept me, but I was a long way from ready to enter her.

I teased her lips before letting go and making my way down her body. I stopped at her breast and tongued her nipple before moving onto the other one. She was already starting to squirm against the sheets and my cock was leaking precum on her tummy.

I slid down until I came to the junction between her thighs and opened her up with my fingers. She has a petal pink colored pussy, unused, but not for long.

I eased my tongue out and licked her, making sure to catch her clit with the tip of my tongue. She jumped and looked down between her legs at me. "Keep looking at me like that."

She blushed but kept her eyes open, as I tasted her, going deeper each time until her juices coated my tongue. "Play with your tits." I knew how far gone she was by the haste with which she rushed to obey.

The sight of her tugging on her nipples made my cock throb and I had to grab it and stroke. I lapped up her juices and climbed up the bed and over her chest with my stiff hard cock bobbing in front of her face.

She lifted her head the few inches needed to reach and stuck out her tongue for a taste. My head went back at the sheer pleasure and because I wasn't looking she felt free to do as she pleased.

One of her hands came around my cock and she brought it to her lips, sucking me in until I hit the back of her throat before pulling me out to start all over again. I fucked slowly into her mouth as she caressed my balls, her mouth tightening and releasing with each stroke.

When my cock was as hard as it was gonna get, I pulled out of her mouth and pushed her up higher on the bed. Looking down between her spread thighs, I took my cock in hand and led it into her, not stopping until I was buried to the hilt inside her.

She closed her eyes on a sigh and moved her hips in a silent command. I fucked into her nice and slow, my eyes roaming all over her perfect body to the mounds of her tits. I lowered my head and sucked the hard nipple of one into my mouth and she lifted up off the bed to meet my thrusts.

Her moans grew louder as I picked up speed, fucking her faster and harder until we shook the bed. She grabbed onto my hips and dug her nails in as her sweet tight cunt fucked up at me with wild abandon.

I planted my hands in the bed beside her and deep stroked my cock into her belly, making her cream all over my cock. I didn't want to lower my chest to hers, didn't want to wrap my arms around her. Both those things would make me cum sooner than I wanted, and tonight I plan on keeping her up all night.

I brought her off with a hard fuck then gave her time to recuperate before pulling out and laying back on the bed. My cock stood tall and proud and I grabbed it at the base and looked into her eyes. "Suck me!"

She moved like a cat when she rolled over onto her tummy and crawled over the bed to between my legs. With her hands on my thighs, she licked up one side of my cock and down the other. After she'd cleaned her pussy nectar and my cock spit off of me she sucked the swollen head into her mouth and hummed. She's getting way too good at this.

Her nipples brushed across the hard flesh of my thighs with her sucking movements and my mouth watered for the taste of them. "Stop!" She looked at me with her mouth full of cock, like she wasn't quite ready to give up her new toy.

I pulled on her arms and brought her up over me. "Take me inside you." Her whole body went bright red when she reached between her thighs and grabbed my cock. She bit her lip in concentration as she tried to find her hole with my cockhead.

As soon as she found it, lining them up perfectly, she sat on my cock, taking me in little by little until she had almost all of me shoved up inside her. With her hands planted on my chest she moved her ass up and down, back and forth until she found her rhythm.

She'd go fast then slow again, grunting and moaning as the orgasm built inside her. I had a sneaky suspicion that I wasn't going to last as long as I'd hoped. I forgot that she's not like the others, not like anyone else, and my games wouldn't work with her.

I smacked her hip softly and she fucked herself harder, bouncing on my cock then grinding her cunt down hard. I slipped my fingers between the crack of her ass while she was distracted. I didn't even stay there long, just a sweep of my fingers across her sensitive ass hole.

She went nuts. She fucked herself hard enough to bruise and I did it again. I kept my eyes on her face as I slipped just the tip of my finger in her ass. I felt it building inside her before the scream rent the air.

Her pussy locked down on my cock harder than it ever has and she tried to break my finger off in her ass. Then her head went limp and her eyes rolled back in her head. “Shit…baby, breathe, …come on, breathe for me.”

I grabbed one of her hands and held it over my heart that I was fighting hard to calm down. “Listen to me, look at me.” She couldn’t, her eyes were glazed over. I started to count out my breaths and got her to calm down that way. But only after she’d scared ten years off my life.

“You okay?” She nodded but was huffing like a racehorse coming into the stretch.

“What was that?” She asked with a touch of wonder in her voice.

“You’re supposed to be really sensitive there, but you might be a little bit more sensitive than most. How did it feel? Did it scare you?”

She shook her head and looked down at my chest. “I liked it.” She was brave enough to look me in the eyes when she said it.

“Good, I’m glad, because I want to take you there.”

“What do you mean?”

“I want to fuck you in the ass.” Her pussy that was still wrapped around my cock started flexing again.

She started riding me slowly again and her eyes had a faraway look in them. “Do it again.” My heart raced at her words and I eased my fingertip into her ass again, waiting for the fallout.

This time she was prepared and I took my time and played in her ass, making sure not to give her too much too fast. “We should probably work on opening you up a little before I fuck you with my cock, but I can’t wait.” Not after that reaction.

She wasn’t even listening to me though; all her concentration was on the finger in her ass and the hard cock she was riding. “You like having my finger in your ass?” Her pussy tightened up again and her juices started to trickle.

“Wait until you feel my cock in there, stretching you…” Words, words get her going. She had that lost look in her eyes again and I upped the ante, pushing her once again to the edge. I pressed my thumb down on her clit, pushed a little bit more of my finger in her ass and fucked up into her with force. That did it!

She leaned into me as her body shook and her pussy sprung a leak that ran out onto my thighs, soaking the sheets beneath me. When she came this time the sounds that came out of her were damn near inhuman.

I held her close with one arm while leaving the finger of the other in her ass as I fucked her and the love and emotion that welled up inside me was unlike anything I've ever felt before. It was a heavy mix of love and lust and adoration that made my heart feel like it would burst out of my chest.

"Kiss me!" I felt like I would die if she didn't and damn near ate her lips off when our mouths came together. She came again that quickly, and her screaming orgasm set mine off. I shot off inside her, like a fucking water hose, which set her off again. I've never seen anyone cum this much, or this hard back to back.

At one point during her wild thrashing I was sure she was going to take either my finger or my cock she was fucking herself so hard. And the sounds, her moans and groans, were sweet music to my ears.

Her body was hot when I tried wrapping my arm around her again and she refused to release my finger, clenching her asshole tight around it, holding me hostage. "Let go!" I think she shook her head no.

I tried nipping her jaw with my teeth but she turned her head and swallowed my tongue. If I had any doubts before, it was obvious that she was wide open. My fingering her ass had triggered her somehow it seemed, but I needed to be sure.

I let her suck on my tongue while my cock dripped the last of his offerings inside her, holding my finger still inside her ass. "Do you have any lube here?" I knew the answer before she shook her head no.

"What do you have that I can use to oil you up to take me?" She sat back taking my cock deeper still. "I have butter." She sounded so eager I had to fight not to laugh.

"I'm not sure if that'll work."

"What about olive oil? Or coconut oil?" Her voice had grown choppy with anticipation.

"That might work." I waited for her to hop off but she just sat there, working her cunt muscles around my cock. I pulled my finger from her ass and she came out of her trance. "Go get the oil babe."

She lifted off my cock and it plopped against my stomach with a wet sound. Her eyes followed hungrily and she leaned over and sucked me into her mouth. I stared at her in shock for a few seconds but that didn't last long.

Pretty soon my hands were fisted in her hair and her head was bobbing up and down on my cock. I'm not sure which fascinated more, the way she attacked my cock, or the hungry moaning sounds she made as she cleaned my knob. I pushed another one of her boundaries because, why not?

“China doll,” I waited for her eyes to find mine, “Put your fingers inside you and feed them to me.” Her eyes went to half slits and she swallowed around my cock as her hand went down between her thighs to do my bidding.

She pulled her fingers out of her pussy and I leaned over to suck them into my mouth, licking them dry while she gobbled down more cock. “If you don’t stop I’m gonna cum in your mouth.” I guess she took that as a challenge because she put even more suction into it.

I felt my cock thump against her cheek and couldn’t believe I was this close again already, so soon. Just her wildness alone was keeping me on the edge and when she looked up at me with those eyes, her mouth full of cock, I came.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

I finally got her off my cock and she went into the kitchen to grab the oil. Now she was back to being shy but it was too late for that. She had cum stains drying between her thighs and a drop in the crease of her lips. “Come!” I held out my hand and took hers before reaching for the oil in the other one.

I patted the bed beside me and she sat looking unsure of herself for the first time since we walked through the door. “Lay back.” I helped her recline back on the bed and knelt between her thighs. The coconut oil was solid but once I put my fingers inside and scooped some out it melted fast enough.

I lathered her ass up good, making sure to rub some inside her ass with my fingertip, getting it as far in as I could. Then I slathered a healthy dose on my cock, avoiding the head because I didn’t know if this shit would burn or not.

“Come, straddle my legs with your back to my chest.” I helped her get into position over me, then held my cock straight while helping to lower her with my hand on her hip. “Easy!” She was doing that tensing up thing at the feel of my cock against her flesh.

I got just the head to plop inside before she tightened up again, locking me out. Reaching around between her thighs, I worked two fingers inside her still wet pussy and fucked her gently until her ass hole started to relax. “Take more.”

She eased her ass down on my cock and I lifted up with my hips, giving her more of my throbbing meat until she took me in inch by inch until there was at least five inside her. I wasn't expecting to get all thirteen inches inside her, but I needed to get at least another inch or two in her ass to fuck.

"Pull on your tits baby, it'll help loosen you up." With her hands on her tits and my fingers moving in and out of her, it wasn't long before her ass started opening up to let me in. "Lean forward now and put your hands on my calves."

She reached, giving me more access to her ass and I eased more of my cock inside her before pulling her back. The movement drove my cock deeper into her ass and she screeched. "You're good, it's fine." I held still, giving her time to get use to having her ass stuffed full of cock, before starting to ass fuck her.

"How does it feel?" Her head was lolling back on my shoulder and her tummy quivered as her ass adjusted to my length. "Tell me." I was looking down at her face as she breathed in and out, squeezing her ass down around my cock.

"Full, I feel full." She pressed her hand against her tummy as if she could feel me there. "I'm going to start moving now, you're gonna love it, I promise." She went back to tugging on her tits and I worked my fingers into her snatch while fucking up into her ass.

"That's it, I can feel that you like it. Your pussy keeps clenching down around my fingers. You want more?"

"Yes," she nodded, "give me more." I wrapped my free arm around her middle, holding her tight and fucked more of my cock into her.

I whispered in her ear, all the things I planned to do to her. I told her now much I loved her, how glad I was that I'd found her. I told her about the future, and the life we were going to build. All things I hadn't told her before. Her reaction was instantaneous, my words heightening her senses, and she came just that easily.

I pounded up into her ass as much as I could in this position, and when it was no longer enough I folded her body forward and got to my knees behind her. Now I had more control, could go as deep and hard as I liked.

"I'm going to fuck you hard, it might hurt a little." She grabbed ahold of the sheets and I slammed her ass hard, waiting in between each fuck to make sure that I wasn't hurting her. By the time I had almost eleven inches in her ass she had cum three times.

For a brief moment I had the thought that I couldn't believe this was happening. That I had the demure shy teacher on her knees with my cock pounding into her ass as she grunted and begged me to fuck her harder.

I found myself in a dilemma halfway between fucking her ass. I wanted in her pussy again. Wanted the feel of her sweet silk walls gyrating around my cock. I smacked her ass cheek and went after her clit again while slicing my cock into her ass. "Cum for me!"

Just my words alone were enough and she went off like a rocket, slamming her ass back hard against me until her ass met my thighs and groin. As soon as she was done cumming I pulled out of her ass and fucked into her waiting pussy in one smooth motion. Fucking priceless!

Her hips moved lightning fast and it was all I could do to keep up as my cock started shooting off inside her. I fell against her back, my breath starting to leave me as my body took over completely.

I wrapped my arms around her tight and bit into the flesh of her neck as my hips humped into hers and my cock fucked my seed into her. I felt the rubbery rough surface of her sweet spot against the head of my cock and kept after it until she lost it.

We were locked together for a few minutes while she sucked everything I had outta me until my cock gave it up. I still had to ease my length out of her tight pussy once she was done with me, and I looked down at my boy, proud as fuck that he'd held up. Little Ms. Prude is a firecracker.

I barely had enough strength to drag both of us into the shower where we stood with my back against the wall and her leaning on my chest with my arms wrapped around her to keep her on her feet. Now that the wildness was over I could let myself enjoy the tenderness I felt towards her.

The way she made my heart beat like it had come alive for the first time. I inhaled the scent of her hair as water ran down over us. "Did you fall asleep?" She got closer and cuddled, dead to the world. That shit was funny as hell.

I finished washing her up and somehow was able to take care of myself as well before lifting her out of the shower and setting her on her feet. I used one hand to hold her and another to dry her off before sitting her on the closed toilet seat to dry myself.

Back in the bedroom I laid her on the bottom of the bed and walked around trying to fix the fitted sheet back in place. She'd torn it clean off.

She was fast asleep when I pulled her up the bed beside me and held her in my arms.

“Goodnight baby.” I kissed her sleep soft mouth and rested my head against hers on the pillow before drifting off to sleep. I bet she wasn’t thinking about anything now, which is what I was after, but had got so much more.

In the morning she woke up before me and was sitting cross-legged next to my thighs looking down at me when I opened my eyes. “Morning!” I reached a hand up to cup her cheek, which she cuddled into. “What’s on your mind?” I’d come to know her so well that I knew she was thinking hard about something.

“What we did last night…” Uh-oh! I felt sure she was going to say she didn’t like it and never wanted to do it again. “Have you done that before?” Well shit, I wasn’t expecting that. I’ve never liked these conversation, never entertained them before. But somehow I knew that telling her it was none of her business wasn’t the way to go.

“Yes! You knew I wasn’t a virgin right?” I hate the look on her face, like she’d lost something. “Hey, I might have done this before but nothing has ever felt as good as when I’m with you.”

“Are you just saying that?”

“Come ‘ere.” I pulled her down onto my chest with my hand behind her head holding her in place over the beat of my heart.

“I wouldn’t say it just to say it, that’s not my style. It’s true I’ve been having sex for a while now, which in a way is good. At least to me it is.”

“What do you mean?” I took my time to put my answer into the right words. “

“They say you shouldn’t equate sex with love, but I can honestly say that with you, I don’t know how to separate the two. With you sex doesn’t feel the same, it feels like I’m sharing more with you than just the pleasure we give each other.”

“I can feel you in my heart, even now you can feel it beating, can’t you hear it? It doesn’t beat like that for anyone else, never has.” I felt the tension leave her and wondered if she’d always give herself away like that? If I’d always be able to read her moods the way I do now?

She tapped her fingers against my chest once she’d cleared stuff in her head. “Was it really better?”

“The best, you want me to show you again?” She shrieked with laugher when I turned her onto her back. That laugher turned into a moan when I slid inside her.

Needless to say, we didn’t leave the bed until hunger sent us into the kitchen to raid the fridge for leftovers. She ended up sitting in my lap as we fed each other with our fingers and of course I fucked her on the table amid the dirty dishes.

She waited until I was done cumming inside her for the umpteenth time to tell me that there was a fork sticking her in the ass the whole time. A long shared bath later and then it was back to bed on clean sheets because Ms. Prim doesn’t like wet spots.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

Sunday mid-morning we got a surprise visit. I was just coming out of the shower while she sat on the couch in the living room grading papers for the next day. This was going to be my last week in the special class and then there will be no need to see her at school.

I wasn't sure how I felt about that, sure that I was going to miss her. But we still had the nights. I was thinking about how I was going to swing staying here another week without pissing off mom when the doorbell rang.

I didn't think anything of answering the door in my sweats and a towel in my hair. I'd forgotten to check the security monitor and only remembered when I had the door open. Lucky for us, it was mom, or unlucky depending on what she was doing here.

"Drake, is she… is Ms. Parks at home?" I felt a tightening in my gut, hoping today wasn't the day my mom and I were going to have our first big falling out. "Yes she is." I stood in the doorway protectively and then I heard Elizabeth at my back.

"Come in mom." I heard Lizzie's quick intake of breath and reached behind me for her hand. I saw mom notice this and the look that came over her face did not bode well.

I really needed to go find a shirt but no way in hell was I leaving these two together. "Mrs. Davenport I…" She started to speak but mom held up her hand to stop her. "Drake, leave us alone for a couple of minutes will you son?"

“Mom…”

“It’s okay Drake, I’ll talk to your mother alone.” She squeezed my hand to let me know it was okay before dropping it and turning to lead mom into the living room.

I went into the bedroom to grab a shirt then paced the room back and forth. I didn’t hear any loud voices but that didn’t mean anything. Mom has been known to cut deep with a few words gritted between her teeth.

When a good ten minutes or so had gone by and I couldn’t take it anymore, I headed back to the living room. Mom looked up at me standing in the doorway and rolled her eyes as she got to her feet.

“Good grief boy, you’d think I was some kind of monster or something that was here to eat your girlfriend alive. Your Ms. Parks and I had a nice little talk, I think we’ve come to an understanding.”

I couldn’t read the tone of her voice so I kept my eyes on Lizzie. “Mom, what…” She waved me off and headed for the door. “She’ll tell you when I’m gone. I’ll see you at home soon.” What the heck did she mean by that?

I rushed over to Lizzie’s side as soon as the door closed behind mom. She’s another one I wasn’t reading too well this morning, or maybe the problem was with me and not them. I took her hands between mine as I sat next to her on the couch.

“Are you okay? What happened, what did she say?” I couldn’t believe the anger I felt at mom in that moment. It’s not something I’m accustomed to feeling. I’d been raised to respect her always, but in that moment, the thought that she’d been mean to someone who I knew needed love more than anything made me very-very angry.

When I moved to stand up, she grabbed my hand and shook her head. “No, don’t go, it’s not what you think. I’m just in shock I guess.”

“Why? Tell me, I’m going out of my mind. What did mom say to you?” Now she looked at me with disbelieving eyes. I had to squeeze her hand and nod to get her to open her mouth and tell me.

“She had me investigated.” Again she grabbed onto my hand so I couldn’t stand. I had a sick feeling brewing in my gut, but not once did I wonder about what mom had found. I was still focused on the fact that she’d gone that far. I should’ve expected it, but still…

“She said…she said she feels a lot better knowing the type of person I am. And that even though she doesn’t agree with us one hundred percent, she’d hold off on any more judgment.”

“Come again!” Now my heart was beating wildly for a whole other reason.

You see I know my mother. I know that if we have her on our side then come what may, she’d go to bat. Now I feel like a heel for my earlier thoughts. It’s hard being the son of an over protective mother. I wonder how much dad had to do with her change of heart.

Just then my phone rang in the bedroom and I left her long enough to answer it. Thinking it was mom I answered without checking the readout. “Drake, I expect you here for supper this evening. Bring the young lady with you.”

“Nana?” Well shit! She hung up.

How could I have forgotten about her? Her voice hadn’t given anything away but if I was afraid of mom’s reaction there are no words for how I feel about my dad’s mom, the matriarch of the family. Things could go either way.

I tried to remember that I’m her favorite person in the world, and all the things we’d done together as far back as I could remember, but right on the heels of that I started thinking about how much liquid cash I had in the bank.

Once I reassured myself that between stocks and savings I had about enough to float for a year and some, I was able to breathe easy again. Now I have to go back and tell her that we’d be driving across town later to see my grandma. Twice in one day might just be too much for her to deal with.

“Lizzie, that was my grandmother, my dad’s mom, she wants us to come to supper later.” She just nodded her head and I went to sit next to her and take her into my arms.

“It’s okay, we don’t have to if you don’t want to.” I felt sick even saying the words, knowing the shit storm that would ensue if I even thought of cancelling.

“No, it’s okay. After meeting your mom I’m not as scared as I was before. She had very valid questions Drake. Questions I would imagine anyone in her position would ask. She didn’t attack or accuse, I guess because she had most of the answers already before she came here. I never thought I’d be grateful for my messed up childhood.”

She gave me a shaky smile, but I didn’t know what she was talking about. “What do you mean?” She shrugged her shoulders and dropped back against the couch.

“Whoever your mom hired was very good he got all the answers. She knows everything.”

“She knows about my parents dying, my time with my aunt and cousins, how I did in school, what I’ve been doing in the last five years since I left high school and went off to college before moving here, everything. I didn’t know it was possible to go digging into someone’s life that thoroughly.”

“She found out things about me that I didn’t even know, like the fact that the neighbors didn’t like the way my aunt and her kids treated me. Or that my mom’s friend had been worried about me ever since I moved away. I never knew so many people were in my corner.” I wiped the tears I was sure she didn’t know were falling from her eyes and pulled her into me.

“Of course you had people in your corner baby, who wouldn’t want to love and protect you? You’re my China doll remember.” She clung to me, her hand fisted in my shirt and I felt all the knots ease. Now if I could just figure out which side of the fence nana was on my life would be set.

I was tempted to drag her back to bed to work off the angst I was feeling, but she had work to do and so did I. Mom’s parting shot about seeing me home later seemed to infer that I would be leaving her here alone, which is something I’m still not prepared to do, not even to keep the peace.

Mom’s hang-ups were one thing, but putting her in danger was something else entirely. I needed to have the Robert situation taken care of before I’d feel comfortable doing that.

I can’t forget, even though I’d learned that he was nothing more than a bottom feeding asshole, that he’d had the gumption to attack her once already.

So there’s no way I’m going to sleep on this guy. The security cameras helped to ease some of my worry, but not enough for me to leave her all the way over here on her own. While she was doing her thing I hid out in the bathroom and called Drew for an update.

“You want this shit done right or fast?”

“Preferably both.”

“Nah bro, I’m sifting through the information now and we got some good stuff, but most of it would probably get him a slap on the wrist. We want the hardcore shit that’ll see him doing time.”

“True, but what have you got so far? Give me something.”

“Well, so far from what I can see, he’s done this before. There’re tons of pictures of women, taken when they were obviously not posing for the camera. Those he can easily explain away I guess, but I’m now getting to the good stuff, the shit he had hidden behind a more sophisticated firewall the bastard.”

“What, you can’t get behind it?” He sucked his teeth and made me grin.

“You’re talking to the master; now let me go do my thing. I’m still studying for the SATs while handling your shit you know. We’re not all nerds like you.”

“Piss off!” I hung up the phone feeling a little bit better and went to find something to do to kill time.

An hour before it was time to leave I finally couldn’t take it anymore. Somehow the worry about how things might go turned into one massive boner, which I had to get rid of before we left the house.

That’s how she found herself on her hands and knees in the middle of the living room floor with papers scattered all around, her ass in the air and her pussy stuffed full of cock. There was no finesse in this fuck, just pure lust and heat, which she didn’t complain about and seemed to enjoy.

A quick shower later and it was time to head out. It was in her car, which we drove because I didn’t want to go through the trouble of moving my truck that I realized I was more nervous than she was. I’m not sure where she got this new resolve of hers from, but I wish she’d share some with me. I was a wreck.

She’d told me pretty much everything mom had said, but I still wasn’t sure that we were completely out of the woods yet. And now with nana sending out the call it felt like we were walking into the unknown.

Everyone knows nana has the final say. And I found myself for the second time that day, hoping today wasn’t the day I disappointed my family. Because my mind was already made up, if push comes to shove, China doll wins.

And even though the thought made me feel like a selfish ungrateful piece of shit, when held up against her being alone and in danger the way she was when we first met, it didn’t stand a chance.

“You’re not at all nervous?” I finally took my eyes off the road to look at her. Sure she was quiet, but that’s her norm, I needed to know what was going on inside her head.

“I’m terrified.” Gutted!

I almost pulled over but she stopped me. “No don’t stop. I guess it’s normal to feel this way. Imagine if you were going home to meet the parents of your girlfriend for the first time, it would probably be the same.”

I didn’t correct her since that shit had never happened and I didn’t have the first clue. But I tried to imagine it and I guess she was right. Still, my family can be a bit invasive, especially when it comes to their golden son. I never hated that shit more than I did at this moment.

OceanofPDF.com

LIZ

~

I could tell that he was wound too tight and was trying my very best to ease the situation. Ignoring the knots in my own stomach, I tried to put my brave face on. Of course I'd have rather stayed at home with the sheets pulled over my head, but I've learned in the last few weeks that life doesn't work that way.

There was something liberating about being with him and getting over that first hurdle, something I don't yet quite understand. But I know I don't ever want to go back to the way things were. I'm sure I'll always have a bit of shyness about me, that can't be helped. But I am no longer willing to live in a shell.

It could be his reaction to my eyes, the way he'd got me to see them as something other than what I once believed them to be. He's never once made me feel like they were something to be ashamed of, to keep hidden.

In fact he seems crazy about them and since most of the time he's begging me to let him see them he's buried inside me, it's hard to miss his true reaction. Such a simple thing, but it has such a profound influence on my mind and my self-esteem, something I'd been sorely lacking before.

We pulled up to the monstrosity of a house that was his grandparents' and I felt my nerves come back tenfold, but for him, I kept them well hidden. He didn't have to tell me that disregarding my little one on one with his mom, this was the deal breaker. His reaction earlier had given that away.

But the way he tried to shield me gave me the strength to put one foot in front of the other when he helped me out of the car and led me to the front door with his hand in the small of my back. A butler opened the door and I knew I was in way over my head.

DRAKE

SHE'S SHAKING; I can feel it under my hand, but it's too late to turn back now. "Hi Alfred, how's it going?" I said those words out loud before leaning in for the real scoop. "What's it look like in there?"

"It'll be fine young master, the missus has ordered her best China be used."

I pulled back in surprise. "Really?" It could still be a setup but everyone knows nana's two hundred year old China is only used for special occasions. Not to be confused with the other collector's items she eats off of when the mood strikes, this set is legit from the Qing dynasty.

I felt a little more at ease when we walked into the family room and there were no pitchforks, no one was staring at us like we were outcast and my sister was smiling.

Jennie at least would've had her mad face on if something was up. She hates the elders sticking their noses in our shit, which she bears the brunt of more so than I.

"Hello everyone." I remembered to walk over and kiss nana's cheek and take her hand. Talk about jealous territorial females, mom has nothing on this one. I'm not stupid; I didn't gain the reputation I have for nothing.

I know to win this game I have to play to the women in my family, but I have to show them at the same time that she's now counted among that number as well while keeping the proper balance. I got flop sweat in five seconds flat, damn.

The conversation started out nice enough, there was the usual getting to know you questions and everyone was on their best behavior. I tried not to appear like I was standing guard over her, making it seem like she was fine on her own, but each time someone directed a question her way, I was on edge and it showed.

“Well, I can see why my grandson has fallen for you.” This from nana, and totally out of left field. Last thing I heard they were discussing something about world politics or some such crap. I felt like a deer caught in headlights. “Uh, nana…”

“Quiet, this doesn’t concern you.” I beg to differ, but I kept my lips sealed. Lizzie was looking down at her folded hands in her lap, the white of her fingers giving away the fact that she was gripping them too hard.

And then nana broke out the old picture albums and invited her to sit next to her. At dad’s secret nod I released the pent up breath I’d been holding and wondered what the hell I’d missed. I didn’t have long to think about that though, not once nana broke out the naked pictures of me when I was two.

The next half an hour before supper was served was spent at my expense. Every misdeed every tantrum was retold with relish until I wanted to crawl under a rock. But at the end of the day I much preferred this, to her being raked over the coals for being in love with her student.

I don’t know why I’d doubted nana in the first place; she’s always been the most forward thinking in the family. But when she pulled me aside later when it was time to leave and told me that as long as I was happy she saw no reason why we shouldn’t be together, I knew we were out of the deep end.

“Remember though, this is a small town and not everyone is going to be as kind. You make sure and take care of that girl she’s had enough on her plate as it is. I know I don’t have to tell you not to play with her feelings. If it gets to the point where one of you wants more than the other is willing to give, be honest and handle her with care.”

“I know what you’re saying nana but it’s not going to come to that. I’m going to marry her one day.”

“You sure about that?”

‘The only thing I’m not sure of is when. Should I wait until I finish college, or should I just get it over with now?”

“Don’t let her hear you say that, no woman wants her wedding spoken of in those terms. Get it over with indeed.” If that was the only issue she had then I’d say we’re straight. Just then Lizzie, who’d been talking to my sister met us in the foyer.

“Well now Lizzie, you be sure to come and see me anytime, you don’t have to wait for my grandson to come see me.” She actually took her hand and patted it and I couldn’t believe how easy this whole thing had gone. I was dying to ask dad what had been the turning point, but there hadn’t been time, later.

“That wasn’t so bad was it?” I had to ask because maybe I’d missed something. There could’ve been undercurrents that had gone completely over my head that she’d picked up on. But from the smile that broke out across her face I’m thinking I’d read the situation right.

“Can I be honest? I was scared out of my mind until we got there, in fact, until your nana broke out the family albums I was on tenterhooks. I’ve heard stories before but I never knew that that was a real thing.”

Because of the way her eyes lit up and the fact that she was damn near bouncing around in her seat I was able to let go of any lingering doubts. I felt the way you do when you’re coming down from a huge emotional buildup that never manifested. I imagined the worst, only to have the best outcome, even better than I could’ve hoped for. Because all I wanted for her was to be accepted without reservation.

Now if I could just date her without putting her job in jeopardy that would be awesome, but I already had some ideas about that. When I think about going away to college the thought of leaving her behind is getting more and more difficult to take.

Starting next week I’m going to start doing some serious thinking about our situation and ways of getting around that. I’m well aware that I might be taking advantage of her innocent nature, but if that’s what it takes to get her to do things my way, just this once of course, then so be it.

It’s no longer just the idea of leaving her here alone at the mercy of people like Robert, it’s become so much more than that, than just my need to protect her. Now it’s become damn near imperative that I keep her with me. That I have her by my side every day the way she has been this last week.

I know what mom would say, that I shouldn’t make this decision so rashly, that it could be the newness of us, the raw excitement, but then she’d be forgetting who I am again, who I’ve always been. The golden boy with a good head on his shoulders, who’s always done the right thing.

That night our loving was softer, gentler. We said more to each other while I was fucking in and out of her than at any other time when I was taking her. I kept coaxing her into telling me how she felt, the words ‘I love you’ making my cock harder inside her each time she said them.

There was a new sense of freedom in the way she moved, more ease when she reached for me. “You want me to fuck your ass again?” Her pussy clenched and juiced around my cock at my words. So I asked her again while fucking my whole length into her in one long drawn out stroke.

“Yes, please.” She tightened her arms around my neck and pushed her pussy harder along my cock, her ass picking up speed as she fucked herself harder and harder.

“You want me to cum inside you first? Huh?” She nodded and I bit her ear before slamming her back down on the bed, crushing her tiny frame beneath me as I pounded out my lust in her.

I came on a long groan and pulled her head back roughly so I could feed on her lips. My hips kept moving back and forth as I drained my balls out inside her. She was doing her best to get her arms and legs around me, trying to keep my cock buried to the hilt in her womb.

I finally pulled out and reached over to the nightstand for the lube I’d bought on the way home. Kneeling between her spread thighs I pushed her legs back and over her head.

Nosing the nozzle of the tube up her ass hole I squeezed a healthy amount inside before generously oiling my fingers and easing them into her ass and around the tightly puckered hole.

I turned my attention to my cock next and oiled it up too, before taking her legs below the knees, holding them close to her ears, pushing her ass into the perfect position to fuck. My eyes went to her perfect pussy that was winking up at me and I dipped my cockhead into her before pulling out and going after her ass.

I watched my cock bend as it made its way inside her tight pink ass hole, until I got the thickest part of my shaft past her sphincter and into her bowels. Her body gave way and let me in, accepting my whole length in her ass in this position.

“Touch yourself, play with your pussy.” My eyes stayed glued to her fingers as they flew over her sensitive flesh. “You’re taking my cock so easy now, look at that.” She tried looking down between her thighs, past the hand she had buried inside her cunt.

I didn’t last long in her tight ass, not that I expected to, and we spent the last ten minutes kissing each other voraciously until my cock plopped out of her ass once it went down. All in all it was a perfect end to a perfect week spent living together for the first time.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

It's Friday, another week had gone by without much drama. A week in which I'd spent my time going back and forth between my family home and her place. I'd found what I think is the perfect middle ground. On the nights I have practice I go straight home to her when I'm done, because practice ends later than her class.

On the nights I have her class I follow her home before going to spend some time with mom, but each night I come back to her, not ready to leave her to sleep alone. Drew was being very hush-hush about what he was doing now, but I knew he'd tell me if he sensed any danger.

So for the past week we've spent every free moment together, getting to know each other better and falling deeper and deeper in love. With each new day I found something else to love about her, not least of all the fact that she loved having me in control, and not just in bed.

For the first time I didn't mind that she was needy, needy and clingy. In fact I loved that about her, where I'd sneered at it in others. With her it wasn't an act, and so somehow she was the one to bring out that side of me, the side that wants to be a man to his woman in every way.

I love it when she looks at me for the answer, and I also love that she's smart as fuck, like Mensa level smart. She's an amazing mix of genius and innocent, a mix that I find harder and harder to resist the more time we spend together.

It’s like the more I get to know her, the more I want. Now more than ever the thought of spending any length of time away from her leaves me with knots in my stomach and a pounding headache between my eyes.

Now I’m looking at her from behind my desk in her class with a little pout, because tonight had been our last class together. Even though I knew I was still going to see her, this was a big part of us, of how we’d come to each other and I was going to miss it.

I’d talked the guys into throwing her a little party, a surprise that made her pink up and hide her face in her hands. I don’t think she’d had any real idea how the guys thought of her until that moment. But now the party was coming to an end.

I got up from my seat where I’d been sitting watching the others fawn all over her. I didn’t feel any real jealousy, these were my boys after all, but there was a thing, a slight zing that told me my hackles were about to rise.

For some reason that feeling sent some kind of message to my dick and he was almost full hard by the time the party was wrapping up. “You guys go ahead, I’ll stay back and help teach clean up.” I waved off the others and picked up a trash bag to start the clean up.

As soon as the coast was clear I dropped the bag and walked over to her, pinning her against the desk. “Drake, what if someone comes…” She looked around me at the open door.

“They’re all gone.” I pressed my hard cock against her middle and watched her nostrils flare.

“No one is going to be here for at least another three hours; I know, I checked. The cleaning crew never makes their way over to this side of the building until well into the night.” I kissed her to quell her protest and to make her hot enough to let me fuck.

“But the door…”

“I’ll close it if you want. We can even turn off the lights if that would make you feel better.” I dove back into her lips again until she was breathless before leaving her to go take care of the door and the lights.

“Open your blouse, I want to see your tits.” There was only one light on in the far corner, adding a soft glow to the moonlight that shone through the windows. Other than that the rest of the room was in darkness.

She pulled her blouse open as I pushed her skirt up around her hips. “You bad, bad girl, where’re your panties?” I ran my fingers over her pussy and she hissed, pushing her cunt into my hand. “I took them off between classes, they were too wet from this morning.”

“You mean this morning when I took you before you left for work and refused to let you get cleaned up?” I love using words to get her worked up, we have the best fucks then I’ve found, and tonight I was ready to push her one more step beyond her limits.

‘Take out my cock. He wants you.” I whispered the words in her ear before nipping it and felt her hands between us fighting the snap of my jeans before pushing them down around my hips. I eased back and let her wrestle me out of my jeans.

I let them fall around my ankles and left them there as I lowered my head to her cleavage, leaving a mark there. “I’m going to eat your pussy on your desk, lean back on your elbows.” She hurried into position and I got down on my knees, spreading her open for my tongue.

I licked her pussy then moved down to her ass, running my tongue over her pink rosebud before sending my tongue back up her slit to her clit. I teased her back and forth while stroking my cock until I felt her juices begin to flow.

Getting to my knees I pushed my cock into her and pulled her up from the desk. I pushed her bra out of the way so I could suck on her nipples. “I’m not going to undress you all the way. I want you to imagine someone coming to the door, imagine the haste of getting dressed just before the door opens.”

Her pussy twitched! “Imagine they can hear what we’re doing in here.” I fucked into her hard and her breath hitched. ‘They can’t see us, they have no idea who we are, but they know what we’re doing.” She moved faster.

“Or do you want them to know? Do you want them to watch, to see you getting fucked on the desk in front of your classroom?” I had to cover her mouth with mine to swallow her screams.

“You naughty girl, you like that. Can you hear the footsteps? They’re almost here, they can hear my cock pounding into you, now they’re trying to figure out what it is that they’re hearing.” With each word her pussy juiced harder. “Now they’re calling their friends, they want to share, but they can’t get through the door, they can only listen and wonder who we are.”

I left off whispering in her ear and made my way down to her tits, mauling her in my heat, my words having inflamed me as well. I looked down between us at the sight she made. Her blouse opened, her skirt up around her middle, legs spread and her pussy full of hard stiff cock.

“Why didn’t we do this before huh? From now on you’re not allowed to teach anyone over the age of six.” I don’t know where those words came from I just knew that I’d never look at her and a classroom the same way again.

“Tell me you heard me, that you understand.”

“I understand.” She was looking down between us, with her hand on my neck and her hips lifting off the desk to meet mine. The desk was wet with her juices, her skirt was a wrinkled mess from my hands and I think she lost a few buttons from her blouse.

Her neck and tits were covered in love bites and her pussy was making sloppy sounds she was so wet. “I want to fuck your ass but I didn’t bring the lube. I’ll take you there when we get home.” She yipped and rode my cock harder. “You cumming again? I want you to cum in my mouth.”

I pulled out and got down on my knees, dragging her ass to the edge of the desk and clamping my mouth down over her cunt, my tongue diving in. Her arms gave out and she dropped back on the desk as her legs went around my head trapping me in her hot cunt with my tongue stuck all the way inside her.

By the time she was through cumming I was almost out of air. But that didn’t stop me from getting to my feet and driving back into her until my cock bottomed out inside her. A swath of moonlight slashed across her chest, highlighting the pearly whiteness of her flesh and drawing my eyes to her pert nipples, as they stood proud.

I leaned over to suck one between my teeth and she wrapped her legs around me, pulling me into her deeper as she ground her pussy along my cock in a constant state of orgasm. That was enough to send me over the edge, and I emptied inside her with a soft groan.

Five minutes later the lights were back on, the door open and we were finishing the clean up like nothing happened. We walked out of the classroom going to our individual rides like two strangers. No one watching would guess that two seconds ago I’d whispered in her ear how I was going to fuck her ass raw when we got home.

LIZ

I CAN'T BELIEVE we just did that. Even as I drove through the deserted streets to home I could feel his seed seeping out of me. I squeezed my thighs together and tried to regulate my breathing when my pulse started to race as I remembered all that we'd done.

I don't know what it is, but when he talks to me the way he did tonight, I lose myself. All my inhibitions fly out the window and I don't care about anything but the way I'm feeling in the moment. I think I've become obsessed, not with sex, but with sex with him, only him.

I crave him when he's not there, and find myself barely getting through my days until I see him again. I know the danger, have even tried warning myself that I was going to get burned if I keep this up, but nothing can dissuade me. I'm at the point where I think I'd die if I couldn't have him. And when he does the things he did tonight it just makes it all the harder for me to regroup.

I waited for him to pull his truck around back before pulling into the driveway and we walked in together. I didn't even feel hunger, didn't give a thought to the work I'd brought home with me, all that was on my mind was the promise he made before we left the classroom.

I could already feel my body getting ready to accept him; could already feel the burn of having him in my ass and had to stop and rub my legs together to ease the ache. "Shower!" His voice sounded about how I felt. Gruff, heated and filled with need.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

I helped her out of her clothes and hustled her into the shower. It used to be I was afraid to give her the wrong idea, of making her think I was just here for sex, but in the last week I've come to realize to my absolute delight of course, that I needn't have bothered.

I know that look in her eye, had seen the way she swerved out of her lane a time or two on the way home and had a pretty good idea what was going on with her. All I have to do these days is mention my dick getting anywhere near her tight little ass and she goes into a trance.

"Open!" I bent at the waist so I could wash between her thighs and a river of cum leaked out of her when she spread for me. I gave her my fingers because she was breathing like her heart was about to expire and that satisfied her long enough for me to clean myself up and get us both out of the shower.

"You hungry?" I was fucking with her, sort of. She rubbed her knees together and looked at me with the most pitiful hangdog look on her face. I hid my smirk and turned her around, and with a smack on her ass sent her on her way.

"Go on to the bedroom I'm coming." I had to get things ready before I joined her, mainly a wet cloth and a new tube of lube. She'd gone through one already because her ass takes a lot in order for me to fit.

Her eyes went straight to my swinging cock when I walked into the room minutes later, her mouth slightly open and that dazed look on her face.

She did everything but drool when I knelt on the bed next to her.

I pulled two pillows down and placed them in the middle of the bed before helping her up and putting her on her tummy with the pillows stuffed under her. Her pink pussy winked at me through her thighs and I couldn't resist leaning over for a taste.

I dipped my tongue inside her and my heart raced because I was about to try something new, something that I wasn't sure she'd like but I was dying to try. Pulling my tongue out of her cunt, I dipped the tip into her tight little ass hole and waited.

She tensed up and gripped the sheets but didn't complain so I did it again, rimming her ass hole with my tongue before dipping back into her slit. I spent a good ten minutes eating her out and rimming her ass before she soaked the pillow and I knew we'd found a winner.

I got to my knees and grabbed the lube I'd thrown on the bed. She hissed at the feel of the cold lube when I squeezed it directly into her ass before rubbing some all along the crease. Then I slathered up my cock down to my balls and got into position behind her.

"Reach back and spread your ass open for me baby." She did as she was told, her hands spreading her tight ass open until I could see just inside her. I nosed my cock up to her opening and spread her wider with the fat swollen head until it popped in.

Holding still I let her get used to the feel before feeding her some more, fucking into her inch by inch until my pelvis touched her ass. "Fuck yeah!" Her ass is just as tight as her pussy and I have yet to decide which makes her cum harder. A hard cock up her ass or when I ream out her pussy.

"Rub your clit against the pillow baby, that's it." It wasn't long before she was full on dry humping the pillow while I plowed into her ass like an automaton. The sounds we both made were indistinguishable, and when she tightened up around my cock, locking me down I pulled her hair harder than I meant to and spilled my seed inside her ass.

Her body thrashed and flopped around until I had to hold her to keep her from hurting herself. She was in the throes of one of those intense orgasms that make her lose her shit and I knew that if I touched her anywhere now she'd pass out, that's how sensitive she is when she gets like this.

"You're fine baby, come down for me." I kept repeating those words in her ear as I held her around her middle with her back pressed tightly against my chest and my cock still locked off in her ass that was strangling the shit out of it.

"You good?" I heard the change in her breathing and kissed her neck lovingly before laying her down on her stomach and easing my cock out of her ass gently. My cock was still hard, still searching, so I got the wet cloth and cleaned her ass juice off of me before lifting her ass back in the air.

This time it was her pussy I was after, that sweet pink clam with cock juice leaking out of it still. Since she was still far-gone I didn't have to be careful with her, I knew just how much she could take when her body was on fire like this, knew just what buttons to push and I pushed them all.

First, I slammed my cock home until she was taking all of me, then I went in search of her sweet spot with the tip of my cock. Once I found it I took great pleasure in butting against it like a battering ram while she screamed and creamed all over my rod.

She got a firm grip on the sheets and canted her ass in the air and I knew I was in for a sight. With her ass in the air she planted her knees firmly in the mattress and once she had herself positioned the way she wanted, it was on.

I didn't even have to move now, she was doing it all for me, slamming her pussy back hard on my cock as she fucked the pillow between her thighs. When her back turned red and she tossed her head from side to side I knew what was coming, so I reached under her for her tits and squeezed.

My cock reaped the benefits as her pussy did gymnastics and hot pussy juice flooded my cock and dripped onto to my balls. She went stiff as a board, her pussy squeezing and releasing around me while she grunted like a little pig. It's going to be a long night.

LIZ

I'M DONE FOR, utterly and completely done. I can't feel my limbs and I find it hard to breathe but I'd do it all again in a minute, as soon as I catch my breath that is. I looked over at him where he was fighting to breathe himself and a feeling of such immense joy rushed through me it stopped me in my tracks.

I felt like crying and didn't know why, and as if sensing my need, he reached over and dragged me into his arms and onto his chest. We laid there in silence, both lost in our own head as we came down. His hands moved soothingly along my back as I listened to the beat of his heart beneath my ear.

We can't keep going on like this. I keep telling myself that. One of us will kill the other, there's no way this much pleasure can be sustained for any length of time. I keep trying to imagine a time when it's no longer like this and it makes me sad.

I've heard all the stories, new as I am to this relationship business. And I know they say that the honeymoon never lasts very long, but I think something inside me would die if that were to happen to us.

"What are you thinking about?" I'd been almost half asleep, lulled there, by his fingers playing in my hair. Now I propped my chin on my hands that were laying on his chest and looked up at him. "Will it always be like this between us?" I regretted the question as soon as I asked, mostly because of the silence that followed as he looked back at me.

"Yes!" Until he said the word I didn't realize I'd been holding my breath. I believed him, maybe because of the look in his eyes when he said it, or maybe because I wanted to so badly. Either way his reassurance made me feel all warm inside and I cuddled into him, happier than I've ever been.

Things had been happening so fast that I'd hardly had time for regrets or even time to think. It seems like one minute he was rescuing me in that parking lot and the next we were here. And it's been one continuous ride on the merry go round.

It's been so good that I've hardly given Robert a second thought. There were no more phone calls after Drake made me change my number, and I hadn't heard anything since the restraining order was issued. As for the message on the high school forum board, there hasn't been anything since and principal Thorne hadn't brought up the issue since that first day.

Some mornings I awaken telling myself that today might be the day it all blows up in my face, my luck can't hold forever, and then the whole day goes by with nothing happening and I spend the night in his arms all over again.

And now this thing with his mother and grandmother, something I was sure would put an end to us, had turned into something else. I'm almost inclined to believe that life was repaying me for the crappy childhood I'd had.

There was no other explanation for why things should've turned out so differently for me. Why no one was pointing fingers and whispering behind my back the way I'd always feared, and why I'd been lucky enough to find someone like him.

Someone so mature and grounded. Someone who knew what he wanted even better than I did. And someone who isn't afraid to go after it all, no holds barred. I have no doubt that all of this played a huge part in his mom's capitulation. That had he been anyone else, things may not have turned out this well.

But every day I remind myself not to take it for granted, not to get ahead of myself, because there's still a danger that things could go wrong. But when I'm in his arms like this, when we've shared a night like the one we just had, I find it hard to hold onto those fears.

"You wanna go for a drive in the country tomorrow?" I nodded my head and wrapped my arm around his chest. It's the only way we can be together away from here, is if we leave town. I don't hold out any hope that that would change any time soon, that would be asking for too much.

And I hate thinking about the time he'll be going away to college though that's months away. But every once in a while the thought sneaks in and steals my joy. He never mentions it, never brings it up, and I'm hard pressed to know if it's even crossed his mind. Or if for him, we will be over by then.

"Lizzie…baby… go to sleep. Whatever you're thinking is making you tense." I closed my eyes and almost purred like a kitten when he ran his fingers through my hair and kissed my head. And just like that, I fell asleep.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

Until I took all the SAT subjects we spent each Saturday driving out to the neighboring towns, and most Sundays at home in bed, or at my nana's house. Now the test were behind me and even without the scores coming in as yet, I had no doubt that I'd aced them. It's not like I didn't already have my university picked out.

"So where have you decided to go?" I reminded her about our little out of town trip. She'd been keeping her choice a secret until now and the only issue I had was that she insisted on paying for it. When I told her that that made no sense since it was my idea, she put her foot down. If I didn't give in, then we'd go nowhere.

She seemed to think that she had to prove to me that she wasn't in it for the money, something that had never crossed my mind. As far as I can tell she's not very materialistic, something I plan to change as soon as I get her away from here.

That's another thing. I'd come up with the perfect solution. In the weeks since her class had ended and I had more time on my hands, I'd taken to scoping out the other schools in the area around my university online.

I'd found a prep school that would be perfect for her, and since the town was pretty much like ours, with just a few thousand more residents, I think she'd like it there. Halfway across the country though it was.

I haven't told her yet, I'm waiting for the right time, and for when it doesn't seem like I'm planning her life for her which I am in essence, but what are the choices?

It's a given that a long distance relationship will not work for us, I can barely go a whole day without seeing her as it is. Plus I've been doing my best in the last few weeks to get her with child. In my diabolical mind, that would put an end to any argument she might have. I never said I was perfect.

So now with the SATs out of the way, and my boys' futures looking a little bit brighter because they had something more than football to fall back on, things were falling into place.

"I want to go to the Cape, I've always wanted to, but never had the chance."

"Sounds good, and with summer approaching it's the perfect time. That's a good four hours drive though, you want to fly out?"

She shook her head no. "No, I want to see everything. I read up on the drive and it's supposed to be very pretty between here and there and we don't even have to take any back roads to enjoy the view."

"Okay, when are we leaving?"

"Well, I was thinking, since school's going to be out soon, why don't we wait until then, that way we can go for longer than a weekend." She looked so hopeful at such a small thing.

"That sounds good, so, what are you thinking, a week?" She nodded her head and gripped my hands in excitement.

"Oh…"

"Oh what?"

"What's your mom going to say?"

She bit her lip, her eyes losing some of their spark. "Come 'ere." I turned her face to mine and kissed her. We were sitting on the couch in her living room, which is our new hangout when we're not fucking, which we do plenty of since we're basically stuck in the house so as to to keep our relationship a hidden secret.

"Mom isn't going to say anything, she likes you remember?" Though there've been a few rough spots here and there, mostly due to the time I spent away from home, things were still moving along nicely. I always take the blame when something pisses mom off, keeping the heat off my Lizzie.

I think mom knows by now not to rock the boat too much, since I'd made it known in not so many words, that Lizzie is now my first priority. Drew had come through and I was just waiting for school to be over and for her new job to be squared away before going forward with the rest of my plan to fuck up Robert's life.

I've decided to tell her about the move when we go away, which should be in another month or so once school lets out. I'm not sure how she'd take it, but I'm banking on the fact that she loves me and wouldn't want us to be apart any more than I do.

That one kiss turned into me having my hand on her tit and the other between her thighs while I sucked on her tongue. Her pussy was wet and my fingers were right there since my little prude had taken to not wearing panties or bras in the house.

I'm loving this new sexual wildness in her, though sometimes she does that fainting shit that scares me to death. Now I rubbed my fingers through her pussy lips and went inside. I wanted to feel her nipple between my fingers while I fingered her, so ordered her to remove her top while I went to work on her shorts and mine.

With both of us naked I pushed her back over the chair arm and opened her legs to my view. Her pussy already had drops of her essence pearling at the lips and leaking out of her slit.

I breathed in deep inhaling her scent as I leaned down over her and spread those pink lips open as wide as they would go. I love the way she responds when I run my tongue along the inside of her cunt lips. And even more when she grunts at the feel of my tongue on her clit.

I teased her clit back and forth with my stiff tongue and drove two thick fingers inside her cunt. She fucked herself on my hand and filled my mouth with cunt juice while grabbing my head with one hand and tearing into her plump nipple with the other.

Her ass moved around and around in a circular motion as she fucked herself on my tongue and fingers. I pulled my tongue out and looked up at her, her eyes dreamy and filled with lust. "I'm going to fuck you so hard." I got to my feet with my cock in hand, stroking it to keep it hard.

"Hold your legs open wide and pull them back to your ears." I stood next to her on the couch looking down at her as I stroked my cock, letting precum drip onto the lips of her cunt and run down to her slit.

Her eyes were glued the fast stroking of my hand along my cock and when she bit into her lip and moaned I felt my knees begin to buckle. I got back on the couch between her obscenely spread thighs and led my cock into her pink cunt opening.

She growled and fucked her hips up at me, as we both watched my cock dip in and out of her. I tease fucked her with just the fat head of my cock and her pussy yowled at me. I fucked right in going deep and stroking into her belly a few times before going back to teasing her again.

“Drake, stop, please, I want it…” That sexy whine of hers made my balls tingle but I like the way she begs too much to give in right away. I kept tease fucking her to madness until she grabbed my hips and pulled me in hard.

I thought I’d broken her back against the chair arm the way she bucked and bit into my chest. But from the way her pussy clenched and released around my cock I realized she was just cumming. The harder I fucked, the longer she came and grunted. Her nails were biting into my ass now as she fucked herself wildly on my cock.

“You want me to cum inside you? Huh?” One of the reasons I was sure she wouldn’t be too mad if I breed her is because of her reaction every time I ask her that question. As soon as I mention cumming inside her-her pussy goes nuts.

“Lizzie, baby, do you want my baby?” Oh shit! If I thought she’d lost it the first night I touched her ass hole but that was nothing compared to what my words did to her this time. Her body went taut and tight, her pussy just clamped and stopped and her head made jerky movements as her hand held onto my neck.

Then as if prodded by something, her whole body went into motion. She fucked herself on my cock at rapid speed until her pussy spat cum out like a geyser, something I’d never seen before, female ejaculation and of course her eyes had rolled back to the back of her head.

Her grunting started and all I had to do was just stay still while her pussy took over. I knew what it would do to her but I was in the mood to push all her limits. So I leaned over and bit down hard on her nipple. I had to drop her nipple really fast when her body started thrashing around on the couch.

It took me five minutes to get her under control by pinning her to the couch with my cock. I held her overheated body close to mine with my arms wrapped tightly around her while between our thighs her cunt was putting my cock through his paces.

It never fails, and never ceases to amaze me, her penchant for wild sex. It’s part of the reason I’m so hooked, and one of the things I hope will never change. The fact that when she walks out that door, and she's around anyone else, she's the most demure, angelic being you've ever met.

But once I get near her she becomes this wild sensual being that I know would keep me enthralled for the rest of my life. But now her very intense reaction to the question of wanting my child gave me hope.

I wasn't done with her not by a long shot. So once she came down from her sexual high I got after her again. My cock was still hard and my balls still full. I had a heavy load to give her, one that I was banking on to do the deed if I hadn't already. She hasn't had a period since I've been here but I'm giving it more time.

Now I slow fucked her, getting her worked up again. I looked down between us at where I'd pulled my cock all the way out until just the thick purple head sat at the entrance to her slit, dripping precum into her cunt.

"I'm going to fuck my seed into your womb this time." I looked into her eyes that were diluted to the point that I could barely see her irises. "Would you like that? Would you like me to fuck into your womb so we can be sure? To make a baby?" I whispered the last sentence in her ear then licked and bit it.

Damn she was nearly catatonic now. Her pussy was breathing hard and fast around my cock, while her lungs seemed to be fighting for air. Her nipples were hard and pointed while her legs twitched against the couch where they'd dropped in her earlier frenzy.

Now I took her ass in my hands and lifted her off the couch and into my thrusts. "It's going to hurt a little bit when I fuck my cock into your womb past your cervix. But when I wash your womb with my cum it's going to feel so good." Or so I've heard, I've never fucked around with anyone's womb before.

She didn't give a shit that I'd just told her I was gonna give her pain, all she wanted was to fuck. I love it when she's this far-gone, and if I weren't on a mission to breed her tonight I'd have gone after her ass. Maybe later, after I've flooded her womb three or four times.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

'School's out for summer… school's out forever….' Someone was blasting that across the school compound at full volume. The parking lot was a crowded mess with kids getting in their final goodbyes, some of them for the last time.

I had a lot more to be excited about than most though, and as much fun as I was having with my boys I couldn't wait to get home to Lizzie. She still had a couple more days left before her classes were over for the semester, but I no longer worried about us being found out, and it making things hard for her.

I'd talked her into quitting her job after this semester was over. She'd given me this wayward look when I brought it up and I understood her hesitance when all I was giving her was my word with no proof that I had a better alternative.

But the fact that she took that leap, that she trusted me enough to do so, told me a lot about the woman I was planning to spend my future with. I'm forever conscious of her trust and what it means to us and the life we'll have together.

I'd sent in her information to the new school that was less than ten minutes away from where my university is going to be. I even found a condo off campus for us to live in and pretty much everything was set. Big thanks to computers and technology that allowed me to do everything over the net. All that's missing is her knowing what I'd been up to and agreeing to it.

I received her acceptance letter just the day before which is good since I'd got her to quit before it came in. I'm so good, I'd told her to tell the principal about Robert's attack and the fact that he was the one to post the rumor on the forum at about the same time she put in her resignation.

This way, the other woman would blame those circumstances on her wanting to leave and there would be no friction between the two friends.

I was still trying to protect her from anyone finding out about us just yet.

Of course in the future they'd know, when we come back to visit. But I wouldn't give a shit then and neither should she. As long as I get my ring on her finger everyone else can get fucked for all I care. I just have to get her out of the line of fire first.

So of course I had a big ass smile on my face and so what if my friends thought it was because I was sharing in their jubilation at closing out this chapter of our lives? I hung around long enough to make it look good, but as soon as I felt it prudent, I was out.

I'm still amazed that no one had caught on to us, grateful as I am. But now I felt the burden of that ease just a little bit more from my shoulders as I made my way to her house, our house. I've barely been home two days out of the week in months.

She was puttering around the kitchen in her cute little shorts with the music blaring, something else I'd gotten her into. The smile on her face, the way she met me at the door and flung her arms around me, I could get used to.

"Hop up." I helped her jump into my arms and wrap her legs around me as I went in for a kiss. Her tiny ass was the perfect fit, her pussy hit me just where I needed her to. "Missed me?"

She nodded her head and went back in for another. "Wait, I have something to show you." I'd planned to tell her about the new job and the fact that I was taking her with me when we went away on the trip, but I was too excited to hold it in any longer.

I walked into the living room and sat with her on my lap while I dug around in my pocket for my phone. "Here, read this." I pulled up the message from the headmistress of the prep school and held my breath. This is do or die time. She'd either be really pissed or very pleased.

She read it over twice before looking at me in confusion. “I don’t understand what does this mean?”

“Remember when I told you to quit your job here?” She nodded, “well I got nana to pull some strings to get you the job there. But…” I stopped her when she made to say something.

“It was your credentials that cinched the deal. You have an appointment to meet with the headmistress in a month’s time, I figure you could do that when we go to check out the condo I found for us.”

She wasn’t saying a word and for a brief moment I thought I’d overshot it. “You mad? I know it’s a bit heavy handed, but it was the only solution I could come up with that would work for us.” She was shaking her head before I finished speaking.

“No, I’m not mad, I’m just a little bit amazed I guess.”

“Amazed at what?” She turned to look at me.

“That you’d go to all this trouble.” She looked like she wanted to cry.

I pulled her in and kissed her lips, relieved that we weren’t about to have our first real argument. “I told you I was going to take care of you didn’t I?” She nodded her head and wrapped her arms around my neck.

“I’ve heard about this school but even with my credentials I would’ve never gotten in. There’s a waiting list for teachers.”

“Well, now you’re in…”

“Drake do you know what this means?” She clasped my face between her hands her eyes alight with glee.

“This place is so far away from here that we can be together, we wouldn’t have to hide, and I wouldn’t have to fear losing my job.” She all but danced in my lap as she kissed my face all over in her happiness.

Just wait until she sees what else I have in store for her once we go away on our little trip. It was close but I was able to hold onto that for now.

LIZ

I'M ON CLOUD NINE. It's true I took a chance, one that has given me nightmares ever since I did it, but I'm glad now that I did, that I took that much needed leap of faith and put my trust in him. I can't believe that he'd done this behind my back, that he'd taken the time and the initiative to plan this far ahead.

It can only mean that he means for us to stay together, as if his constantly telling me he's going to plant his child in me isn't enough. Though as the adult I know that the reality will be a very different story, I must admit to how hot it makes me each time he says it. Especially since he always waits until he's buried deep inside me to whisper it in my ear.

As for the pain it causes me whenever he goes too deep and enters my womb, I'm getting used to it. In fact I've come to crave that sweet burn which he always fulfills these days. And now to know that after the summer is over we can be together away from here, some place where we can be free to be together is almost more than I can stand.

We're going away in a few days because I still have two more days of class before I'm set free. But I can't wait. Our weekend drives are fun and allows us some freedom, but I'm dying to get away with him, away from prying eyes and wagging tongues.

I threw my legs across his lap to straddle him once I remembered that I'd turned the oven down and it was going to be at least another forty-five minutes before the lamb was fully cooked. That's just enough time to show him my appreciation.

I ran my fingers teasingly up his chest, around his neck and into his hair before retracing them. I found the lump behind his zipper and pressed down with my palm, watching his eyes as they got that glassy look in them.

Lifting my hands over my head I motioned for him to take off my shirt while crushing my wet heat down on that beautiful lump of flesh that I could feel jumping to get out. I find that if I tease him this way before he gets undressed I can get him to lose control.

I nipped his nipple and pushed off the couch to reach the zipper of his jeans and pull them down, being careful not to hurt him. His cock sprung up in the air once I got his shorts and jeans down around his ankles and I fell on it like a starving wolf.

There's something about his taste that gets my juices flowing; that makes me hot enough to do anything. I like the way he sat back and let me do anything I wanted, which right now was to play with his massive cock to my heart's content.

I sucked down to his balls and back to the tip until he squirmed and fisted his hand in my hair and I loved every minute of if. I could feel my juices dripping as my body prepared itself for his loving and could barely contain myself.

When his cock throbbed on my tongue and his precum flowed harder I knew it was time. With a sultry look in my eyes, one I know he can't resist, I turned my back and got down on my knees in front of him.

I reached back and spread my ass cheeks open the way I knew would drive him crazy, in an invitation for him to take me wherever he chose. Though my pussy was aching for the feel of him driving home, it had been days since he'd fucked me in the ass and I wanted it, I wanted it bad.

He fell to his knees behind me and gripped my hips painfully hard between his hands, and then I felt his tongue in my pussy and my toes began to curl. Then he was there, his tongue dipping into my ass so beautifully that I couldn't hold back the scream of pleasure.

He took his sweet time tormenting me with his tongue until I thought I would go out of my mind. And just when I thought I couldn't take it anymore, he slammed into me hard, knocking me off my knees.

I'd pushed him too far this time it looks like, but that's just the way I wanted it. I wanted him out of control, wanted to feel him pounding into me like a madman who'd lost all control because of me and what I'd done to him.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

She was so excited it was hard to miss. We'd left the city limits behind us about an hour ago and since then she's been like a kid in a candy store. Exclaiming over each new thing she saw that gave her pleasure.

We'd left a little later than we'd planned because we'd stayed up late the night before into the early morning. It seems she was overly excited because of the steps I'd taken to secure our future and it had taken a whole lotta fucking these last couple of days to calm her ass down.

My cock was raw but happy and her pussy was full of cock cream. Ten minutes before we left the house I was still balls deep inside her and it was only because I wanted us to have this week away that I'd let her up.

Now she was bopping around on her seat and talking a mile a minute as she looked over the little planner she'd brought along where she'd outlined all the things she had planned for us to do.

I could've told her we weren't going to get to half that shit, not with her cock hungry ass, but why rain on her parade? As far as I could see, we'd spend the first few days holed up in the hotel on the beach fucking, only coming up long enough to eat.

I might relent enough to take her walking on the beach at night, and put aside a day for shopping, but other than that, we'd be doing the same old same old, just in a different location and with no fear of being caught hanging over our heads.

Mom hadn’t said much of anything when I told her we were going away, but she was a little jealous that I’d gone to nana for help with getting Lizzie the job and hadn’t come to her.

She was also getting nervous at the fact that I would be going away from home soon, probably for the last time barring school vacations, and her baby boy had all but already moved out of the house.

I was trying hard not to be a selfish prick, but the fact that Lizzie was all alone was a deal breaker for me. I couldn’t see leaving her alone every evening while I hung around at home, which usually involved me being in my room anyway.

Plus the fact that dad had told me all that was needed to bring mom around was the reminder that nana had given her a hard time when they started dating and she hadn’t liked it, so it would be hypocritical of her to do the same to the girl I was in love with.

She still has her moments, but that little reminder usually has her backtracking fast. I’m being greedy you see. I want to have my family and my woman without any friction whatsoever, and though it’s like walking a tight rope sometimes, especially when mom goes into one of her moods, I’m not willing to compromise.

And after this little getaway I’m hoping never to have to again. By the time we head to the university to check out the area we’d be living in, I want her to be free of all doubt and insecurities.

I’d have thought with all the big plans I was making and all the upheaval they were gonna cause in my life that I’d be just a little freaked, but I’m not. I’m excited, invigorated, and I can’t wait to see where life goes from here.

I smiled over at her and took her hand raising it to my lips for a kiss as I thought of the ring I had hidden away in my luggage. I’d spent a lot of time on the design, wanting something that speaks to her, to who she is.

I wanted something romantic and found a Harry Winston original cushion cut diamond circa nineteen forty-seven. It was maybe a little bigger than her small frame should carry, but it was an original and I didn’t want to mess with it. She’d get a kick out of knowing the ring’s history too I’m sure, romantic that she is.

I had the top down on the Phantom, which is what I’d chosen to drive, and her hair was blowing in the breeze, the sunlight reflecting in the red tresses like a fiery gem. Her face was pink and soft and clear of makeup except for the lightly tinted gloss she wore on her lips.

“I want to fuck you.” Just looking at her can do this to me, and it didn’t matter that we were going down the highway with nothing but trees and rock on either side. That didn’t stop me from looking around for a place to pull over so I could slate my thirst.

We ended up parked in a cove of trees just off the highway but far enough not to be seen. We could hear the cars going by as I had her spread out in the backseat with her legs hitting the roof of the car which I’d pulled up for added privacy just in case someone came wandering around.

I was still amazed even as I was fucking her, that the need had hit me so hard. It’s like the more I have of her the more I want her. No amount of fucks seems able to satisfy this need I have for her. Sometimes she gets melancholy and gripes about the fact that she’s five years older and what that’s going to mean, as we get older.

Those times I just have to take her to bed and fuck her silly until the next time it pops into her head. I don’t even think about our ages, never have to be honest. When I look at her I don’t see that shit.

I just see beauty, a beauty that I want to possess for a lifetime. I see the face that I want to see for always and a day. And those eyes, no matter what I know those eyes will never change.

It was hot in the car but that only added to the buildup of lust between us. Her pussy was wet as fuck; she was getting off on fucking out in the open, like I knew she would.

She was looking up at me with her hand on my chest as I was giving us both a break to catch out breaths. She’d just had another orgasm and I was fighting mine off for as long as I could.

“Can you hear the cars going by?” I started fucking into her as I spoke. Nice and slow and deep. “Imagine someone needs to use the bathroom but there’s none for miles. So they pull off the road and they’re headed here.”

“Can you see it? See the car making the turn then they see ours, sees it moving from side to side and then they figure it out. It turns them on, knowing that we’re fucking here out in the open for anyone to see.”

She arched her back off the seat until only her head and ass were touching it. I fucked into her harder now knowing that my words and the scene I’d painted were all that she needed to cum.

“Now the car’s moving faster, they can hear your screams, he’s touching her through her panties as they listen to you scream for my cock…” She damn near broke her neck when she came and had I not been holding on she would’ve thrown me off.

I came when her pussy clutched around my cock and she sucked me in deeper. Her grunts were hoarser than usual as she ran her hands over my back and down to my ass. She lifted her legs around me and ground her pussy up and down my cock as the last of her orgasm coursed through her.

My cock was buried to the hilt still dripping cum snot inside her. Her aftershocks lasted way longer this time and I got the idea to do her on the beach at least once to fulfill her baser needs.

Back in the car and on the road again with the top down, she was back to being prim and proper with her little planner in her hand and her lips going sixty knots a second. I smiled behind my hand as I thought of the enigma that she is.

“Why are you smiling?” I shook my head and concentrated on the road.

“Nothing, I love you that’s all.” That got her to scoot across the seat and rest her head on my shoulder. I could smell her in the wind. That savory scent of pussy and cock juice heating between her thighs.

She dropped her hand in my lap and I was sure that my assumption of this week’s agenda was on the money. The farther away from home we got, the more relaxed and free she appeared. The fact that she was rubbing my cock as we drove along the highway was also a dead giveaway to the sort of mood she was in.

“You want more?” She nodded her head and rubbed me harder.

“We have about another hour and a half, can you hold off?” Again she nodded her head but she unzipped my cock and took it out. I almost asked her who was the teenager here, but was having too much fun to do or say anything that would make her stop.

Like I said, we’d left a little later than we’d planned, but although it was late evening it was nowhere near dark enough for what she did. She leaned her head down and sucked my cock into her mouth.

Maybe she felt this bold because there was a rock cliff beside us on this stretch of the highway, which made it impossible for two cars to ride side by side. Whatever the case I was equally pleased that there were hardly any other cars on the road since I had to slow down to keep us from crashing.

Only when she had a mouthful of cream was she happy to move back into her seat and go back to describing some of the things we passed like she hadn't just blown me in a moving car on a popular highway.

Sometimes I get a thought that makes me cold and send shivers down my back. Like now. That thought is always, what would've happened if we hadn't met? It scares me to think that that shit could've been a possibility.

That the mate of my soul could've passed me by had someone else not been hurt. Or if the principal hadn't met her all those years ago and seen something in her. If not for any or all those things, we may never have been. Those thoughts only make me want to hold onto her tighter.

To spend my life and hers, making up for all that she'd missed in the most formative years of her life. I never forget for one second, how different our childhoods were. Though she never brings it up, it's one of those things that I can never forget. That and what Robert had done to her.

Speaking of him, part of the reason I'd wanted us to leave so soon after school let out for both of us was because of the things I'd set in motion. Because I didn't want him associating what was about to befall him with her, I'd gone to great lengths to maneuver things my way, to get her out of the picture.

You see I knew he wasn't going to just go away, that somehow he'd find a way to fuck with her at some point in the future. That's why I'd had Drew hack into his shit so we could see everything he did on line. Somehow I knew that that was the way to go with someone like him.

Since then we'd caught plenty, and that, added to the other shit Drew had dug up from his past, way before she came into the picture, should be enough to put him away. I'm not above using my family's clout to get him sent away for longer if the justice system proves fractious. Any man that would go to the lengths he went to should never be free to walk the streets again.

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

We got there way after check-in and she was already tired. I made a quick call to room service and dragged her into the shower to clean up so we wouldn't have to do it later. She was fussy and a little bit out of sorts so I put her to bed and told her I'd wake her when the food came.

She curled up beside me and went to sleep while I turned on the TV. I kept looking at her every few seconds to make sure she was okay, since I had no idea why she was so tired all of a sudden. A hand placed on her forehead didn't detect any heat so she wasn't coming down with a fever.

By the time there was a knock on the door almost an hour later she was making waking noises. She picked at the steak she'd said she wanted and barely looked at the rest of her meal. She did throw back about a gallon of water though without bringing it back up so I figured she'd been a bit dehydrated. Maybe fucking her in a hot car in a dense forest on a summer day wasn't the best idea.

"You want to go for a walk or you want to rest up and start fresh tomorrow?" She looked towards the sliding glass doors that led to the balcony and beyond, out to the night sky with a few smattering of stars. We could hear the water crashing against the rocks that lined part of the beach and she seemed to get a second wind because her eyes lit up and she pulled me up from my seat.

“Wait-wait-wait, I need to grab something.” She made as if to head for the door, calling over her shoulder for me to meet her downstairs.

“Elizabeth!” She stopped short and looked back at me.

“Wait right there don’t you dare go out that door.”

She looked a bit startled at first but she took her hand away from the door and stepped back. I may be overreacting but I’m not too jazzed about her wandering off anywhere without me. That’s something I’ve seen dad do my whole life. Not just with mom, but with us kids as well.

Whenever we travel anywhere, whether in the states or abroad, he’s a stickler for that shit. She may have no idea of my worth or my family’s for that matter. But it’s something we’re never allowed to forget. Not since some ancestor in the last century was taken without a trace.

It struck me then as I went into the bedroom to grab her ring, that we’d never had this conversation. I’m sure she had to know something of my family’s wealth. You can’t step foot on nana’s property, or my parents’ for that matter and not know that there’s serious money there. But somehow it’s never once came up in conversation.

It’s a testament to the kind of person she is as well that not once, in all of mom’s arguments had she hit on that as a possibility. That Lizzie could be after my money. It sure was a relief.

Not that I’d spent any amount of time worrying that the females I’d tangled with in the past were after my bank account. But none of them had ever meant what she does and I was never in any danger from them.

Lizzie on the other hand is a whole other kettle of fish. Had she been so inclined she could’ve taken me for everything I have. I came back out of the bedroom to find her standing right where I’d left her. She didn’t look like she wanted to argue and she didn’t question why I’d made her stay.

It’s little things like that that makes our relationship run smoothly. She’s intelligent enough to know that I must have a valid reason for calling her back, and so she wouldn’t make a big deal out of it. Something I appreciate since I hate wasting my breath.

SHE’S A HARDHEADED, opinionated brat. Okay let’s rewind shall we. Last night we’d walked hand in hand from the hotel to the water’s edge. It was dark because there was only that smattering of stars I mentioned earlier and it was much darker down there than it had been from our fourth floor hotel room.

There was no one about so we had the swath of beach pretty much to ourselves and I found a nice place next to an outcropping of rocks, and after making sure there were no little critters running around, I pulled her down to sit on the sand beside me, wishing I'd had the foresight to bring a blanket.

It was the perfect setting, just a little bit of moonlight, waves crashing against the shore and the sounds of frogs and crickets and who knows what else coming from the surrounding grass and foliage.

She repositioned herself to rest back against my knee as we both looked out over the water. So far so good. I had the ring burning a hole in my pocket and an empty head. I'd forgotten all the words I'd practiced saying about a hundred times, no biggie. I can wing it.

"Lizzie?"

"Hmm?"

"Do you want to spend the rest of your life with me?" Not exactly Shakespeare but it was direct and to the point. No way for her to misconstrue where this was going.

"You know I do." At this point she still sounded half asleep but it only took her a few seconds to catch on. She sat up straight and looked back at me in the dark but I had no doubt she could see my eyes just as easily as I could see hers.

"Drake…."

She always sounds like she's near tears when she's excited. I dug the ring out of my pocket and flipped open the box. She didn't need any more light than the one bouncing off the diamond to know what it was and I heard her breath hitch.

She threw her arms around me, taking me down and almost making me lose the ring in the sand, but I couldn't fault her for her exuberance when I was feeling pretty much the same way. I wiped her tears and calmed her down, waiting until she stopped shaking.

"Give me your hand." It was nothing like the many speeches I'd tried out, but I doubt any of them would've made the feeling I had when I slid my ring on her finger any better.

It was the perfect fit, something I'd worried about when I had it cut down to size. She spent a few minutes checking it out as best she could in the limited light before attacking me again.

All of this was fine. The sex we had there behind that rock was monumental to say the least and what we did to each other when we got back to the room hours later is nothing to smirk at.

But this morning when we woke up, when we finally left the bed that is, it's like she'd become a whole other person. Don't get me wrong, she was still my same sweet China doll, but it's almost like the ring was to her what Wonder Woman's cape is to the super hero. She became a little daredevil.

The first thing she wanted to do was go skydiving, first I ever heard of it. In my head this is the woman I've been doing everything but using a syringe full of sperm to get pregnant, and here she was saying she wanted to do this dangerous shit. No!

She didn't like me telling her no and sulked for the better part of the morning. Next she decided we should take a balloon ride, which in and of itself is not a big deal I don't think, but still, heights, insecure footing. No!

From there we moved on to water skiing and that was the final no, which led to her flouncing her way back upstairs to our room where she marched into the bathroom and slammed the door, locking me out for the last ten minutes.

Now I'm no fool. I know how she wants this game to end, but I'm not about to start down that road with her. First of all, since when is she into any of this shit? I'm all for trying new things, and these are all things I would probably have been okay with under different circumstances, but why does her every choice have to involve danger?

"Lizzie!"

"Go away, I'm not talking to you." As first arguments go this one is shaping up to be a doozy. I could always break the damn door down, but that might only scare her back into her shell. If I play possum and wait for her to come to me she might see that as me caving, which would only encourage her in her shit.

So I decided to zing her and get her over her snit. No doubt she'd thank me afterwards. "Lizzie…baby, when's the last time you had your period?" Now mind you, I have a viable reason for asking her this question. I knew where I was going, but apparently her mind took a different route and all hell broke loose.

The door came flying open and a little firebrand came flying out. “Don’t you dare blame this on P.M.S. She pointed her finger and huffed at me.

“Wait what? Is that what this is?” I felt the bitter disappointment in my gut.

“Well, isn’t that what you were going to say?” Now I couldn’t tell her what I was really thinking because it might upset her, what a mess. “Uh, never mind, it’s not important.”

“But…” I could see that mind of hers working and knew when she got it because her eyes and mouth went wide at the same time.

She flew across the room for her bag. She dug through it for her phone and then scrolled feverishly through what I assumed was her calendar. “Oh…oh…Ohhhhh.” She looked at me and then back down to the screen and back again.

“Baby, it’s okay, breathe.” She shook her head as if to clear it and I reached her just in time to sit her on the bed. “Didn’t you realize?” She shook her head before I could finish the question.

“I lost track, everything was happening so fast and I never really paid much attention before because I didn’t have to and then….” I’m guessing all those times I threatened to do it had gone over her head.

“It could be something else. I read somewhere that a woman’s cycle can change if there’s a big change in her life, you know, like having sex for the first time. And since we’ve done it so much…”

Her words trailed off because I guess even she thought that was a bit of a stretch. One-month maybe, but almost three? Still, she refused to accept it until we heard the words straight from a doctor’s mouth. And then she laid down the law that she wasn’t going to one until we returned home and even then we’d have to wait until she found one she liked.

I was all for finding the nearest pharmacy and getting it over with. But according to her, over the counter pregnancy tests aren’t always accurate. Personally I think she’s running scared, which is her way of dealing with change until she’s had time to process. But I’ll be damned if I’m gonna say that shit to her out loud.

No amount of arguing could change her mind so there we were. Me, a hovering mess just knowing she was pregnant with little Drake, and she, doing her damnedest to pretend that I haven’t been fucking her raw for a good few months. I guess you can say we were at a bit of a standoff.

It took me the better part of the day to realize that she wasn't intentionally being a pain in the ass. After I took her to bed and fucked the fire out of her, she calmed down enough to give me some insight into what was going on with her.

It was a combination of things. The ring, the proposal the plans for our future, the big move and the new job, all of it together had sent her into some kind of tailspin that sent her emotions out of whack. Anyone would think she was hopped up on something the way she carried on until she shared that little nugget with me.

Once I learned what was going on with her it was easy to navigate around her spells. I knew now that I had to ease her into shit and not hit her all at once. I'm guessing it's going to be a long time before I discuss finances with her. She might jump off the damn balcony with her shit. Nut!

OceanofPDF.com

DRAKE

For the rest of our stay, though I enjoyed myself immensely, I was still in a hurry to get back home. I wanted that doctor's appointment behind me yesterday. There were two reasons for this.

One, it would get mom onboard one hundred percent, because I'm sure she'd overlook the fact that I'm only eighteen almost nineteen and way too young to have a kid, once she realizes it would mean she'd be a grandma.

And two, I just want it. There's something about her having my kid that gets me in the gut every time. I keep envisioning how she'd look swollen with my baby inside and nothing gets me going faster these days than that image. I can already imagine fucking her pregnant pussy.

Though I'd started down this road for less than ethical reasons, I no longer needed an excuse to tie her to me since she was wearing my ring and was all for the plans I'd made, but I still couldn't let go of the idea. If she isn't already pregnant I'm going to go hard after that shit to make it happen.

Of course I had my moments when I asked myself what the hell was I thinking, but that didn't stop me from taking her without a rubber each and every time we fucked. In fact, I think I put that shit into overdrive and just as I'd imagined, we ended up spending more time in bed or locked together in the shower than outside doing the million and one things she'd had planned.

She didn’t say it, but I got the impression that she was trying to make it a reality too. The way she sought me out constantly to fuck. And she cums hard and fast whenever I whisper that I’m going to breed her just before I cum in her.

By the time we headed back she seemed to have a better handle on things. She’d been researching doctors since the day before and had come up with the idea of finding a doctor in the town next to ours so no one in our little town would be the wiser, something I hadn’t thought of.

It was good that she was preoccupied with that because I came back to the news of Robert’s arrest and the upheaval it caused. The thing that did him in in the end had nothing to do with her, but the cameras he’d installed in the girl’s bathroom at the Sunday school where he taught.

I have no idea how Drew pulled that one off, how he linked it all together and sent it off to the cops without anyone being the wiser, but I was grateful nonetheless. I got him the date he was hankering for and wished him all the best, glad to have that chapter of our lives behind us.

I was beginning to think things were going way too smoothly for us, that everything was just sliding into place with way too much ease, and I started waiting for the other shoe to drop.

I’ve never been a pessimist, I learned that shit from her. I spent so much time reassuring her until she got her head on straight, and then I became the worrier. And by the day we went to the doctor’s appointment almost a week later, I was expecting to be disappointed.

She on the other hand has been pretending that nothing was going on. One moment she’d pretend it wasn’t a thing and the next she’s be making plans for what if.

She’d even stuffed a pillow under her top once to give me an idea of what she would look like. But she didn’t think she was pregnant and didn’t necessarily want to talk about it.

Not once though did she object to the fact that I kept fucking her without protection and when I brought it up last night, while I was buried in her snatch for the third time that day, she said she’d grown used to it to cumming inside her and didn’t want that to change. Such an innocent.

Her argument when I tell her she’s not making any sense is that it’s not that easy to get pregnant. Her mom apparently had waited years to have her so she has it in her head that she’s the same.

So imagine her surprise when the smiling doctor gave us the news that she was already three months pregnant. That takes us all the way back to the first time we fucked or very close.

I couldn't see her face because all the emotion I'd been bottling up inside these last few days hit me at once and my eyes got cloudy. I couldn't deal with my shit though because she was about to freak.

"Head between your knees baby, breathe." I listened to the rest of what the doctor had to say while rubbing her back as she breathed in and out, and accepted all the little pamphlets. I even made the next appointment, all while Lizzie stayed quiet, staring into space.

She held onto my hand on the ride home and I had to help her into the house once we got there. She sat on the couch sipping the bottle of water I got for her still not saying a word.

I sat next to her and waited. I hadn't really had time to process since I'd been so worried about her. "Drake?"

"Yeah!"

"What're we gonna do?"

"What do you mean?" She turned to face me, shifting her body around on the couch.

"Your mother is not going to be happy. We're moving in a couple of months, you're starting school I have a new job and…."

She started to hyperventilate. It's true I hadn't thought of any of that when I set out on my quest to breed her, but I didn't see the problem.

Maybe I'm being too much of a guy, my thought process might be a little off since she's the one who has to carry the baby. "You know I'll be right there with you right, that there's nothing for you to be afraid of."

"But, what if you change your mind? What if it's too much too soon? What if…"

"Hey, look at me." I waited for her to look me in the eye. "Whose idea was this? Who's the one who left the box of condoms on the nightstand each and every time? That's not gonna happen."

"And you left out one very important thing about the future, we're getting married remember? It doesn't matter that we're young, so were my parents, so were my grandparents for that matter. This is not a big deal not if you want it."

I'm thinking she was remembering the days when she had to go it alone. When she had no one beside her, and I understood that every once in a while I'd have to remind her that things had changed. It had only been a few months after all. And a lot has happened between us.

"Now why don't you, instead of worrying so much about everything that can go wrong, think about the joy of having a baby, our baby. Think of how smart he is going to be, and that he'll look like his dad." I twirled my eyebrows at her trying to make her laugh.

"She!"

"Huh?"

"You said he, it could be a she." That one stopped me in my tracks. "I hadn't thought of that." And I'm not about to. As life goes, she was finally coming out of her funk and I was the one starting to silently freak the fuck out.

She got up off the couch and walked around the room but I couldn't hear shit she was saying. Now why the hell did she have to go and put that shit in my head? This whole time, I never once considered that the baby could be anything but male, silly I know, but what the hell?

For the next few days as she got used to the idea and her excitement built, I had to put on a brave face. I'm no misogynist, but the thought of having a little girl, someone as innocent and sweet as her to look after damn near sent me into a complete state of panic.

It's all I can think of now and it's making me nuts. The only reprieve I have is when we're locked together in bed, or on the couch or in the shower, which seems to be way more often than before too since her hormones are out of whack.

In fact, we didn't leave the house for a solid week after the doctor's appointment once she got her head on straight. I was gearing up to tell mom and dad the news about the baby, something I hadn't given much thought to before either.

I guess I was paying for my selfishness with the thought of my kid being a girl. I hid my fear from her very well though, especially when she started coming into her own and getting used to the idea, and it was she who got me to look at things in a whole new light.

She was so excited at the prospect of having the baby now that I caught the fever. Since she didn't seem to care whether it was a boy or girl, I couldn't see why I was having such a hard time with it.

And once I realized my fear stemmed from worrying about how I was going to protect my daughter in this fucked up world, all it took was me reminding myself of all the things I had at my disposal to do just that.

The fact that the kid would probably have a shadow from the day she leaves the hospital is neither here nor there. But if she's anything like her mother, it's a given that I'm gonna go that route.

"WHAT DID the cops say about Robert?" We were once again in bed after another marathon session, coming down from our sexual release. I've been doing some reading and some people say women lose their sex drive during pregnancy. You could've fooled me.

She seems more avaricious now than before, and the only thing that's changed is that I no longer fuck her as hard as I used to, well unless I'm in her ass, which, now that the deed is done, is almost as often as I'm in her pussy.

She's as cock hungry as they come and since the doctor said it was okay who am I to judge? She'd had a meeting with the cops earlier today but I'd had to go take care of some last minute things for our move next week.

Mom had taken to spending most days with her since Jennie had left the country for the summer and of course she was trying to stay on our good side because she wanted dibs on the baby when it comes. So she'd been the one to go with her to the station.

"Oh, they said that since the case with the cameras and stuff and all the other things they nabbed him for outweighs my case, I don't have to go through with it if I don't want to because he's going to be sent away for a long time. They'll still keep me up to date and I can renew the restraining order if I find it's necessary."

"Sounds good!" I rubbed her tummy, which was barely starting to show and she spread her legs. I looked up at her face and she had that look in her eyes. "More?" She slid down on the bed and reached for me.

"Grab the lube."

OceanofPDF.com

EPILOGUE

LIZ

"Elizabeth Davenport come in here." Oh dear, he only calls me by my full name when he's upset about something. And these days that could mean any number of things.

"Yes?" I stepped into the doorway of the study where he was supposed to be doing his homework assignment.

"What is this?"

"What's what?" I walked over to see him re-watching the day's security reel.

"Spying on me again?"

"It's not spying when I'm looking out for you to make sure you're taking care of yourself. The doctor said you should rest, what were doing dusting those shelves?"

"The doctor doesn't know what she's talking about, I feel fine." One episode of Braxton Hicks and he's turned me into his prisoner.

"Lizzie…"

"It was a false alarm remember?" I wrapped my arms around his neck and pressed my growing tummy into his middle.

His hands came around me holding me as close as he could with our baby between us.

“Why won’t you behave? When did you stop listening?” I pouted up at him and he sighed and rested his forehead against mine.

Maybe about the time you put your ring on my finger and I no longer felt like I was alone in the world. Or maybe it was on our wedding night when we stayed locked together all night as you whispered how much you love me.

Or maybe it was when we heard the words you’re pregnant for the first time and you got tears in your eyes. It could be a million and one things.

“I listen.”

“Like hell! Lucky for you winter break is almost here so I’ll be here to keep an eye on you.” The baby was due in a couple of weeks and as much as I wanted him or her to come, I was enjoying my husband’s special attention during this pregnancy so much that I never want it to end.

I’d thought for sure that pregnancy would put a damper on our sex life, but nothing could be farther from the truth. He seems to have a whole new fascination with my body and can’t keep his hands off me.

I feel sometimes like my feet haven’t touched the ground in months, not since our first week away when everything had changed for the better for me, for him, for us. I still look back on that time with fond memories, though we’ve had many more like it since then.

His nanas and his mom had helped me plan the wedding, moving mountains to get it done before we moved here. Since I had no one really, just principal Thorne who seemed in shock by the whole thing but hadn’t passed any judgment, the wedding was mostly his friends and family.

The baby, though not born yet had broken down barriers and the slight friction that remained between his mom and I was no more. These days it’s all we talk about and her excitement has gone a long way to easing some of my own fears.

They were set to come out next week just in time to wait for the baby to come so we could have all the help we need. And beyond all that, each day has been better than the last. It’s got so I stay up late some nights just watching him sleep, asking myself over and over again how I got so lucky.

He takes care of me, even with his heavy study load and his business ventures, which I only learned about after we got married. I sometimes have to remind myself that my husband is only nineteen years old, it seems so surreal.

“I won’t do it again, I was just bored.” Ever since he talked me into taking early leave I’ve been going stir crazy at home alone until he comes home from class. My life had made a complete one eighty, to the point that I don’t even recognize my past anymore. It just seems so far removed from who I am and it’s all because of him.

When he nuzzled my cheek I turned my mouth and accepted his kiss as I felt him hardening against me. I felt sweet liquid heat pool between my thighs and my heart skipped a beat when he lifted me in his arms and headed for the stairs.

DRAKE

“Lizzie, my Lizzie.” I laid behind her and lifted her leg up and out of the way. I hadn’t spent much time putting my mouth on her, because these days she stays wet for me. That could be because I fuck her as often as I look at her and there’s hardly anytime for showers in between each round.

I’m on a constant high these days, what with me getting everything I want while getting to spoil the most amazing creature to ever walk the earth. On my wedding day I wasn’t nervous the way everyone said I would be. When we moved halfway across the country, away from everyone and everything we knew, I didn’t panic.

When I look at her and all she encompasses, like the fact that I’m responsible for this whole being, that for the rest of her life and mine she’s mine, I don’t feel fear or burden the way my mom was afraid of. I feel love, a love so strong it’s hard to believe that anyone anywhere has ever felt anything stronger.

I took my ever ready cock in hand and led it up to her waiting pussy. A pussy that in the last few months, has yet to lose its lure. I’m never happier these days than when I’m inside her. I find no greater joy in anything, no academic achievement, no thousands made in trading, none of it comes even close to what she makes me feel.

I closed my eyes on a sigh that turned into a moan at the feel of her silk walls as they closed around me. She has no idea but I've been scheming again. I love the feel of her so much in her pregnant state that it's going to be my mission to keep her this way for as long as I possibly can.

She pushed back and lifted her ass just slightly to make it easier for my cock so fit into her hole. That sweet pink tunnel that holds for me at lease, all the answers to the life. I put my hand on her tummy where I could see my son or daughter rolling around.

I felt the tightening of her hot cunt as her body reacted to our child playing in her womb. In this moment and all the others like it, my heart is fuller than it's ever been. It's full of her, the baby, this life, everything.

The light caught the brilliant shine of the rock on her hand and my cock dripped precum. Sometimes that's all it takes. That token that says to the world, 'she's mine'. Just as she said the ring she'd put on my finger makes her feel when she looks at it sometimes.

"I love you, you're so tight." I licked her ear and pushed my cock a little deeper. I remember the days of freedom, when I could fuck her as hard and as deep as I want, but there's something to be said about the slow deep fucks that her pregnancy has brought about.

Even though sometimes it feels like my heart will give out, like now, I'm addicted to this feeling. And that is why I've decided to keep my young wife pregnant for at least the next ten years. Just as I knew it would, watching her round belly grow each month has been one of the greatest wonders of my life.

She turned her face and held her lips out for mine. "I love you more." I swept the words from her mouth with my tongue as I surged into her. "Does this hurt?" She shook her head no and dug her nails into my thigh as she fucked herself back nice and slow on my cock.

This is the way we fuck most of the time these days, with her on her side and me fucking her from behind, it's become my new favorite position. Because this way I can see all of her. Her tits with their new ripeness, her tummy that protrudes in front of her.

I lifted my hand to her breast and fondled her, my mouth watering for a taste of the milk that had started gathering there. We'd found that out quite by accident a few weeks ago. I was fucking her deep and long with her ass up on pillows when I leaned over and sucked her tit into my mouth.

That’s when the sweetest warmest thing I’ve ever tasted burst onto my tongue. That night I barely remembered to fuck her gently. I’ve been draining her nipples ever since that night. We’ve even had conversations about what we’re going to do once the baby comes and I have to share. I don’t care, as long as there’s some left for me I’ll take it.

Now her milk started to flow over my hand as I squeezed her gently. Like a well choreographed dance, she lifted her arm out of the way as I lowered my head and cleaned her up. I lapped at the escaping milk until her breast was clean before sucking her nipple into my mouth and sucking down hard.

My hips kept up their slow easy pace, shoving my cock into her balls deep on each stroke. Her pussy opened and closed like a clam with each thrust and I felt her cum on my cock as I drained the last of her milk from her tit.

“I want in your ass.” I slipped out of her and inched up just a little until I was in line with her tight pink ass hole. I rubbed the leaky head of my cock up and down her ass crack and using her juices, eased my cock into her ass.

When I had about five inches in I reached back behind me for the lube that was ever present on my nightstand and squeezed some onto my cock. She’s gotten into wanting me to take her ass without adding any lube first, because she said it gives her a different kind of burn that she’s grown addicted to.

Strange I know, but not as strange as some of the things she eats. Like pickles and ice cream in the same sitting, or sardines on crackers at least once a day everyday. I looked down between us at where my cock was sliding back and forth into her ass chute.

I heard a door open and close somewhere and realized the neighbor had come home. And was reminded of the night before when we heard him moving around and my little freak decided she wanted to play a game of what if.

Like what if he could hear the bedsprings from our bedroom and know what we were doing? Did he put his ear to the wall to listen closely. Could he hear her moans as I fucked her from behind. She came hard and long and it took three rounds to satisfy her greedy pussy as I whispered about all the imaginary people who were listening to us fuck.

We've gotten very good at that game, which still surprises me to this day, because I know for a fact that when we're not fucking, she'd die if she thought someone could really hear us. I never told her that I would never allow that to happen.

That my make believe is because I noticed a need in her and went with it. But there's no way I would ever share her with anyone else, not even in that way. She'd shown her eyes in public once; that was on our wedding day.

It wasn't me who insisted that she go back to wearing her glasses, though I'd wished for it when I saw other men's reaction to her eyes. But she was the one who said she was more comfortable carrying on with things as usual.

Though behind closed doors, I get to see and enjoy them all day. I get to look into them when I'm inside her, when I sit across from her at the breakfast and dinner table. When we're just relaxing at home with our feet up. And I get to see the change in her, in them.

No one here looks at us as anything more than the nice young couple with the fancy cars. I'd played around with getting her a Phantom like mine, but after doing some research I went with the Mercedes G-Class for it's endurance and all the safety features it had that made it just a little less secure than a tank.

I'm slowly working her into a new wardrobe but we're taking baby steps. Because with her newfound freedom she sometimes wants to go back to her teenage days, the years she'd missed out on. But my wife walking around a college town with her fine ass in short-shorts is not something I'm prepared to ever deal with.

I might be bias but when I look at her I see the most beautiful woman in the world. Her pregnancy has given her this magical glow that is hard to resist. Instead of easing any jealousy I might have now that she's carrying my child, it has only exacerbated it. I've never seen anything more beautiful or desirable in my life.

I got my hand beneath her tummy and found her pussy with my fingers while fucking into her ass. "You're cumming again, I can feel you. Go!" She clenched around my fingers and I felt it in her ass.

"I changed my mind, I want to cum inside you." This is the reason I keep a wet cloth and wipes next to the bed. I like to clean my cock off from her ass before taking her pussy again.

I cleaned up and she moved over me, letting me know she wanted to ride. I helped her get into position and watched from between her spread thighs and her huge tummy as my cock disappeared inside her. My eyes were glued to the spot, mesmerized.

"That's so beautiful baby." I ran my hands up her sides and felt the kid kick as I sat up to kiss her tummy then making my way up to her nipple before finding her mouth with mine.

"My beautiful China doll." When she came this time I came with her, my arms wrapped around her carefully so as not to hurt her or my child. She rested her head on my shoulder and I listened to her breathe until her breath evened out.

"Drake?"

"What is it honey?" She turned her face and stared at me, those eyes of hers shining with an inner light, a light that had shown up the day we got married and never left.

"Thank you."

"For what?" I kissed her nose and pulled back to look at her again.

"For loving me this well, for always taking care of me." Of course her eyes filled up with tears because…hormones.

I held her head in my hand and kissed her tears away. "No need to thank me China doll, it's my pleasure." You think I'm going to tell her that I'm the one who should be thankful? Fat chance.

"ARE you sure you're feeling okay?" As we got closer to her due date I was beginning to panic more and more. We'd made a couple of dry runs to the birthing center in the last week but it wasn't enough. I was giving serious thought to checking her in a day or two before.

Then today the family had shown up and we had a full house but that's not what has me worried. She'd done way too much today, and because I know her so well, I could see the fatigue. "I'm fine, just my feet were aching and you took care of that."

I continued rubbing the cocoa butter into her tummy where the stretch marks were the new bane of her existence. She was much bigger than even a week ago which was the other thing messing with my head.

I thought for sure that she'd be too tired, or that with a full house she'd not want to do anything, but I was wrong. She had that look in her eyes that I know only too well. "You want some?" I slid up her body to whisper in her ear.

Although my cock was hard I had enough control to leave her alone. But it was she who reached for me, and she who pulled on my cock until I gave in and fucked her.

Three hours later, just when I'd fallen asleep and the house had settled down, we were up and headed to the hospital. This was no false alarm this time, she was in full labor and I couldn't help but feel guilty. I'd fucked her maybe a little too hard because she was hot as fuck tonight.

Four hours after that I held my baby girl in my arms and cried almost as hard as she was as I looked down at her little face. I looked over at her mother on the bed, tired, pained and the most beautiful thing I've ever seen.

With my luck my daughter was the spitting image of her mother and my heart melted into a puddle right there in that hospital room. All the fear and misgivings I'd harbored about fathering a girl were not even a memory now. All I felt was the joy of holding our little miracle in my arms.

OceanofPDF.com